COURTSHIP AFTER MARRIAGE.

There was much more than mere witticism in the remark of the bachelor who had paid attention to a maiden lady for twenty years, visiting her regularly every night, whenrallied for not marrying: "If I were married I should have nobody to court, and no place to go at night." He had deeply felt the contrast between his own delicate and etherial enjoyments, and the hard. discontented, fretted life of too many married people, and his way was irony. He saw there was something in courtship which too often exhales and expires after marriage, leaving a cold, dull, monotonous burden, where all was beauty and buovancy before. Let us see what that something is. In courtship nothing is taken for
