Agricultural.

The Elmira Farmer's Club.

That those of our readers who wish to organize a farmers' club for the purpose of mutual improvement in their special business in their own vicinity may learn from others' experience, we condense from the Advertiser an account of the origin, organization and history of the Elmira club, one of the most successful, pecuniarily and intellectually, ever organized in the country.

Just four years ago a few farmers assembled in a wagon shop one evening by the light of a single candle, and proceeded to organize a club or society for the improvement of their methods of farming. There had been no public notice given of such a meeting, only a little casual talk at market or on the street. There were barely ten men at the first organization, but from the first meeting reporters from the city press were invited to report their talks, and the club thus became noted. It now numbers over one hundred members, has a large, new, central hall, belonging to the club, with the first floor arranged suitably for the residence of a janitor's family, the rent of which rooms will keep the hall warmed, lighted and in perfect cleanliness. From the beginning this club has carried out each year some gigantic enterprise of benefit, not only to the Elmira farmers, but to those of the whole northern States. In 1870 it held a grand trial of haying implements on the land of Mr. Holman, its president, which was equal to, if it did not exceed, the great Auburn trial of 1860. In 1871 a trial was had of all kinds of implements for working the soil. In both these years the trials were witnessed by large crowds of farmers who came from far distant sections of the country to learn from actual trial just what machinery they needed in their business. In 1872 the anniversary of their organization was celebrated by a re-union at the house of one of the members. In 1873 a trial of haying and harvesting tools was held on the farm of Gen. Diven, at which the reapers and mowers were worked in every conceivable manner possible, thus "giving lessons" on these machines to the thousands of farmers present. In 1871 a library was started, which now contains twelve hundred volumes, free to members, subject only to the conditions needed for their preservation.

Harvesting Corn.

When this writer was a boy, nearly forty years ago, at my grandfather's farm in Central New Jersey, they used to top the corn, cutting it off just above the ear, binding in small bundles, thoroughly cured, never allowed to freeze, and housed in stack-yard in what was called in those days a "barrack"—bar-rick, old English. The corn when ripe, was husked standing, and always before freezing. It seems quite clear that corn will ripen much more rapidly under this plan of harvesting, than under any present system, it being more accessible to air and sun than when in shocks; and I think a man will husk one-third more in a day when standing, than under the present mode. After husking, the stock were turned into the cornfield to consume the debris, treading down and keeping the hogs where they could be for plowing in the next spring, or immediately in the fall, if the season permitted. For some cause this system was given up and the present one adopted. The cause, in the writer's opinion, was the change from slave to free labor, under the impression that the new system was a labor-saving one. An item presents itself in this connection which is worth noticing, but not pertinent to this paper or occasion.

One main excuse of farmers about here for the delay in the corn harvest is, that they must get in their roots, and apples before freezing, which being less injurious to corn, it must wait until the last. Granted. Then I suggest, as things are to-day, was not the old plan the best, and would not better go back to it?

Dr. Dod by Prof. Mapes came along to lecture on farming, and told us that our stalks were in value one-third of the crop, and proved it by analysis. "But," said he, "you must cut early, stack in small shocks, cure thoroughly, husk as soon as ripe, before freezing, house under cover, chop up fine, and if you cannot steam them, scald and feed with a little bran or a few roots, and you will have food for your horned stock superior to timothy hay."

It is too late for any good to come of these suggestions this year, but let us think of these things hereafter for the coming times. But, as my friend says, "the farmers are the 'best to do' and most independent class on earth," and so all this "pegging away" is of "no consequence" as Mr. Toots would say, and is peradventure too much trouble for those who being so independent prefer to work only when the sign is in Libra [illegible] East Iowa, N. Y.

FARMING TO ADVANTAGE.—I have known two kinds of industrious farmers. I do not include the sluggish and negligent. But of the real hard workers there are two distinct classes. They both rise with dawn and work after dark, and are worthy of success; but one class fails for want of proper economy and management. These will put their energies into one piece of work, and neglect other things which need them more. I knew one man who was so intent on finishing a piece of board fence, that he worked hard at the very time that the weeds, to his roof crop grew from one inch high to ten inches, increasing tenfold the labor of cleaning out at least ten fold, and reducing his crop about one half. Another buys costly tools and lets them rust and rot in the fields because he is so busy with something else, although the labor of housing would be a mere nothing. Another builds a costly barn, and uses up his means so for manuring, cultivating, and draining, when cheaper buildings would have answered. Another works a wet field year after year at great cost and inconvience, and with small results, because he is too busy to underdrain it. He does every thing at a disadvantage. Very different is the course of the good manager. He looks at all his work—has it mapped out before him—estimates accurately the labor to accomplish each job, and the time when it should be done to prevent loss, and then goes on systematically. It does not require great genius to do this, but common sense, and for the farmer to keep his wits about him. That is what makes a man practical and successful.

SUSQUEHANNA
COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

The second winter term of this institution will commence MONDAY, JANUARY 26, 1874.

No pains will be spared to maintain the high standing of the institution, and by carefully looking to the interests of each individual student to make its work even more efficient. Each teacher will have his speciality, and use every facility to make the topics interesting, and to secure the largest possible results in his department.

Classes will be organized in several new studies in Science and Language. Also the classes in English will be remodeled so as to meet the wants of new students desiring to pursue these branches.

To save expense, text books, the same as in the county will be used in the English branches, with the exception of Geography.

To make the sojourn of non-resident students more pleasant, the Principal will use his house—situated but a few rods from the Institute building—for boarding purposes, where rooms furnished throughout and provided with clothes closets, and other conveniences will be furnished for the young ladies.

The best rooms in the Institute will be furnished and assigned to the young men; all will board at the house of the Principal. There will be a careful supervision on the part of the Principal and teachers of the manner in which students employ their time.

Price for furnished room and board, including fuel, lights, and washing not to exceed six pieces, $4 00 per week. Students will furnish their own toilet and be held accountable for the furniture in their rooms.

Those desiring to prepare themselves for the work of teaching during the following Summer, should apply to the Principal at once.

Tuition from Four to Ten Dollars per term, according to studies pursued.

For further particulars or circulars, address the Principal, E. E. QUINLAN, Towanda Pa.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,
FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A FAMILY PHYSIC,
Curing Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach and Breath, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetters, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood, are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful in cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action; and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skilful physicians most eminent clergymen, and our best citizens, send certificates of cures performed and of great benefits they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take; and being purely vegetable they are entirely harmless.
