Editors: E. O. GOODRICH, S. W. ALVORD. Towanda, Thursday, Dec. 19, 1872. FOR CONGRESS, Frank C. Bunnell, OF WYOMING COUNTY. ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY, DECEMBER 24. CONGRESSIONAL. F. C. BUNNELL, esq., of Tunkhannock, is the Republican candidate for Congress to fill the unexpired term of Judge MERRICK. Mr. BUNNELL is one of the most promising young men in the District, and was unanimously presented by Wyoming county for nomination for the 43d Congress. If elected, as we doubt not he will be, the people of the District will never have reason to regret their choice. While Mr. B. is one of the most sagacious and successful business men and consistent Republicans in his county, his urban manners and correct deportment make him a general favorite with all parties, and he will receive the largest vote ever given any candidate, if the voters are out. He is entitled to, and we sincerely trust will receive the votes of all Republicans in this county. We are aware that the candidate of the opposition will make strong appeals for support on personal grounds, but we are unable to discern any good reason why Col. FOLLER should be supported by a single Republican in this District. Mr. BUNNELL has yielded a hearty and effective support to the candidates of the Republican party ever since he became a voter, and now asks the support of his fellow Republicans for the first time, and is opposed by a life-long and unscrupulous enemy, not only of the principles every Republican holds dear, but of every prominent man in the party. Besides he is a supple, selfish and tyrannical partisan, always ruling his followers with an iron rod when his selfish purposes are opposed.

F. C. BUNNELL.

Our candidate for Congress was in the South fighting for his country, while his opponent was in Chicago helping to pass resolutions declaring the war a failure. Which is entitled to your support? A MANMOTH BANK. A banking scheme, to be operated on the most extraordinary scale, has recently been brought into public notice by the Hon. Mr. WHEELER, member of Congress from New York, who has introduced a bill into that body "to incorporate the governor and managers of the Eschequer of the United States of America." The capital is to be $100,000,000 in shares of $1,000. Subscriptions are payable three-fourths in legal tender notes and the remainder in gold coin. Not less than three-fourths of the capital must at all times be held by citizens of the United States. To insure the formation of the corporation it is provided that if after a given time the whole capital is not subscribed, any national bank now existing may subscribe upon the same terms, the whole or any part of the capital, and consolidate and become merged into this corporation, provided that it hereby abandons its present organization and its owners accept, in lieu of their present shares in any such bank, shares in this corporation of equal value; but no bank now existing can exercise this privilege without the concurrence and approval of the proprietors and of the governor and managers of the Eschequer of the United States. If more than 100,000 shares are subscribed upon the terms mentioned above, the shares will be divided pro rata among the subscribers. The central office is to be in New York, and branch offices to be established in the fifteen largest cities of the country. The proprietors are to choose the managers for all the offices. Section 6 provides that the corporation shall be divided into two departments—one for banking, and the other to consist of three commissioners for each office, appointed respectively by the President, the Governor of the State, and the manager of the office. These commissioners are to have the authority to issue notes to the banking department, for which gold coin will be required, as security, to one-fourth the amount of the first $200,000,000.

AMENITIES OF LIFE.

One of the greatest evils incident to a political career is the indulgence in personal abuse and detraction in rival candidates. The one just closed was not free from it, although the characters of the two candidates were above reproach. It is natural that men should differ in their views in regard to the management of the political affairs of the country, but it is a shame and disgrace to our nationality that when good men are nominated for office, those who are opposed to them politically seek to work to blacken their characters and attribute to them every species of dishonesty. We hope the time is not far distant when such things will not be tolerated. The following letter from Mr. Greeley's nearest political friend written to the President, shows that no personal hostility is entertained by those who supported the great journalist during the late campaign toward his successful rival. The letter does credit to the head and heart of its author, and is a high compliment to his Excellency: AN OPEN LETTER. Sir: I trust that I shall not be pressed with the necessity of adding to you on the subject of this letter. I want to thank you, not for any favor bestowed on my friends, or shown to me. Thanks for such things are as common as the benefits they confer. I desire to thank you for something greater and better than these; for something much beyond the ordinary practice of high official life. I desire to thank you for the respect shown by you to Mr. Greeley on his death-bed, and for the great respect you paid his character and memory, by your attendance at his funeral. It was a great compliment for the head of a great nation to decline attendance on an official funeral, and to pay the last tribute of respect that a living man could pay to the dead. For your remembrance of Mr. Greeley, dying; for your attendance at his funeral; for the respectful attention you paid to the sad ceremonies of that occasion, Mr. President, I thank you with all my heart and soul. I am very sure that in doing so I but echo the sentiment of hundreds of thousands of your fellow-citizens, whose views of public affairs led them and myself to support, in the late canvass, the man to whom you have shown such high respect. By these acts you have removed prejudices, changed opponents into friends, and shown to the world that great official life need not disdain the better instincts of common humanity. By these acts you have taught the nations, that Americans never forget what is due to the character of their great citizens, and that the passions of an exciting political contest do not blot out the respect that American partisans owe to the good lives of good men. I thank you, Mr. President, and pray that a long and happy life may await you. And when I shall please the Great Ruler to send the angel of death to call you home, may your passage to the tomb be made smoothly by the affections of kind friends, and the grave be covered over you with the heartfelt prayers of your countrymen for your eternal rest. Very respectfully, your friend, SINGLETON TORSEY, New York, Dec. 6, 1872.

LETTER FROM NEW YORK.

We are having horrors and excitement enough to have lasted our fathers a year. In the old steady days of stage coaches, when rail and telegraph were not, the burning of a theatre in Richmond, furnished "horrible" enough for stock speculators of the "swell cast." Nowadays it takes something very extraordinary in its details to get up even a ripple. Within a few days we have had several murders, and only the other day the fire in the Hotel took fire and eleven poor servants girls lost their lives. The neglect of the authorities to execute the law in the many criminal cases which come before our courts is a fact beyond a feeling of insecurity among the people which may lead to the application of some Vigilance Committee Justice. Not only in deeds of violence and blood, but also in a continuation of the old rascalities of the Kings which fastened like incubus upon us, are we having a full supply. To-day a most abundant exposure of robbery has come to light in the matter of a street opening. The commission appointed to assess the damages for opening the Avenue made a report and filed a bill of charges against the contractor, and the cost of opening the Avenue, but only the cost of finding out how much it would cost to do the work. Some friends of reform happened to be in a position to know something about the matter, and they published the bill, and the contractor was reduced to the sum of $15,000. Evidently they would have stolen the $50,000 (they had been exposed just in time. The utter demoralization of those who have controlled our public affairs has reached a point where a community where a public officer were to wrongfully use a petty thousand dollars, he would be held up to universal execration. But I think that there are some honest men in power, and I am in hopes, who will do what they can to check this indiscriminate plundering of the people of this city. It is a very interesting spectacle of a quarrel over the Wolf House Gazette. The general opinion here seems to be that in the last will that Mr. Greeley executed did not admit right to his property. The effort to set it aside, and to give it to the person in power, who will do what they can to check this indiscriminate plundering of the people of this city. FIRE.

After our local page was on the press last evening, a fire broke out in the large stable of Mix & Montagna, on the Northern Liberties. The firemen were promptly on the ground, but the building was destroyed before the steamers got to work, they having to take water from the river, a long distance off. The Nainid's as good service as possible from a cistern in the immediate neighborhood of the fire. Mr. ALZONA's house, just north of the barn, was saved, although it seemed in imminent danger at one time. The origin of the fire is unknown, but from the fact that it was first discovered in the hay, it is believed to have been the work of an incendiary. A quantity of household goods, owned by Mrs. JOHN D. MONTAGNA, stored in the building, were burned. JOHN HARRINGTON, a member of Nainid, 2, fell from the roof of Mr. ALZONA's house and was quite badly injured. Col. FOLLER is willing to promise anything to secure Republican votes. BUNNELL's past life is an earnest of what may be expected of him if elected. Which is the proper criterion by which to judge a man, acts or professions? The House bill abolishing all Internal Revenue Assessors and Assistants, has been concurred in by the Senate. It is estimated that this bill will reduce the expenses of the Government about $2,000,000 annually. Hon. ASA PACKER fell while descending the steps from his mansion to the depot in Marsh Chunk a few days since, and broke his arm.
