Gov. Pollock spoke in his usual eloquent and persuasive manner, and was listened to with the greatest attention. The Governor's high reputation as a citizen, added to his oratorical powers renders him one of the most efficient speakers in the country, and his efforts are everywhere successful in winning converts to the cause of Republicanism.

Gen. ALBRIGHT is a fluent speaker, and his active participation in the stirring scenes of the rebellion give his remarks an unusual interest just at the time, when the democratic party have placed in nomination for State offices these thoroughly disloyal men. The speaker was called up- spoken of.
