HOW MUCH MILK FOR ONE POUND OF BUTTER OR CHEESE?—Upon this point many of our practical men differ very materially, and always must differ; not only will different dairies require different amounts of milk for one pound of butter or cheese, but the same difference will also exist among cows of the same dairy.

It will require much less milk from one of our pure Alderney cows, to make a pound of butter, than from one of comon stock; while the latter would profitably make more cheese, to a given amount of milk than the former. A given weight of milk from a cow, well fed on grain, will make more butter than the same amount of milk from the same cow, when fed on hay alone. In one experiment recently tried, it was found that eight thousand pounds made eleven hundred and eighty pounds pressed cheese, ten and one quarter pounds of milk made one pound of pressed cheese.

In another experiment, with two thousand five hundred pounds of milk. It was found to make seventy-two pounds of butter, or thirty-four and three-quarter pounds of milk to one pound of butter, The common idea is that the milk required for one pound of butter, will make three pounds of cheese; but, of course, the rule is not absolute, but will vary with the cow.

THE POULTRY YARD.—Those best able to judge, say that a flock of fowls of the usual size kept on farms if well cared for, will yield annualy an equivalent to the milk of one cow. For this reason it pays to keep a flock of fowls, and give them careful attention. It is easy to keep them in good condition, if any thought is bestowed upon them.

It is necessary to change the cocks yearly in order to keep up the vigor and value of the progeny. They must be kept in a clean and dry roost, and if possible on dry, or at least well-drained range. To secure cleanliness and freedom from insects, the hen-house must frequently be cleaned out, the floors supplied with fresh earth, which is the best disinfectant, and the roost brushed down, or submitted to the fumes of burning sulphur.

Fowls are omniverous, eating every thing that other animals will, and in fact thriving better on a mixture of animal, vegetable, and, grain food, than if fed on a single article. This fact makes them a general scavenger about the farm-house.

More attention ought to be given these small items of profit. During the present winter eggs have been retailing in Portland nearly all the time at sixty cents per dozen, and at these rates the hens have paid many a grocery bill.—Ex.

TO CLEAN PAINT.—Use but little water at a time; keep it warm and clean by changing often. A flannel cloth is better than cotton. Be careful of soap. Put but a little soap or skim-milk in the water; add soap to the cloth when needed. A sharp piece of soft wood is indispensable for the corners; the point will become like a paint brush. A saucer of sifted ashes, used where paint is badly smoked or fly-specks are thick, is better than soap; wipe last with clean wet towel, don't spill a drop of water. Never put soap on glass unless it can be well rinsed, which can never be the case with windows; wash off dirt in clean warm water and dry; then with a paste of whiting and water, and with a little cloth, place a little in the center of each pane. With another cloth rinse over the glass; next rub off with a dry cloth till the window shines like crystal.—[Boston Jour. Chem.

CHICKEN JELLY.—For chicken jelly, take a large chicken, cut it up into small pieces, bruise the bones, put the whole into a stone jar, with a cover that will make it water-tight. Set the jar in a large kettle of boiling water, and keep it boiling for three hours. Then strain off the liquid, and season it slightly with salt, pepper, and mace, or with loaf sugar and lemon juice, according to the taste of the person for whom it is intended. Return the fragments of the chicken to the jar, and set it again in a kettle of boiling water. You will find that you can collect nearly as much jelly by the second boiling. This jelly may be made of an old fowl.

"Farmer Garrulous" says he knows of many instances where co-operation has proved a panacea for the ills of those who co-operate, and he suggests that young men who have to work by the day or month, and who do not like it, unite and rent and run farms for themselves. Their joint capital may stock the farm, and their joint labor cultivate and secure the crops, without hiring help. If they can agree upon the direction and management of farms, in this manner they may succeed. But is it possible to agree?

THE SUPERIORITY of American cattle breeding is evinced by the fact that Col. Alexander, of Kentucky, recently sold to an English gentleman two Short-Horn heifers, the eldest two years old, for $13,000. They are shortly to be shipped to their home on the other side of the water.

VARIETIES.—In planting orchards care should be taken in the selection of varieties from the earliest to the latest. It is well, not to plant too many varieties, but have the larger portion of late-keeping sorts. Kinds known to succeed well in the neighborhood should be selected.

HARD GINGERBREAD.—One quart of molasses, two cupfuls of sugar, three-quarters of a pound of butter and lard; one cupful of ginger, a teaspoonful of black pepper, and a tablespoonful of cloves, cinnamon and allspice.

The sight of the aged restored, the weak eyes strengthened and the perfect preserved.

PHILADELPHIA OPTICAL INSTITUTE,

For the manufacturing of the

CONCAVE CONVEX, CRYSTAL LENSES, LONDON SMOKE AND TINTED GLASSES FOR HEAT OR IN-FLAMED EYES.

The Concave Convex Crystal Spectacles, made by the above institute are now in use by the people, and the rapid and increased demand for them combined with the universal acknowledgment of their superiority in vision and ease to the eye, especially that they are superior to any other glasses in the market.

The majority of Spectacles, (mostly imported) and no matter how fine the frames, contain but a poor and worthless article of glasses, (generally cast or pressed) they are made to be sold only, without any reference to perfection, and are for that reason therefore the great complaint of poor and weak sight. Thousands are using glasses now which tire and fatigue the eye, where the object is to get rid after short usage, or require an intensely strong light and therefore destroying the sight, which, were they properly suited, would be preserved a life time.

The advantages claimed for the Concave Convex Crystal Glasses are the following:

The Lenses are ground of the finest material, pure and hard, and made only for optical purposes, they are therefore not liable to get scratched or dim.

They confer a brilliancy and distinctness of vision not found in any other glass.

They can be used equally well by day or candle light without tiring or fatiguing the eyes.

They are ground mathematically true in the concave convex mirror, according to the philosophy of nature, and shape of corners of the eye, therefore assisting nature only instead of forcing it.

That the lenses are centered correct into the frames.

They can be used longer than any other glasses without changing to a higher power.

The frames are made strong and durable by experienced workmen and warranted to give satisfaction.
