

<ul> <li>notice. Hand in your orders ten days before yo</li> <li>want to use the articles, and be sure that you will</li> </ul>	April 1, 1873. Towands, Ps.	I am about to relate-began the	remains of a humane skeleton at the	I held out my hand.	vember; consequently it is only about	loom or the shuttle; in both cases	(white), Lloyd, or Floyd (gray),	case had been a sort of suit in chan-
get doors that will not shrink or swell. Terms cas on delivery.	DOCTOR O. LEWIS; A GRADU-	detective police officer-my first pro-	bottom of a well, a short distance		these two times that any eclipse can	draughtsmen are engaged to prepare patterns, which are divided into	Vaughan (little).	cery, having run on from year to vear, both men spending their mo-
Towanda, July 19, 1871. GEO. P CASH.	New York city, Class 1843-4, gives exclusive attention	fessional experience. Perhaps, how-	from the library window.		take place during this year.	squares to facilitate the adjustment	But the general fact in regard to	nev in lawyers' fees without any le-
TNSURANCE The following reli	to the practice of his profession. Office and residence on the eastern slope of Orwell Hill, adjoining Henry	ever, I should call it an amateur	in short Michael Howe had evi-	after all, I was only the legs, and did the running about. You were the		of the loom; in both cases the woven	Welsh surnames is, that they are	gal conclusion.
L able and	Howe's. jan 14, '69.	rather than professional experience,		head and managed the brain work.		fabric passes through a shearing ma-	formed in one way or another from	About a year ago the two farmers
FIRE TRIED	R. D. D. SMITH, Dentist, has	for I was not then a member of the		It was the prettiest piece of calcula-	two sensons But if we watch the	chine to cut and level the surface.	Christian names. Some have per- petuated old patronymic forms, in	awoke on Monday morning to find
Companies represented.	purchased G. H. Wood's property, between Mercur's Block and the Elwall House where he has	force, and took hold of the case mere- ly because it had interested me deep-		tion I ever saw, your reckoning he		One of the most marked differences	which, however, the ab or ap has co-	that each had lost a child, one his 1
LANCASHIRE, PHENIX,	located his office. Teeth extracted without pain by use of pas. Towanda, Oct. 20, 1870vr.	ly. It was my success in this case	and evasions of the law. The ac-	would happen 'round to see the	years in succession, we shall find	between them, however, is this-that	alesced with the Christian name fol	youndest son, the other his only
HOME, MERCHANTS.		and the constation it was my that	cused was tried at once, convicted	hanging. You 'd be an honor to the		the shawl has sometimes a plain cen- tre with a figured border at two or	lowing it. Thus we have Powel from	daughter. Like the houses of Mon-a tague and Capulet, in Romeo and
Mar 19 '74-tf. O. A. BLACK.	PEET & DAVIES, 'ATTORNEYS-AT	afterward decided me in the choice	almost without a plea in his own de-	force, sir."	ing. At the present time she passes	four of its edges; and in such a case	ap Howell, Pugh from ap Hugh,	Juliet, the scions of the two rival
	MERCUR'S BLOCK,	of our really glorious profession.	ience-ior ne could urge nothing but			the border is woven as a broad web.	Prichard from ap Richard, Parry	houses had secretly cherished a fond-
G. W. HEATH	Apr 1' 4. Towanda, Pa.	One evening the papers were full	sentenced in one month's time.	the prison yard. I was, of course,	the star at almost exactly the same	containing several repetitions of the	Irom ap Harry, Price from ap Rice,	ness for one another, and knowing
Has established his business of Manufacturing an Repairing all kinds of	······	of a horrible murder, committed up		Most of those who had a right to be	distance: but if you continue your	patterns, which are afterwards cut	Bowen from ab Owen, Beyson or	the feud between the families, with-
EDGE TOOLS, MILL PICKS, MADE AND DRESSE	HALE & PATFON, AGENTS FOR	town the night before. The parties	the story. T first saw the prisoner in	there were already present, and	observations for four or five months	asunder, and each is sewn on to a	Bennion, or Bunyan from ab Eynon, Bevan from ab Eyen, etc.	out divulging their passion or inten-
He also makes the best STRAW CUTTER now i	CONNECTICUT MUTEAL LIFE INSURANCE CO.	concerned were first - class people, and, of course, the affair made quite	court on the day of his conviction.	among them was the woman in black.	you will find that she passes it per-	shawl edge.	Some simply dropped the Patro-	tion, they met clandestinely and car-
use. All orders filled promptly, at MEANS, ROCKWELL & CO., TOWANDA, PA.	Office No. 3 Griffith & Patton's Block, Bridge Street.	a stir. The circumstances as briefly	and I was strangely drawn to him by	The prisoner would be led forth	ceptibly farther north, and in three		Inrmia sign: honce such names or	ried into effect an elopement.
Jan 14, '74-3m.		as I can state them, were as follows:	his fearless bearing under such fear-	from his cell in a few moments now.	years you will find that she crosses	DIGNITY OF WOMENThere is in	Cadwalader Ellis Griffith Howell	A week passed, at the end of which the father of the runaway
	D A. QUICK, M. D., GRADUATE	Michael Howe, the mürdered man.		He was already bidding Miss Howe		particular (says the Saturday Review);	Jeffrey, Llewelyn, Morris Morgan,	daughter was called on to go to Erie
	PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.	was a wealthy merchant, fifty years		farewell. She, it is hardly necessary		that soft dignity wich belongs to wo-	Owen, Rees, Thomas, etc.	and attend again to the everlasting
TO OUR-PATRONS.	SUGAR RUN, PA.	old or thereabouts. His nearest rel-		to say, still believed firmly in his in-		man who are affectionate by nature, and, timid by temperament, but who	Some in dropping the prenx ab or	lawsuit. Ho went in early to the ative was a beautiful noice, Miss El-		nocence. Should we wait until the	er Aldebaran at every revolution for eight years, until in 1885 and 1886		ap, appended the equivalent English	office of the lawyer, and taking up
	March 26, 1874-3m*.	len Howe, who lived with him, and	should not die, he repeated: "Only this: that I am but one	mara consistional but hardly of hard	she will pass right over it. If the	defends them against themselves de	termination, kin; hence, Jenkin,	one of his weekly papers, read the
GEO. H. WOOD & CO.,	Takala	would, it was understood, inherit his	more of the many victims of circum-	mane. No, we would end the terrible	moon's path were painted on the	well as against others. These have	Hopkin; and Watkin; these three	marriage notice of Emma. It was a-
PHOTOGRAPHERS,	Hotels.	property. People acquainted with	stantial evidence."	tragedy at once.	heaven's, you would see that every	a quiet dignity, tempered by much	early became common both as sur- names and as Christian names.	terrible blow, and he went out into
TOWANDA, PA-	DINING ROOMS	the family were aware that Mr. Howe	I was young then, and believed in	"Snow," I whispered, "you are	time the moon came around to the	sweetness of speech and manner, that	Others appended the English son;	the yard to try and walk off his fever
Grateful for the generous patronage of the		was of a narrow and tyrannical dis- position, and though he loved the	human nature. I said to myself as I	sure of your man?"	same point in her path, which takes	is the loveliest kind of all, and the	we have an historical example in Jof-	of excitement. All that passed thro' the old gentlemin's mind is not
past year, would inform all wanting Pictures	IN CONNECTION WITH THE BAKERY, Near the Court House.	girl well and spared no expense to	left the court room, "no one can	"Just as sure as I am of myself."	place about every twenty-seven days,	most subtile as well as the most beau-	ferson; but, as a rule, Welsh names	known, but there seemed to be a
that we are still adding to our establishment	We are prepared to feed the hungry at all times of	gratify her, yet was often very harsh	convince me that that man is a mur-	"Then arrest him."	she would cross the sun's path about	tiful. They are like the lady in Comus	of this class are not distinguishable	dognarata struggle within himself
NEW AND IMPROVED INSTRUMENTS,	the day and evening. Oysters and Ice Cream in their seasons.	and cruel to her. Ellen was not only	derer."	Snow stepped forward and placed	three of her own diameters sooner	and seem to cast the spell of respect	from Scotch and English names with	which resulted in his returning to
And adopting tried and approved modes of	March 30, 1870, D. W. SCOTT & CO.	dependent upon her uncle for sup-	Inat night I got together all the		than the month before. In the course	No man, save of the coarsest fiber.	I who same entities.	the lawyer's office and postponing printing and retouching in order to secure	FLWELL HOUSE, TOWANDA.	port, but she had, it seems, contrary	printed accounts of the trial, and		of a year, therefore, she will have crossed about thirty-six diameters	and such as only physical strength	In a majority of cases, however,	the business. Then he drove direct-
. FINER PHOTOGRAPHS THAN HEBETOFORE	JOHN C WILSON	to his expressed wishes engaged her-	went carefully over every atom of the testimony. It was all reliable, and			can control; could be rude to them	the Weish substituted for the old	ly to his farm, and had a long pri-
made outside of the cities, and that we make it a specialty to enlarge all kinds of Pictures to	Having leased this House, is now ready to accommo-	self to a young bank clerk as poor as	seemed to absolutely prove Ellis guil-	The old man sprang up and would	the course of twenty years you will	in word or brutal to them in deed	patronymic prenz, the English pos-	vote interview with his wife, then he any size desired, and tinish in Water Cofors,	date the travelling public. No pains nor expense will be spared to give satisfaction to those who may give	herself.	ty Vet I felt positively certain that	have gained the door, but I was upon	find that this motion has been kent	for there is something about them.	sessive ending; in other words, a
India Ink; or in Oil, in the	him a call.	This young man, Ellis by name,		the watch and held him. while Snow	up until she crosses at the same	very indefinite, but very strong withal	Christian name put in the possessive	years-went over and called on his
BEST STYLES AND VERY LOW PRICES.	cur's new block.	was really a very fine fellow, with an	ered my-life that he was the soul of	placed the irons on his hands. In	point she does now, and thus the	which seems to give them special pro-	case is the most common type of	enemy. He was found sick, having
We also endeavor to the all the time possi- ble in making childrens pictures, 50 as to so-	DUMMERFIELD CREEK HO-	inspotted reputation. Old Howe had, in years past, had business re-	truth and honor. Yet it was so that	the struggle the thick veil was torn	nodes have made a complete circuit	tection from insolence; and a loving	Welsh surnames, especially the first three: Jones, Williams, Davies or	been confined to his room since the cure the best results.	LU TEL.	lations with Ellis' father, and had, it	his own testimony was true, and that	aside, revealing the closely-shaven	of the heavens. The seasons of eclips-	woman of soft maners, whose mind		abandonment of his favorite son. But the two farmers met, and both
, We are constantly adding to our stock of	Having purchased and thoroughly refitted this old		was the most damaging of all. One	features of Michael Howe ; and here	es vary, therefore, in the same man-	is pure, and who respects herself, is		for a few minutes stood face to face
FRAMES	and well-known stand, formerly kopt by Sheriff Grif- fs, at the mouth of Bummerfield Creck, is ready to	and suicide.	sentence of the murdered man struck	on his right temple was a blood-red	ner. This year they are in May and	armed with a power which none but	Jenkins, Jeffreys, Morgans, Owens,	in undamil allonah
All new patterns and tasteful styles, and fur-	give good accommodations and satisfactory treatment to all who may favor him with a call.	However this may have been, it	me as peculiar: Mark my words,	furrow made by the passage of Ellis'	October; in five years from now they	the vilest can despise. This is the	Phillips, Richards, Rogers, Rowlands	At longth the father of Emma inish them at a small advance from cost prices.				trall an shak an adalah a taha		TRAMAR TRAA ANTA MAANAA ALAALAA A		$\bullet$ At 100200 000 10000 01 10000
May 14, 1873.	Dec. 23, 868-tf.	was certain that Michael Howe en-	young man, I shall see you hanged!"	ball on that eventful night.	will occur three months earlier, and	woman who gets precise obedience	and warants.	spoke:
May 14, 1973.	Dec. 23, 568-tt. MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA.	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent	Strange prophecy! Could the old	To describe the wonder of the	we shall have them in February and	from her servants without exacting	The reason why persons bearing	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute;
May 14, 1873.	$\frac{MEANS}{MEANS} HOUSE, TOWANDA,$	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him-	Strange proplecy! Could the old man have had soms presentiment	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May: five	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith-
SUSQUEHANNA	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, PA., COF. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREETS.	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows?	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud-	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February;	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build
May 14, 1873.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COR. MAIN AND ERIFGE STLEPS. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insuged against loss by Fire, without any ex-	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows ? But he had said, too, "I shall see	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement , is as needless as it	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres-	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population,	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house."
SUSQUEHANNA	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, PA., COF. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREETS.	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows ? But he had said, too, "I shall see	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement , is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here.	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it."
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insuged against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. T. E. JORDAN,	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor-	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows ? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement , is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once.	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine.	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard-	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com-	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I 'will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COR. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREETS. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insuged against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old Eaglish Bass Ale, just received. Towands, Jan. 24.'71. Proprietor.	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had soms presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows ? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement , is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him-	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine.	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors :	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COF. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old Eaglish Bass Ale, just received. Towands, Jan. 21.71. MANSION HOUSE,	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian,	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had soms presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows ? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and yiew the	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine.	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or raye if she were dipleased; she	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis-	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I 'will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STLEPS. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. Towands, Jan. 21.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, FA.	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had soms presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows ? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world?	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. 	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if abe were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I 'will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith-
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1574, with the follow ing list of instructors : EFWIS E. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, .COE. MAIN AND ERIFORE STRIETS. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insuged against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old Eaglish Bass Ale, just received. T. B. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so.	Strange proplecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will and the young neonle	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use.	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form-	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1574, with the follow ing list of instructors : EFWISE, QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches, E. L HILLIS, A.B. Contacterial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. Towands, Jan. 24.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael	Strange proplecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other word? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres-	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize. yet which would make re	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com-	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I 'will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith-
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Institute indian will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EFWIS E. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connecretal, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. Towands, Jan. 21.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made to make principles. Every effort will be made to make principles. Every effort will be made to make	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other word? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart-	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound-	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture.
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors 1 EFWINE. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. Commercial and Mathematical Pranches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECETTRES.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. Towands, Jan. 24.71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make ruests confortable. Good rooms and the table will siways be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871.	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other word? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer,	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect. and	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined.	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avom people who have no faith in
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors ? EEWIS E. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L HILLIS, A.B. Commercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECETTRES. Commercial and Higher English. Matemotelle J. LXOUIN.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. Towands, Jan. 21.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made to make principles. Every effort will be made to make principles. Every effort will be made to make	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com-	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me to a	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions.	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined.	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous, to
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EFWIS E. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connecretal, Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERBILL. PRECENTRES. Commons and Higher English. Mademotecle J. LEQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Palating. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN,	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STILLESS. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insuged against loss by Fire, without any er- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. Towands, Jan. 21. 71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be market for market stricts: Supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov.1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA.	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot-
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 21, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructora 1 ERWIS E. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connecretal, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. Connecretal and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL. PRECEITINES. Common and Higher English. Mademotselle J. LEQUIN, French Language. Drawing and Painting.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, PA., COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STLEES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. TOWANDAN, TOWANDA, TOWANDA, INC. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temporance Principles. Every effort will be made to make ritests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov.1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA.	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl-	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other word? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con-	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr.	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain- ly as fear.	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARREL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak-
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EFWIS E. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connecretal, Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERBILL. PRECENTRES. Commons and Higher English. Mademotecle J. LEQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Palating. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN,	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STLEES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insuged against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. TOWANDA, MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance principles. Every effort will be make to make tracts confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov.1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN,"	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam-	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other word? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all donbt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it !	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear.	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- itution will open AUGUST 21, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors 1: ERWINE, QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches, E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial, Mathematical Branches, Commercial, Mathematical Branches, Miss MARY E. MERRILL, Parcerrniss, Common and Higher English, Mademotecle J. LEQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Palating, Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G Vocal Music, Instrumental Music, ATERN', Class will be organized st commence mont. Allo term, The Principal will conduct the	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STILLESS. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insuged against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. TOWANDA, TOWANDA, TOWANG, TOWANDA, TOWANG, This HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, PROPRIETON. This House is conducted in strictly Temporance Principles. Every effort will be make to make trusts confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov.1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1738.	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other word? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all donbt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate-	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod-	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain- ly as fear.	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri-	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avom people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EFWIS E. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connecretal, Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERBILL. PRECENTRES. Commons and Higher English. Mademotecle J. LEQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Palating. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN,	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. Towands, Jan. 21.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made to make ruests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1738. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the county excert independence Hall. bonored by	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all donbt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouement, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case.	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear.	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don't QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing.	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avom people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them,
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- itution will open AUGUST 21, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors 1: ERWINE, QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches, E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial, Mathematical Branches, Commercial, Mathematical Branches, Miss MARY E. MERRILL, Parcerrniss, Common and Higher English, Mademotecle J. LEQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Palating, Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G Vocal Music, Instrumental Music, ATERN', Class will be organized st commence mont. Allo term, The Principal will conduct the	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, .COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STLEPS. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insuged against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. TOWANDA, TOWANG, TOWANDA, MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, PROPRIETON. This House is conducted in strictly Temporance Principles. Every effort will be mule to make truests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov.1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1758. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, tbough it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all donbt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it ! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex-	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case.	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame-	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain- ly as fear.	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Connercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Common and Higher Enclish. Mademotecile J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G. Yocal Music. Instrumental Music. ArTend Art Class will be organized at commence mont. The term, The Principal-will conduct the contager of this class chiefly, and aid all teach or whopprove themselves worthy and competent in - curing positions. Effort will be worder.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. Towands, Jan. 21.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made to make ruests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1738. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the county excert independence Hall. bonored by	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, tbough it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other word? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all donbt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi-	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case.	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain- ly as fear.	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever truly forcive each other after the	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over-
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Connercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Common and Higher Enclish. Mademotecile J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G. Yocal Music. Instrumental Music. ArTend Art Class will be organized at commence mont. The term, The Principal-will conduct the contager of this class chiefly, and aid all teach or whopprove themselves worthy and competent in - curing positions. Effort will be worder.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, .COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STLEPS. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insuged against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. TOWANDA, TOWANG, TOWANDA, MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, PROPRIETON. This House is conducted in strictly Temporance Principles. Every effort will be mule to make truests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov.1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1758. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, tbough it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder,	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouencut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. CHILDREN'S STUDIES.—It is said to be quite notorions that our write	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUANDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered foreible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear.	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over:	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avon people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them:
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Connercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Common and Higher Enclish. Mademotecile J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G. Yocal Music. Instrumental Music. ArTend Art Class will be organized at commence mont. The term, The Principal-will conduct the contager of this class chiefly, and aid all teach or whopprove themselves worthy and competent in - curing positions. Effort will be worder.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, .COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STLEPS. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insuged against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. TOWANDA, TOWANG, TOWANDA, MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, PROPRIETON. This House is conducted in strictly Temporance Principles. Every effort will be mule to make truests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov.1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1758. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, tbough it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouenceut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Children's Stupples.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered foreible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if abe were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do Right Eventwhene. — Man's only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up: the wound	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fally fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly-
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Connercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Common and Higher Enclish. Mademotecile J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G. Yocal Music. Instrumental Music. ArTend Art Class will be organized at commence mont. The term, The Principal-will conduct the contager of this class chiefly, and aid all teach or whopprove themselves worthy and competent in - curing positions. Effort will be worder.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. T. E. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, PROPRIETOR. This House is conducted in strictly Temporance Principles. Every effort will be made to make rtests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1738. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hail, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee. Gates and other patriets of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently charged hands. Leen improved, entirely refurnished, and the project of give him a call-no pains will be spared to render their stay comfortable. Feeple aroute for Philadelphis will find its conventiont to the control principal in the convention to the project of give him a call-no pains will be	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance ; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all.	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denouencut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. CHILDEEN'S STUDIES.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUANDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered foreible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junins is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontency who politely in-	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear.	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently, heals, but, only as some	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Connercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Common and Higher Enclish. Mademotecile J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G. Yocal Music. Instrumental Music. ArTend Art Class will be organized at commence mont. The term, The Principal-will conduct the contager of this class chiefly, and aid all teach or whopprove themselves worthy and competent in - curing positions. Effort will be worder.	<ul> <li>Dec. 23, 868-44.</li> <li>MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, .COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES.</li> <li>The Horses, Harness. &amp;c. of all guests of this house, insured against loss by Fire, without any er- tra charge.</li> <li>A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received.</li> <li>T. B. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71.</li> <li>Froprietor.</li> <li>MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA.</li> <li>W. &amp; BROWNING, PROPRIETON. This House is conducted in strictly Temporance Principles. Every effort will be made to make rtests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af. Mov.1, 1871.</li> <li>BETHLEHEM, PA.</li> <li>"OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1738.</li> <li>Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hail, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee. Gates and other patriets of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands. Leen improved, entirely refurnished, and the proprieto goive him a call-no pains will be spared to render their stay comfortable. Feople nroute for Philadelphis will find it convenient to spared to render their stay comfortable. People</li> </ul>	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance ; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Chingnen's Stupies.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam angine in the world, but if it hes not	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do Right Everywhene. — Man's only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARREL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people evar traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently, heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out regin at	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWIS E. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. L. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, Paccerrniss. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, Paccerrniss. Common and Higher English. Madenosedle J. L&QUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Miss. L. A. BALDWIN, C. Vocal Music. Instrumental Music. Afread is Class will be organized st commence ment. Afre term., The Principal will conduct the cr. As of this class chiefly, and aid all teach ru wherprove themselves worthy and competent in curing positions. Effort will be made by devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap- paratus, to make the instruction in this class more profitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made from the mentior and the school. These two studies, if pair for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of tuition. Provision is also mad for individual instruction fn vocal music. Is to we have no need comment.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. T. E. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, PROPRIETOR. This House is conducted in strictly Temporance Principles. Every effort will be made to make rtests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1738. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hail, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee. Gates and other patriets of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently charged hands. Leen improved, entirely refurnished, and the project of give him a call-no pains will be spared to render their stay comfortable. Feeple aroute for Philadelphis will find its conventiont to the control principal in the convention to the project of give him a call-no pains will be	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library. Bnd as the servant also testi-	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder; and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared; all was in my hands. I left her with a de-	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Chingnen's Stuppes.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power steam it will not	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontency who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do Right Everywhene. — Man's only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARREL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people evar traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently, heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some uneypected moment. The man	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fally fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE, QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches, E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches, E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRIES, Commore and Higher English. Matenotecile J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, Contactual and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRIES, Commore and Higher English. Matenotecile J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, Cocal Music. Acteors' :- Class will be organized st commence mant: Acte term, The Principal will conduct the two-two this class chiefly, and aid all coch of whetprove themselves worthy and competent in curing positions. Effort will be made by devolu-, more time and using the increased facilities of ap paratus, to make the instruction in this class more in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made free to in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made free to in praving and Vocal Music has been made free to in make the instruction. How studies, if pair if or as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of tuition. How studies, if pair if or as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of tuition. How studies to wellow Baldwin's ability to teach vocal music is too wellow how no need comment. A new laboratory is being fitted up and the collection in of Thilosophical appartus enlarged. Th	<ul> <li>Dec. 23, 868-44.</li> <li>MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES.</li> <li>The Horses, Harness. &amp;c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge.</li> <li>A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received.</li> <li>T. B. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71.</li> <li>Proprietor.</li> <li>MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA.</li> <li>W. M. BROWNING, PROPRIETON.</li> <li>This House is conducted in strictly Temperance off-inciples. Every effort will be made. to make rtuests confortable. Good rooms and the table will strays be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871.</li> <li>BETHLEHEM, PA.</li> <li>"OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1758.</li> <li>Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee, Gates and other patriots of the revou- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands. bean improved, entirely refurnished, and the proprietor cordially invises his ficings and trav- eling public fo give him a call-no pains will be spared to render their stay comfortable. People enroute for Philadelphia will find it convenient to spend the night hore, reaching the city about eight in the morning. A sample room on first floor for accommodation of commercial agents.</li> <li>C. T. SMITH, Sept 4, 1873.</li> </ul>	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-vy was turned and the two	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Cumpnex's Stuppes.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAENESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontency who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do Right Everywhere. — Man's only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARBEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people evar traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fally fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWIS E. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. L. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, Paccerrniss. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, Paccerrniss. Common and Higher English. Madenosedle J. L&QUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Miss. L. A. BALDWIN, C. Vocal Music. Instrumental Music. Afread is Class will be organized st commence ment. Afre term., The Principal will conduct the cr. As of this class chiefly, and aid all teach ru wherprove themselves worthy and competent in curing positions. Effort will be made by devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap- paratus, to make the instruction in this class more profitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made from the mentior and the school. These two studies, if pair for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of tuition. Provision is also mad for individual instruction fn vocal music. Is to we have no need comment.	<ul> <li>Dec. 23, 868-44.</li> <li>MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STLEPS.</li> <li>The Horses, Harness. &amp;c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge.</li> <li>A superior quality of Old Eaglish Bass Ale, just received.</li> <li>T. R. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 21.'71.</li> <li>Proprietor.</li> <li>MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, FA.</li> <li>W.W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temporance principles. Every effort will be made to make rests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov.1, 1871.</li> </ul> <li>BETHLEHEM, PA.</li> <li>"OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," Inthe contry except independence Hall, honored by the popure within its walls of Washington, LaFay- etto, Lee, Gates and other patriots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands. Lean improved; entirely refurnished, and the proprietor condially invites his friends and trav- eling public fo give' him a call-no pains will be spired to render their sizy comfortable. Feople norther, A sample room on first floor for acconimodation of commercial agents. C. T. SMITH, Froprietor.</li>	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance ; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well has e it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Churgnen's Stupples.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do RIGHT EVERYWHERE. — Man's only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Doy'r QUARBEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them: They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices.
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors 1 EFWINE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. L. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECEITINES. Commons and Higher English. Mademotscile J. LeQUIN, French Languages, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G. Vocal Music. Isstrumental Music. Afterso 1: Class will be organized st commence mont. Afte term, The Principal will conduct the error time and using the increased Tacilities of ap- paratus, to make the instruction in this class more profitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made free to mento read of the school. These two studies, if pain for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of tution. Throws two studies, if pain for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of tution. Provision is also made for individual instruction fit to call music. Mrs Baldwin's ability to teach vocal music is too well known to nead comment.	<ul> <li>Dec. 23, 868-44.</li> <li>MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES.</li> <li>The Horses, Harness. &amp;c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge.</li> <li>A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received.</li> <li>T. B. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71.</li> <li>Proprietor.</li> <li>MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA.</li> <li>W. M. BROWNING, PROPRIETON.</li> <li>This House is conducted in strictly Temperance off-inciples. Every effort will be made. to make rtuests confortable. Good rooms and the table will strays be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871.</li> <li>BETHLEHEM, PA.</li> <li>"OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1758.</li> <li>Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee, Gates and other patriots of the revou- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands. bean improved, entirely refurnished, and the proprietor cordially invises his ficings and trav- eling public fo give him a call-no pains will be spared to render their stay comfortable. People enroute for Philadelphia will find it convenient to spend the night hore, reaching the city about eight in the morning. A sample room on first floor for accommodation of commercial agents.</li> <li>C. T. SMITH, Sept 4, 1873.</li> </ul>	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired.	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Cumpren's Stuppes.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to maturity in all the branches of	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do RIGHT EVERYWHERE. — Man's only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don't QUARBEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has encered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again. The woman who	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avom people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under-
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. L. L. HILLIS, A.B. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRIES. Commore and Higher English. Matenotecile J. LEQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, Coll Music. Instrumental Music. Artenative Class will be organized st commence more the term, The Principal will conduct the two-two this class chiefly, and aid all coch of a whyperve themselves worthy and competent in - curing positions. Effort will be made by devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap paratus, to make the instruction in this class more in of the schoot. These two studies, if pain for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of unition. Frovision is also madi for individual instruction frontistic is too well known to need comment. A new laboratory is being fitted up and the collect in of milosopnical apparatus enlarged. The propared and effort made to meet the physical a wellias the intellectual syntax enlarged. The promer dan deffort mode to meet the physical a wellias the intellectual syntax enlarged. The promer dan deffort mode to meet the physical a wellias the intellectual syntax enlarged. The promer dan deffort mode to meet the physical a wellias the intellectual syntax enlarged. The promer dan deffort mode to meet the physical a wellias the intellectual syntax of the students.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. T. B. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W.W. BROWNING, PROPRIETOR. This House is conducted in strictly Temporanco Principles. Every effort will be made to make ruests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af. Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," RULT 1738. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee. Gates and other patriots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands. Lean improved, entirely refurnished, and the proprieto gyve him a call-no pains will be spared to render their stay confortable. Feorjo en route for Philadelphis will find its convenient to spared to render their stay confortable. Feorjo en route for Philadelphis will find its convenient to spared to render their stay confortable. Feorjo en route for Philadelphis will find its convenient to sport 4. 1873. Rick 1873. The ARRANGEMENT	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv-	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, explored	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Cumpter's Stypies.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to maturity in all the branches of learning it is nossible for hird to	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUANDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain- ly as fear. Do Right Eventwhene. — Man's only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be-	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don't QUARBEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently, heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has intered reproaches to a man can	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avom people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches,
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 21, 1574, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECERTRISS. Connercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECERTRISS. Common and Higher Enclish. Mademoscielle J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G. Yocal Music. Instrumental Music. Arfendia: Class will be organized st commence non: After term, The Principal will conduct the considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made free to merils the offer. The School, These two studies, if pain for a settra, as is usually the case, would hearly cover the cost of tuition. Frovision is also made for individual instruction fit yocal innuste. Mrs Bialdwin's ability to teach yocal music is too wel- known to need comment. A new laboratory is being fitted up and the collect tion of Philosopnical apparatus enlarged. The grounds are being grafted, fine croquet grounds are prepared and effort made to meet the physical a wellings the intellectual wants of the students. The constant will be meet the physical a welling the line lenger and for the subaratory is being fitted up and the collect in of Philosopnical apparatus enlarged. The grounds are being graft, fine from E. Board, included welling the intellectual wants of the subaratory. The physical a welling the intellectual wants of the subaratory. Mathemater is the physical a welling the intellectual wants of the subaratory. The physical and the meet the physical a welling the intellectual wants of the subaratory. The fittellectual wants of the subaratory.	<ul> <li>Dec. 23, 868-44.</li> <li>MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STLEPS.</li> <li>The Horses, Harness. &amp;c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge.</li> <li>A superior quality of Old Eaglish Bass Ale, just received.</li> <li>T. R. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 21.'71.</li> <li>Proprietor.</li> <li>MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, FA.</li> <li>W.W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temporance principles. Every effort will be made to make rests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov.1, 1871.</li> </ul> <li>BETHLEHEM, PA.</li> <li>"OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," Inthe contry except independence Hall, honored by the popure within its walls of Washington, LaFay- etto, Lee, Gates and other patriots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands. Lean improved; entirely refurnished, and the proprietor condially invites his friends and trav- eling public fo give' him a call-no pains will be spired to render their sizy comfortable. Feople norther, A sample room on first floor for acconimodation of commercial agents. C. T. SMITH, Froprietor.</li>	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out thon as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, explored the premises, the rung, the charred	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Cunterner's Stypies.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to ucquire and yet if you negleat his	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain- ly as fear. Do RIGHT EVERYWHERE. — Man s only safety is in doing right at al times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his foreswill rebuke what they	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don't QUARBEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever truly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never he taken to his boson with the	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avom people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches, of all the thousand springs of human
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors ? EEWIS E. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connecreial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connecreial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECETTRES. Common and Higher English. Madenotscile J. L2QUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, Vocal Music. Isstrumental Music. ATeas' is Class will be organized st commence man. Afte term., The Principal will conduct the curing positions. Effort will be made by devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap- paratus, to make the instruction in this class more profitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made free to ment of the school. These two studies, if pain for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of tuition. Provision is also made for individual instruction fit would nearly cover the cost of tuition. Provision is also made for individual instruction fit would nearly cover the cost of tuition. Provision is also made for individual instruction fit would nearly cover the cost of tuition. Provision is also made for individual instruction fit would make is too welly had brown to need communt. A new laboratory is being fitted up and the collect in of Philosophical apparatus enlarged. The grounds are being graded, fine croquet grounds are prepared and effort made to meet the physical aveins the intellectual wants of the students. Tuition from $4 to $10 per term. Board, including inclassical, $201. For circular or further information, address th	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COF. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREETS. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old Eaglish Bass Ale, just received. T. E. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 21.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make received of the strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make received sources and the table will fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BULL' 1738. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the contry except Independence Hall, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFsy- ette, Lee, Gates and other patriots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands. been improved; entirely refurnished, and the proprieto cordially invites his friends and trav- eling public fo give him a call—no pains will be spared to render their stay comfortable. Feorple on route for Philadelphis will find it convenient to spared to render their stay confortable. Feorple on route for Philadelphis will find it convenient to accommodation of commercial agonts. Sept 4. 1873. C. T. SMITH, Froprietor. NEW ARRANGEMENT AT THE FIRST WARD BAKERY.	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going around a short while after to fasten	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, emplored the premises, the rung, the charred bones, but these told no story. If	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Cunterner's Stypies.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to acquire, and yet if you neglect his physical culture why you leave him	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain- ly as fear. Do RIGHT EVERYWHERE. — Man s only safety is in doing right at al times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his foreswill rebuke what they before have justified, and accuse him	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don't QUARBEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently, heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some mexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his bosom with the same tenderness as before those	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avom people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches,
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWINE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L HILLIS, A.B. Commercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Common and Higher English. Matenotecile J. LEQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, Coll Music. Instrumental Music. Artens' & Class will be organized st commence mont. After term, The Principal will conduct the exact so terms, The Principal will conduct the exact so this class will be organized st commence more time and using the increased facilities of ap- paratus, to make the instruction in this class mori in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made free to incritical the schoot. These two studies, if pai- for a extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of unition. Frovision is also mad for individual instruction frovision is also mad for individual instruction frovision is also mad for individual instruction frontiston is to well known to need comment. A new laboratory is being fitted up and the collect in or a extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of unition. Frovision is also mad for individual instruction froves in brock of unition in or make the instruction fromestion is the schoot for the schoot. These two studies, if pai- for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of unition. Froves is to well known to need comment. A new laboratory is being fitted up and the collect in form $4 to $10 per term. Board, includ ing furnished room. Hights, washing, &c., $4 per week. Expenses per year in English studies, $102 inclassical, $204. For circular or further information, address th Principal, E. E. QUINLAR, Towanda, Pa. MILLER FOX,	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. T. B. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made to make rtuests confortable. Good rooms and the table will strays be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1758. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee. Gates and other patriots of the revol- tion. This popular hotel has, recently changed hands, bean improved; entirely refurnished, and the proprietor give him a call-no pains will be enroute for philadelphia will find it convenient to spared to render their stay comfortable. People enroute for philadelphia will find it convenient to spared to render their stay comfortable. Revolut enroute for philadelphia will find it convenient to spared to render their stay comfortable. Revolut in the morning. A sampleroom on first floor for accommodation of commercial agents. NEW ARRANGEMENT AT THE FIRST WARD BAKEBY. MRS. MARY E. KITTREDGE	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well has e it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going around a short while after to fasten up the house she had heard lond tones in the library and had paused	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed mo for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, emplored the premises, the rung, the charred bones, but these told no story. If there had been a murder, Frederick Ellis was the guilty man. If he was	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Cumpnex's Stuppes.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to acquire, and yet if you neglect his physical culture, why you leave him without the motive power to make	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is weak—that is, full of superlatives	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain- ly as fear. Do RIGHT EVERYWHERE. — Man s only safety is in doing right at al times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his foes—will rebuke what they before have justified, and accuse him of the very acts which they aided	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARREL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people evar traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his boson with the same tenderness as before those words were spoken. The two people	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own had hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them: They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches, of all the thousand springs of human action they know but one, and that
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors ? EEWISE, QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches, E. L. HILLIS, A.B. deminercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches, Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERBILL, PRECENTRESS, Commore and Higher English, Matenotecile J. L&QUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting, Mrs. L. & BALDWIN, G. Vocal Music, Instrumental Music, Artens', Class will be organized st commence there, the term, The Principal will conduct the example of this class chiefly, and aid all teach or whetprove themselves worthy and competent in curing positions. Effort will be made by devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap paratus, to make the instruction in this class more profitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made from the membor the schoot. These two studies, if pain for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of tution. Provision is also madi- for individual instruction fitted up and the collect in of Philosophical apparatus enlarged. The grounds are being graded, fine croquet grounds are prepared and effort made to meet the physical a well as the intellectual wants of the studies, filo ingle form of the schoot. These two studies, including intellectual wants of the studies, filo ingle form of the studies of the studies. Tution from $4 to $10 per term. Board, including ingle for setter made to meet the physical a well as the intellectual wants of the studies, $192 inclassical, $204. For circular or further information, address the Principal, E. E. QUINLAR, Towanda, Pa. MILLER FOX, July 23. Preset Board Trustees,	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COL MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. T. E. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make ruests confortable. Good rooms and the table will siways be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," INTER 1758. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the rejourn within its wails of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee, Gates and other patrots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently charged hands. Leen Juproved, entirely refurnished, and the proprietor cordially invites his friends and tray- eling public fo give him a call-no pains will be enroute for Philadelphia will find it convenient to spend the ingeh here, reaching the city about eight in the morning. A sample room on first floor for accommodation of commercial agents. Sept 4, 1873. C. T. SMITH, Sept 4, 1873. C. T. SMITH, Sept 4, 1873. MRS. MARY E. KITTREDGE Having purchased the slock and furures of H. A. Cowles' Dakery, has refitted the establishment and	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, tbough it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, 3nd as the servant also testi- fied, the key was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going around a short while after to fasten up the house she had heard loud tones in the library and had paused at the door to listee. The works she	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all donbt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, explored the premises, the rung, the charred bones, but these told no story. If there had been a murder, Frederick Ellis was the guilty man. If he was innocent, Mr. Howe was alive. I	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Cumpnex's Stypies.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to 'maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to acquire, and yet if you neglect his physical culture, why you leave him without the motive power to make use of that hardly-won knowledge.	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is weak—that is, full of superlatives and fury—because he is afraid to be	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain- ly as fear. Do Right Eventwhene. Man s only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom her thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his fore-will rebuke what they before have justified, and accuse him of the very acts which they aided and encouraged him in.	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Dox'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his bosom with the same tenderness as before those words were spoken. The two people who must never quarrel are husband	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them: They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they inder- stand human nature. Poor wretches, of all the thousand springs of human action they know but one, and that the worst — selfishness. Let them stop that spring in their own moral machinery, if they can. Let them do
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWINE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L HILLIS, A.B. Commercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECENTRES. Common and Higher English. Matenotecile J. LEQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, Coll Music. Instrumental Music. Artens' & Class will be organized st commence mont. After term, The Principal will conduct the exact so terms, The Principal will conduct the exact so this class will be organized st commence more time and using the increased facilities of ap- paratus, to make the instruction in this class mori in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made free to incritical the schoot. These two studies, if pai- for a extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of unition. Frovision is also mad for individual instruction frovision is also mad for individual instruction frovision is also mad for individual instruction frontiston is to well known to need comment. A new laboratory is being fitted up and the collect in or a extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of unition. Frovision is also mad for individual instruction froves in brock of unition in or make the instruction fromestion is the schoot for the schoot. These two studies, if pai- for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of unition. Froves is to well known to need comment. A new laboratory is being fitted up and the collect in form $4 to $10 per term. Board, includ ing furnished room. Hights, washing, &c., $4 per week. Expenses per year in English studies, $102 inclassical, $204. For circular or further information, address th Principal, E. E. QUINLAR, Towanda, Pa. MILLER FOX,	Dec. 23, 868-4f.         MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, .COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES.         The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge.         A superior quality of Old Eaglish Bass Ale, just received.         Towands, Jan. 21.'71.         Proprietor.         MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, FA.         W.W. BROWNING,       PROPRIETON.         This House is conducted in strictly Temporance principles. Every effort will be made to make ruests confortable. Good rooms and the table will always be supplied with the best the market af- fords:         WOLD MORAVIAN SUN INN,"         BETHLEHEM, PA.         "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN,"         BULLT 1738.         Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the contry except Independence Hall, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee, Gates and other patriots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands. been improved; entirely refurnished, and the proprietor cordially invites his friends and trav- eling public fo give him a call—no pains will be spared to render their stay comfortable. People to the minith, Asample room on first floor for accommodation of commercial agents.         NEW ARRANGEMENT         Ar THE FIRST WARD BAKERY.         MRS. MARY E. KITTREDGE         Having purchased the stock and fixtures of H. A.	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young mán's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the key was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going around a short while after to fasten up the house she had heard loud tones in the library and had paused at the door to listen. The words she caught were few. She had heard the	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all donbt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, explored the premises, the rung, the charred bones, but these told no story. If there had been a murder, Frederick Ellis was the guilty man. If he was innocent, Mr. Howe was alive. I must find him if I would, save the	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. CHI.DEREN'S STUDIES.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to acquire, and yet if you neglect his physical culture, why you leave him without the motive power to make use of that hardly-won knowledge. Parents are undonbiedly anxious to	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junins is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is weak.—that is, full of superlatives and fury—because he is afraid to be strong—that is, moderate and rea-	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain- ly as fear. Do Right Eventwhene. — Mans only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom her thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his foes—will rebuke what they before have justified, and accuse him of the very acts which they aided and encouraged him in. Do right everywhere. There is no	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Dox'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his boson with the same tenderness as before those words were spoken. The two people who must never quarrel are husband and wife. One may fall out with	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Canifor is lost upon them: They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches, of all the thousand springs of human action they know but one, and that the worst — selfishness. Let them stop that spring in their own moral machinery, if they can. Let them do it for their own sakes, for they can
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fill term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tituion will open AUGUST 21, 1574, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECETTRES. Common and Higher Enclish. Mademotechel J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G. Yocal Music. Isstrumental Music. Artesso :: Class will be organized st commence nert. Arte term, The Principal will conduct the term stoff this class chiefly, and aid all teachers whepptove themselves worthy and competent in curking positions. Effort will be made by devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap- paratus, to make the instruction in this class more profitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made free to members to fit the schoot. These two studies, if pain for as estras, as is usually the case, would hearly cover the cost of tuition. Frovision is also made for individual instruction fit vocal music. Mrs Bialdwin's ability to teach vocal music is too wel- known to need comment. A new laboratory is being fitted up and the collect tion of Philosophical apparatus enlarged. The grounds are being graad, fine croque grounds are prepared and effort made to meet the physical a wellias the intellectuat wants of the sudems. Tuiton from $4 to $10 per term. Board, includ- ing furnished room, Lighas, washing, &c., $40 week. Expenses per year in English studies, $192 in classical, $204. For circular or further information, address th Principal, E. L. QUINLAN, Towanda, Pa. MILLER FOX, July 23. Free Board Trustees.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COL MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. T. E. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make ruests confortable. Good rooms and the table will siways be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," INTER 1758. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the rejourn within its wails of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee, Gates and other patrots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently charged hands. Leen Juproved, entirely refurnished, and the proprietor cordially invites his friends and tray- eling public fo give him a call-no pains will be enroute for Philadelphia will find it convenient to spend the ingeh here, reaching the city about eight in the morning. A sample room on first floor for accommodation of commercial agents. Sept 4, 1873. C. T. SMITH, Sept 4, 1873. C. T. SMITH, Sept 4, 1873. MRS. MARY E. KITTREDGE Having purchased the slock and furures of H. A. Cowles' Dakery, has refitted the establishment and	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well has e it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going around a short while after to fasten up the house she had heard loud tones in the library and had paused at the door to listea. The words she caught were few. She had heard the younger man stop in his walk up and	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed mo for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, emplored the premises, the rung, the charred bones, but these told no story. If there had been a murder, Frederick Ellis was the guilty man. If he was innocent, Mr. Howe was alive. I must find him if I would, save the prisoner, and I must find him within	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. CHILDER'S STUDIES.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to 'maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to acquire, and yet if you neglect his physical culture, why you leave him without the motive power to make use of that hardly-won knowledge. Parents are undoubtedly anxious to see their children become accom- plished scholare, and hence too often	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUANDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junins is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is weak—that is, full of superlatives and fury—because he is afraid to be strong—that is, moderate and rea- sonable—and one good way for him to correct his style, and thereby to	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do RIGHT EVERYWHERE. — Mans only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his foes—will rebuke what they before have justified, and accuse him of the very acts which they aided and encouraged him in. Do right everywhere. There is no safety in sin. Confide in no one; presume upon nothing sufficiently to	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently, heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his bosom with the same tenderness as before those words were spoken. The two people who must never quarrel are husband and wife. One may fall out with kinsman, and make up and be friends again. The tie of blood is a strong	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avon people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Canilor is lost upon them: They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches, of all the thousand springs of human action they know but one, and that the worst — selfishness. Let them stop that spring in their own moral machinery, if they can. Let them do it for their own sakes, for they can never know how mach of good there
May 14, 1873. SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1874, with the follow ing list of instructors ? EEWISE, QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches, E. L. HILLIS, A.B. deminercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches, Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERBILL, PRECENTRESS, Commore and Higher English, Matenotecile J. L&QUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting, Mrs. L. & BALDWIN, G. Vocal Music, Instrumental Music, Artens', Class will be organized st commence there, the term, The Principal will conduct the example of this class chiefly, and aid all teach or whetprove themselves worthy and competent in curing positions. Effort will be made by devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap paratus, to make the instruction in this class more profitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made from the membor the schoot. These two studies, if pain for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of tution. Provision is also madi- for individual instruction fitted up and the collect in of Philosophical apparatus enlarged. The grounds are being graded, fine croquet grounds are prepared and effort made to meet the physical a well as the intellectual wants of the studies, filo ingle form of the schoot. These two studies, including intellectual wants of the studies, filo ingle form of the studies of the studies. Tution from $4 to $10 per term. Board, including ingle for setter made to meet the physical a well as the intellectual wants of the studies, $192 inclassical, $204. For circular or further information, address the Principal, E. E. QUINLAR, Towanda, Pa. MILLER FOX, July 23. Preset Board Trustees,	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COL. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. T. E. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make tracts confortable. Good rooms and the table will strays be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," INIT 1738. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee, Gates and other patrots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands, been improved; entirely refurnished, and the proprietor cordially invites his friends and trav- eling public fo give him a call-no pains will be spared to render their stay comfortable. Peoplo en route for Philadelphia will find it convenient to spend the ingeth here, reaching the city about eight in the morning. A sample room on first floor for accommodation of commercial agents. NEW ARRANGEMENT AT THE FIRST WARD BAKERY. MRS. MARY E. KITTREDGE Having purchased the stock and fixtures of H. A. Gyuck Stock OF GOODS,	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going around a short while after to fasten up the house she had heard loud tones in the library and had paused at the door to listen. The words she caught were few. She had heard the younger man stop in his walk up and down the room, and say, excitedly,	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, emplored the premises, the rung, the charred bones, but these told no story. If there had been a murder, Frederick Ellis was the guilty man. If he was innocent, Mr. Howe was alive. I must find him if I would save the prisoner, and I must find him within a month.	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. CHILDERN'S STUDIES.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to 'maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to acquire, and yet if you neglect his physical culture, why you leave him without the motive power to make use of that hardly-won knowledge. Parents are undoubtedly anxious to see their children become accom- plished scholars, and hence too often fail to notice that their children are	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUANDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered foreible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pot is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junins is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is weak—that is, full of superlatives and fury—because he is afraid to be strong—that is, moderate and rea- sonable—and one good way for him to correct his style, and thereby to command attention and infinence. is	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do RIGHT EVERYWHERE. — Mans only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his foes—will rebuke what they before have justified, and accuse him of the very acts which they aided and encouraged him in. Do right everywhere. There is no safety in sin. Confide in no one; presume upon nothing sufficiently to do that which is wrong. The watch-	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever truly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently, heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his bosom with the same tenderness as before those words were spoken. The two people who must never quarrel are husband and wife. One may fall out with kinsman, and make up and be friends again. The tie of blood is a strong one, and affection may return after	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Canifor is lost upon them: They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches, of all the thousand springs of human action they know but one, and that the worst — selfishness. Let them stop that spring in their own moral machinery, if they can. Let them do it for their own sakes, for they can
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fill term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tituion will open AUGUST 21, 1574, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Isranches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECETTRES. Common and Higher Enclish. Mademotechel J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G. Yocal Music. Isstrumental Music. Artesso :: Class will be organized st commence nert. Arte term, The Principal will conduct the term stoff this class chiefly, and aid all teachers whepptove themselves worthy and competent in curking positions. Effort will be made by devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap- paratus, to make the instruction in this class more profitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made free to members to fit the schoot. These two studies, if pain for as estras, as is usually the case, would hearly cover the cost of tuition. Frovision is also made for individual instruction fit vocal music. Mrs Bialdwin's ability to teach vocal music is too wel- known to need comment. A new laboratory is being fitted up and the collect tion of Philosophical apparatus enlarged. The grounds are being graad, fine croque grounds are prepared and effort made to meet the physical a wellias the intellectuat wants of the sudems. Tuiton from $4 to $10 per term. Board, includ- ing furnished room, Lighas, washing, &c., $40 week. Expenses per year in English studies, $192 in classical, $204. For circular or further information, address th Principal, E. L. QUINLAN, Towanda, Pa. MILLER FOX, July 23. Free Board Trustees.	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COL MAIN AND ENITGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old Eaglish Bass Ale, just received. T. E. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 21. 71. Proprietor. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make received makes and the strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make received makes in source of the strictly temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make receive of the strictly temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make receive of the strictly temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make receive of the strictly temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make receive of the supplied with the best the market all fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," IELE 1753. Fich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFsy- ette, Lee, Gates and other patriots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands. been improved; entirely refurnished, and the proprietor cordially invites his friends and trav- eling public fo give him a call—no pains will be sport to render their stay comfortable. People or accommodation of commercial agents. Sept 4, 1873. C. T. SMITH, Froprietor. MRS. MARY E. KITTREDGE Having purchased the stock and futures of H. A. Gowies' Dakery, has reflitted the establishment and purchased an entirely NEW STOCK OF GOODS, Suited to the trade, such as	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going around a short while after to fasten up the house she had heard loud tones in the library and had paused at the door to listen. The words she caught were few. She had heard the younger man stop in his walk up and down the room, and say, excitedly, "By heaven, you'lie, sir 1 My father	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed mo for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, emplored the premises, the rung, the charred bones, but these told no story. If there had been a murder, Frederick Ellis was the guilty man. If he was innocent, Mr. Howe was alive. I must find him if I would, save the prisoner, and I must find him within a month. But how? I had no clue what-	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. CHILDER'S STUDIES.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to 'maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to acquire, and yet if you neglect his physical culture, why you leave him without the motive power to make use of that hardly-won knowledge. Parents are undoubtedly anxious to see their children become accom- plished scholars, and hence too often fail to notice that their children are overtaxing themselves. Such a lack	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUANDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered foreible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pot is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junins is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is weak—that is, full of superlatives and fury—because he is afraid to be strong—that is, moderate and rea- sonable—and one good way for him to correct his style, and thereby to command attention and influence, is to reflect as he writes that his read-	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain- ly as fear. Do RIGHT EVERYWHERE. — Mans only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his foes—will rebuke what they before have justified, and accuse him of the very acts which they aided and encouraged him in. Do right everywhere. There is no safety in sin. Confide in no one ; presume upon nothing sufficiently to do that which is wrong. The watch- ing eye of God is upon us, and when	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever truly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently, heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his bosom with the same tenderness as before those words were spoken. The two people who must never quarrel are husband and wife. One may fall out with kinsman, and make up and be friends again. The tie of blood is a strong one, and affection may return after it has flowin away; but love, once it	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er side of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avoid people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of the two farmers, but each has a the bot- to most heir distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches, of all the thousand springs of human action they know but one, and that the worst — selfishness. Let them stop that spring in their own moral machinery, if they can. Let them do it for their own sakes, for they can never know how mach of good there is in the world until they do.
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tition will open AUGUST 21, 1574, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Branches. Connercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECETTRES. Common and Higher Enclish. Mademosciele J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G. Vocal Music. I.strumental Music. Artesse A: Class will be organized st commence non: Arbo term, The Principal will conduct the considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made for devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap- paratins, to make the instruction in this class more rofitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made for devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap- paratins, to make the instruction in this class more rofitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made fore to the cost of tuition. Those two studies, if pair for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of tuition. These two studies, if pair in on restor is being fitted up and the collect the on of Philosophical apparatus enlarged. The grounds are being graded, fince cropuet grounds are prepared and effort made to meet the physical a velias the intellectual wants of the sudents. Tition from $4 to $10 per term. Board, including furnished room, lights, washing, &c., $4 per week. Expenses per year in English studies, $102 inclassical, $204. For circular or further information, address th Principal, E. L. QUINLAN, Towanda, Pa. MILLEH FOX, Paint Board Trustees. MAIN STREET,	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COL. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. T. E. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make tracts confortable. Good rooms and the table will strays be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," INIT 1738. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee, Gates and other patrots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands, been improved; entirely refurnished, and the proprietor cordially invites his friends and trav- eling public fo give him a call-no pains will be spared to render their stay comfortable. Peoplo en route for Philadelphia will find it convenient to spend the ingeth here, reaching the city about eight in the morning. A sample room on first floor for accommodation of commercial agents. NEW ARRANGEMENT AT THE FIRST WARD BAKERY. MRS. MARY E. KITTREDGE Having purchased the stock and fixtures of H. A. Gyuck Stock OF GOODS,	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going around a short while after to fasten up the house she had heard loud tones in the library and had paused at the door to listen. The words she caught were few. She had heard the younger man stop in his walk up and down the room, and say, excitedly, "By heaven, you'lie, sir ! My father never did that; and were you not an	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, emplored the premises, the rung, the charred bones, but these told no story. If there had been a murder, Frederick Ellis innocent, Mr. Howe was alive. I must find him if I would, save the prisoner, and I must find him within a month. But how? I had no clue what- ever to his whereabouts. If he had	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. CHILDEEN'S STUDIES.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to 'maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to acquire, and yet if you neglect his physical culture, why you leave him without the motive power to make use of that hardly-won knowledge. Parents are undoubtedly anxious to see their children become accom- plished scholars, and hence too often fail to notice that their children are overtaxing themselves. Such a lack of observation on their part is the	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUANDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered foreible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is weak—that is, full of superlatives and fury—because he is afraid to be strong—that is, moderate and rea- sonable—and one good way for him to correct his style, and thereby to command attention and influence, is to reflect as he writes that his read- ers are quite as thoughtful and in-	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do Right Eventwhene. — Mans only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his foes—will rebuke what they before have justified, and accuse him of the very acts which they aided and encouraged him in. Do right everywhere. There is no safety in sin. Confide in no one ; presume upon nothing sufficiently to do that which is wrong. The watch- ing eye of God is upon us, and when we depart from Him he has ten thou-	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don'r QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people ever truly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his bosom with the same tenderness as before those words were spoken. The two people who must never quarrel are husband and wife. One may fall out with kinsman, and make up and be friends again. The tie of blood is a strong one, and affection may return after it has flown away; but love, once it has been banished, is a dead thing.	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avon people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Canilor is lost upon them: They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches, of all the thousand springs of human action they know but one, and that the worst — selfishness. Let them stop that spring in their own moral machinery, if they can. Let them do it for their own sakes, for they can never know how mach of good there
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tution will open AUGUST 24, 1574, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWIS E. QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. O eminercial, Mathematical and Scientific forsaches. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECETTRES. Commercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECETTRES. Commercial and Higher English. Madenoteclie J. L&QUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, Vocal Music. Instrumental Music. After etrin, The Principal will conduct the two dynove themselves worthy and competent in whetprove themselves worthy and competent in the and using the increased facilities of ap- paratus, to make the instruction in this class more providable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made free to member of the school. These two studies, if pain for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly to ext the cost of tuition. Provision is also made for individual instruction fit music is too well more the aboratory is being fitted up and the collect a new laboratory is being fitted up and the collect a new laboratory is being fitted up and the collect and of Indisophical apparatus enlarged. The grounds are being graded, fine croque grounds are prepared and effort made to meet the physical a welfus the intellectual ways of the studies. Tatition from $4 to $10 per term. Board, including inclassing ery year in English studies, $192 inclassing of UNACOBS' TEMPLE OF FASHION	MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, COL. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES. The Horses, Harness. &c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge. A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received. T. E. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71. Proprietor. MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA. W. W. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance Principles. Every effort will be made. to make ruests confortable. Good rooms and the table will strays be supplied with the best the market all fords: Nov. 1, 1871. BETHLEHEM, PA. "OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," INTER 1738. Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the rejourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee, Gates and other patrots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has recently changed hands. Leen Improved, entirely refurnished, and the proprietor cordially invites his floands and trav- eling public fo give him a call-no pains will be spared to render their stay comfortable. Peoplo en route for Philadelphia will find it convenient to spend the ingeth here, reaching the city about eight in the morning. A sample room on first floor for accommodation of commercial agoints. NEW ARRANGEMENT AT THE FIRST WARD BAREENT MRS. MARY E. KITTREDGE Having purchased the slock and fixtures of H. A. Gwies' bakery, has refitted the establishment and pirchased an entirely NEW STOCK OF GOODS, Suited to the trade, such as GROCENES, TEAS, COFFEE, DRIED FRUITS, CANNED TRUE, CANDES, COFFEETIONERY, FRESH BREAD,	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'clock in the evening. At first he was refused admittance; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going around a short while after to fasten up the house she had heard loud tones in the library and had paused at the door to listen. The words she caught were few. She had heard the younger man stop in his walk up and down the room, and say, excitedly, "By heaven, you lie, sir ! My father never did that; and were you not an old man and Ellen's uncle, I would	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had some presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed mo for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, emplored the premises, the rung, the charred bones, but these told no story. If there had been a murder, Frederick Ellis was the guilty man. If he was innocent, Mr. Howe was alive. I must find him if I would, save the prisoner, and I must find him within a month. But how? I had no clue what- ever to his whereabouts. If he had gone away, he had left no trace. I	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. CHILOREN'S STUDIES.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to 'maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to acquire, and yet if you neglect his physical culture, why you leave him without the motive power to make use of that hardly-won knowledge. Parents are undoubtedly anxious to see their children become accom- plished scholars, and hence too often fail to notice that their children are overtaxing themselves. Such a lack of observation on their part is the first sten toward the child's ultimate	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKOUANDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent smart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered foreible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is weak—that is, full of superlatives and fury—because he is afraid to be strong—that is, moderate and rea- sonable—and one good way for him to correct his style, and thereby to command attention and infinence, is to reflect as he writes that his read- ers are quite as thoughtful and in- telligent as he is, and that the pub-	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity which breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if abe were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consions- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do Right Eventwhene. — Man's only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sine shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his foes—will rebuke what they before have justified, and accuse him of the very acts which they aided and encouraged him in. Do right everywhere. There is no safety in sin. Confide in no one ; presume upon nothing sufficiently io do that which is wrong. The watch- ing eye of God is upon us, and when we depart from Him he has ten thon- sand rods with which to chasten us	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don't QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people evar truly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his bosom with the same tenderness as before those words were spoken. The two people who must never quarrel are husband and wife. One may fall out with kinsman, and make up and be friends again. The tie of blood is a strong one, and affection may return after it has flown away; but love, once it has been banished, is a dead thing.	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avom people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Candor is lost upon them They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches, of all the thousand springs of human action they know but one, and that the worst — selfishness. Let them stop that spring in their own moral machinery, if they can. Let them do it for their own sakes, for they can never know how mach of good there is in the world until they do. A second Methuselah has been dis- covered in Brazil. He is one hund- red and seventy-nine years of age
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fall term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tition will open AUGUST 21, 1574, with the follow ing list of instructors : EEWISE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. E. L. HILLIS, A.B. Connercial, Mathematical and Scientific Branches. Connercial and Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERRILL, PRECETTRES. Common and Higher Enclish. Mademosciele J. LeQUIN, French Language, Drawing and Painting. Mrs. L. A. BALDWIN, G. Vocal Music. I.strumental Music. Artesse A: Class will be organized st commence non: Arbo term, The Principal will conduct the considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made for devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap- paratins, to make the instruction in this class more rofitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made for devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap- paratins, to make the instruction in this class more rofitable than ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made fore to the cost of tuition. Those two studies, if pair for as extras, as is usually the case, would nearly cover the cost of tuition. These two studies, if pair in on restor is being fitted up and the collect the on of Philosophical apparatus enlarged. The grounds are being graded, fince cropuet grounds are prepared and effort made to meet the physical a velias the intellectual wants of the sudents. Tition from $4 to $10 per term. Board, including furnished room, lights, washing, &c., $4 per week. Expenses per year in English studies, $102 inclassical, $204. For circular or further information, address th Principal, E. L. QUINLAN, Towanda, Pa. MILLEH FOX, Paint Board Trustees. MAIN STREET,	<ul> <li>Dec. 23, 563-44.</li> <li>MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, .COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES.</li> <li>The Horses, Harness. &amp;c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge.</li> <li>A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received.</li> <li>T. E. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71.</li> <li>PROPERTOR, MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA.</li> <li>W. M. BROWNING, This House is conducted in strictly Temperance optinciples. Every effort will be made, to make rtuests confortable. Good rooms and the table will strays be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871.</li> <li>BETHLEHEM, PA.</li> <li>"OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1758.</li> <li>Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee. Gates and other patriots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has, recently changed hands, been improved; entirely refurnished, and the proprietor cordially invises his friends and trav- eling public fo give him a call-no pains will be enroute for philadelphia will find it convenient to spared to render their stay comfortable. Feeple enroute for philadelphia will find it convenient to spared to render their stay comfortable. Record for accommodation of commercial agents. C. T. SMITH, Sept 4, 1873.</li> <li>DEW ARRANGEMENT</li> <li>AT THE FIRST WARD BAKERY.</li> <li>MRS. MARY E. KITTREDGE Having purchased the stock and futures of H. A. Cowled Eakery, has refitted the establishment and purchased an entirely</li> <li>NEW STOCK OF GOODS, Suited to the trade, such as GROCENTES, TEAS, COFFEE, DRIED FRUTTS, CANNED</li> </ul>	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'cleck in the evening. At first he was refused admittance ; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going around a short while after to fasten up the house she had heard loud tones in the library and had paused at the door to listen. The words she caught were few. She had heard the younger man stop in his walk up and down the room, and say, excitedly, "By heaven, you'lie, sir! My father never did that; and were you not an old man and Ellen's uncle, I would kill you this instant for saving so."	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had soms presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, emplored the premises, the rung, the charred bones, but these told no story. If there had been a murder, Frederick Ellis was the guilty man. If he was innocent, Mr. Howe was alive. I must find him if I would, save the prisoner, and I must find him within a month. But how? I had no clue what- ever to his whereabouts. If he had gone away, he had left no trace. I spared no expense. on all the rail-	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Children's Stupies.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to acquire, and yet if you neglect his physical culture, why you leave him without the motive power to make use of that hardly-won knowledge. Parents are undoubtedly anxious to see their children become accom- plished scholars, and hence too often fail to notice that their children are overtaxing themselves. Such a lack of observation on their part is the first step toward the child's ultimate physical value. The first is also with a hence the child's a lack of observation on their part is the first step toward the child's ultimate physical value. The first is also with	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent shart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foclish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is weak—that is, full of superlatives and fury—because he is afraid to be strong—that is, moderate and rea- sonable—and one good way for him to correct his style, and thereby to command attention and influence, is to reflect as he writes that his read- ers are quite as thoughtful and in- telligent as he is, and that the pub- lic which most newspaper writer	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do Right Evenywhene. — Man's only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his foes—will rebuke what they before have justified, and accuse him of the very acts which they aided and encouraged him in. Do right everywhere. There is no safety in sin. Confide in no one ; presume upon nothing sufficiently to do that which is wrong. The watch- ing eye of God is upon us, and when we depart from Him he has ten thon- sand rods with which to chasten us and correct our faults. Trust not in	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don't QUARREL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people evar traly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his boson with the same tenderness as before those words were spoken. The two people who must never quarrel are husband and wife. One may fall out with kinsman, and make up and be friends again. The tie of blood is a strong one, and affection may return after it has flown away; but love, once it has been banished, is a dead thing. The heart may ache, but it is with honeldesness. It may be impossible	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avon people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Canilor is lost upon them: They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches, of all the thousand springs of human action they know but one, and that the worst — selfishness. Let them do it for their own sakes, for they can never know how mach of good there is in the world until they do. A second Methuselah has been dis- covered in Brazil. He is one hund- red and seventy-nine years of age
SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE The Fill term of the twentieth year of this Insti- tituion will open AUGUST 21, 1574, with the follow ing list of instructors : EFWISE QUINLAN, PRINCIPAL, Ancient Languages and Normal Branches. EL HILLIS, A.B. Connecretal, Mathematical Branches. Miss MARY E. MERBILL PRECETRES. Commons and Higher Enclish. Mademoiscile J. LEQUIN, French Languages, Drawing and Palating. Miss. MARY E. MERBILL PRECETRES. Commons and Higher Enclish. Mademoiscile J. LEQUIN, French Languages, Drawing and Palating. Miss. C. A. BALDWIN, C. Vocal Music. I.strumental Music. A Tead. :: Class will be organized st commence ment. Arb etm., The Principal will conduct the curing positions. Effort will be made by devolu- more time and using the increased facilities of ap- parates, to make the instruction in this class more profitable inan ever before. At a considerable additional expense, instruction in Drawing and Vocal Music has been made from the members of the school. These two studies, if pain for as extras, as is neally the case, would nearly cover the cost of ruition. 'Frovision is also madi- for of Thilosophical apparatus enlarged. The rounds are being graadid, fine croque grounds ar prepared and effort made to meet the physical a welling the intervision fits of allogenes. Taition from $4 to $10 per term. Board, including furnished room, lights, washing, &c., $4 per week. Expenses per year in English studies, $192 inclassical, $204. TEMPLE, OF, FASHION MAIN STREFT, FOR LATEST STYLES IN	<ul> <li>Dec. 23, 563-44.</li> <li>MEANS HOUSE, TOWANDA, .COE. MAIN AND ERIFGE STREES.</li> <li>The Horses, Harness. &amp;c. of all guests of this house, insused against loss by Fire, without any ex- tra charge.</li> <li>A superior quality of Old English Bass Ale, just received.</li> <li>T. E. JORDAN, Towands, Jan. 24.'71.</li> <li>PROPERTOR, MANSION HOUSE, LERATSVILLE, PA.</li> <li>W. M. BROWNING, DEC. 25 every effort will be made, for make rises is conducted in strictly Temperance of inciples. Every effort will be made, for make rises confortable. Good rooms and the table will strays be supplied with the best the market af- fords: Nov. 1, 1871.</li> <li>BETHLEHEM, PA.</li> <li>"OLD MORAVIAN SUN INN," BUILT 1758.</li> <li>Rich in historical interest, it is the only building in the country except Independence Hall, honored by the sojourn within its walls of Washington, LaFay- ette, Lee. Gates and other patriots of the revolu- tion. This popular hotel has, recently changed hands, been improved; entirely refurnished, and the proprietor cordially invises his friends and trav- eling public fo give him a call-no pains will be enroute for philadelphia will find it convenient to spared to render their stay comfortable. People enroute for philadelphia will find it convenient to spared to render their stay comfortable. People enroute for philadelphia will find it convenient to spared the night here, reaching the city about eight in the morning. A sampleroom on first floor for accommodation of commercial agents. C. T. SMITH, Sept 4, 1873.</li> <li>NEW ARRANGEMENT</li> <li>AT THE FIRST WARD BakkERY.</li> <li>MRS. MARY E. KITTREDGE</li> <li>Having purchased the stock and futures of H. A. Cowled Enkery, has refitted the establishment and purchased an entirely</li> <li>NEW STOCK OF GOODS, Suited to the trade, such as</li> <li>GROCENTES, Trass, COFFEE, DRIED FRUTTS, CANNER</li> </ul>	was certain that Michael Howe en- tertained feelings of the most violent hatred toward the young man him- self, and had repeatedly and in the most abusive language furbidden his holding any communication with Miss Howe. Ellis, on his part, cor- dially detested the uncle; but he loved the niece, and determined to marry her, in spite of her guardian, and upon the night of the murder he had called to tell him so. The interview between Michael Howe and Frederick Ellis no human eye had witnessed. All that was known of it was gathered from the account given by the young man himself. Strange to say, this account, though it positively denied all knowl- edge of the murder, was fatally dam- aging to the young man's case. He had, he said, called on Mr. Howe about ten o'cleck in the evening. At first he was refused admittance ; but as he was turning away, the merchant himself came out of the library and told him to come in, saying that they might as well have it out then as any other time. They went into the library, and as the servant also testi- fied, the k-y was turned and the two remained until everybody in the house had retired. The only additional testimony giv- en by the servant was, that in going around a short while after to fasten up the house she had heard loud tones in the library and had paused at the door to listen. The words she caught were few. She had heard the younger man stop in his walk up and down the room, and say, excitedly, "By heaven, you'lie, sir! My father never did that; and were you not an old man and Ellen's uncle, I would kill you this instant for saving so."	Strange prophecy! Could the old man have had soms presentiment that Frederick Ellis would so soon be sentenced to the gallows? But he had said, too, "I shall see it with these eyes." And Michael Howe was a man of his word after all. Did he mean he would look down with his evil eyes and view the transaction from the other world? A new thought struck me. Might there not be some hidden meaning in his words? Half true they were certain likely to be. Might they not prove wholly so? Was it positively certain that a murder had been com- mitted? Was Mr. Howe beyond all doubt passed from the land of the living? I did not believe it! The next day I called upon Miss Howe. She was in deep black, and quite broken down with grief. I ex- plained, as well as I could, my suspi- cions and theory as to the murder, and she blessed me for the hope it brought her. She was rich, but her lover must be saved if it took all. No expense must be spared ; all was in my hands. I left her with a de- termination to prove Frederick Ellis innocent in spite of fate. It was of no use to fight the evidence. I went through it all once more, emplored the premises, the rung, the charred bones, but these told no story. If there had been a murder, Frederick Ellis was the guilty man. If he was innocent, Mr. Howe was alive. I must find him if I would, save the prisoner, and I must find him within a month. But how? I had no clue what- ever to his whereabouts. If he had gone away, he had left no trace. I spared no expense. on all the rail-	To describe the wonder of the crowd and of the city, or the wild happiness of Miss Howe and the joy of the condemned man at this sud- den denoueneut, is as needless as it is impossible. The story ends here. Old Howe was committed at once, but escaped the law by hanging him- self to the window bar. His scheme of vengence was perfect indeed ; but he carried it a little too far. He died without a will, and the young people were married at once, and have long been enjoying his wealth. Snow made a good thing of it, and they have naturally looked upon me as a friend of the family ever since. I was so tickled at my success that I con- cluded to try the detective profession for a living, and I 've been moderate- ly successful at it ever since, though never more so that in my first case. Children's Stupies.—It is said to be quite notorious that our youth are growing physically inferrior to the youth of other nations. You may construct the most perfect steam engine in the world, but if it has not the motive power, steam, it will not work. So with man or woman.— You may train the child till it comes to maturity in all the branches of learning it is possible for him to acquire, and yet if you neglect his physical culture, why you leave him without the motive power to make use of that hardly-won knowledge. Parents are undoubtedly anxious to see their children become accom- plished scholars, and hence too often fail to notice that their children are overtaxing themselves. Such a lack of observation on their part is the first step toward the child's ultimate physical value. The first is also with a hence the child's a lack of observation on their part is the first step toward the child's ultimate physical value. The first is also with	we shall have them in February and August; five years more and they will be in October and May; five years more, in August and February; five years more, and they will corres- pond once more to what they are now.—Harper's Magazine. WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impres- sion except that of impudent shart- ness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is, nevertheless, a foclish illusion to suppose that mod- eration of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tame- ness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is swiftly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely in- vited the enemy to fire first, were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is weak—that is, full of superlatives and fury—because he is afraid to be strong—that is, moderate and rea- sonable—and one good way for him to correct his style, and thereby to command attention and influence, is to reflect as he writes that his read- ers are quite as thoughtful and in- telligent as he is, and that the pub- lic which most newspaper writer	from her servants without exacting it, and whose children do not dream of disputing her wishes; who, though so gentle and affable, stops short of that kind of familiarity whitch breeds contempt, and with whom no one takes a liberty. For this one can hard- ly give a reason. She would not ramp or rave if she were dipleased; she would not scold, she could not strike; but there is a certain quality in her which we may not be able to form- ulize, yet which would make us ashamed to pass beyond the bound- aries of the strictest respect, and which restrains others less consious- ly critical than ourselves as certain ly as fear. Do Right Evenywhene. — Man's only safety is in doing right at all times and under all circumstances. It is Satan's trick to make our doing right depend on times and seasons, on persons and places. He who does wrong because no one will know it will be terribly disappointed when his sins shall find him out. He who ceases to be watchful and circumspect in the presence of his friends, will find that those friends in whom he thus confided in an unguarded hour will betray his confidence and be- come his foes—will rebuke what they before have justified, and accuse him of the very acts which they aided and encouraged him in. Do right everywhere. There is no safety in sin. Confide in no one ; presume upon nothing sufficiently to do that which is wrong. The watch- ing eye of God is upon us, and when we depart from Him he has ten thon- sand rods with which to chasten us and correct our faults. Trust not in	The reason why persons bearing the names of Jones, Williams, and Davies, or Davis, are numerous out of all proportion to the population, is that John, William, and David or Davy were, at the time of the adop- tion of surnames, excessively com- mon as Christian names. According to the reports of the English Regis- trar General for 1863, Jones, next to English Smith, is the most common name in England and Wales com- bined. Don't QUARNEL.—People talk of lover's quarrels as rather pleasant episodes—probaly because they are not quarrels at all. She pouts, he kisses he frowns, she coaxes. It is half play, and they know it. Matri- monial quarrels are another thing. I doubt seirously if married people evar truly forgive each other after the first falling out. They gloss it over; they kiss and make up; the wound apparently heals, but only as some of those terrible wounds given in battle do—to break out rgain at some unexpected moment. The man who has sneered and said cruel things to a sensitive woman has never her whole heart again, The woman who has uttered reproaches to a man can never be taken to his bosom with the same tenderness as before those words were spoken. The two people who must never quarrel are husband and wife. One may fall out with kinsman, and make up and be friends again. The tie of blood is a strong one, and affection may return after it has flown away; but love, once it has been banished, is a dead thing.	spoke: "I have come to settle the dispute; let the children have the lot on eith- er sids of the lane, and I will build them a house." "And I will furnish it." 'So the recreant children were sent for and forgiven, and came home to receive their parents' blessing. And now there are no more lawyers for the two farmers, but each has faith- fully fulfilled his contract in regard to the house and furniture. Avon people who have no faith in their kind. They are dangerous to deal with. A thorough knowledge of their own bad hearts is at the bot- tom of their distrust of others. Tak- ing it for granted that everybody with whom they come in business contact is bent on overreaching them, their object is to spike the enemy's artillery by being the first to over- reach. Canilor is lost upon them: They consider it refined hypocricy. Favors they look upon as cunningly- devised lures, intended to lead them into a trap, and while receiving them willingly, chuckle inwardly at the thought that they are old birds, and cannot be caught by any such devices. These creatures think they under- stand human nature. Poor wretches, of all the thousand springs of human action they know but one, and that the worst — selfishness. Let them stop that spring in their own moral machinery, if they can. Let them do it for their own sakes, for they can never know how mach of good there is in the world until they do. A second Methuselah has been dis- covered in Brazil. He is one hund- red and seventy-nine years of age

5

GOODS RECEIVED EVERY DAT.		from his chair and move towards the	States. 1 even dispatched a messen-	l criticise too severely the teacher of a	exist as a newspaper-reading public.	not in nes do right everywhere and	impossible to restore the old idol to	and from Chain with interest, and
Thwands, April 3, 1874.	ICE CREAM SALOON	I door and then she had harried away i	l apr to Luvernool. though for reasons	I and a and alaym also and also and	l'hose norsone for instance who	trust in that to give victory and rest	its ampty nicho Hor o word or two I
QTAMPING DONE AT MRS.		Inn stairs '	Pot my own. I did not think that Mi-	A the table of the second seco	think that their ennohents in politics t	LID HOL TOHOW LEE MULLIDDE TO CO	for a charmaing of the with for a mo-
• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •	Will a opened in connection with the establish- n where ladies and gentlemen can always find	I FAIIS REKNOWIEDZEG LIE WORDS BIG I	i Cosiel Howe oso leis toe constry. • T	I repaired to a pathical concompande	aro bil kubves or loois, aro dos reso-t	CITT DO TOP DO O CITTO SOLVEL HOLES	ment's self-assertion, two neonie have t	the transformation of the state of the state of the second state of the
HENRY KINGSBURY'S DRESS-	the cest cream and other delicacies of the season.	a great many more duite us violent.	advertised for information concering	l the teacher is anxions and invariably	ers of newspapers: while those who	toor pland boldly up for truth and	ollen been made miserable for life.	to an and anliet in the Spanish army
		He had been with the old man an	a man of his description. I worked	overtexes the child Perents should	are readers do not need to be told.	righteousness, and ever live with a	For whatever there may be before.	to go and emise in the Spanish army
" MAKING ROGMS, No. 2, ARCADE		hour, he said. He had at once an-	night and day myself. Alas! of no	see to it that their children are not	to prevent them from transferring	solemn consciousness of direct and	there are no lover's quarrels after	and nonor their old site.
	Has been refurnished, and will at all times be sup-	nounced his determination to marry	avail. Day trod upon the heel of	overtaged and they may rely upon it	their allegiance, that everything	personal responsibility to God. Make	marriado.	"Norming," said an impatient hus-
BLOCK.	plied with substantial estables, which will be served at reasonable rates. Farmers and others visiting	Ellen Howe at all hazards, but he	day; the second week followed the	that when the shild reacher maturi-	which the other party does, is has	no compromise with error. sin and	В	band, "reminds me so much of Ba-
Wands, Dec. 17, 1873	town will find this a convenient place to supply the	once more asked permission to do so.	first · thethird followed the second.	that when the cant reaches instant-	and corrunt, and that all its leaders	wrong; strikono bargain with Satan:		laam and his ass as two women stop-
FOR SALE A Farm containing	wains of the inner man.	Mr. Howe langhed at him, calling	and now it was the first of March	to its fellow-students in menal ac-	are sconndrels. And the same intel-	everything that he proposes is a tran.	A GENTLEMAN who rather suspect-	ping in church and obstructing the
104 acres, situate'in Pike twp., Bratferd Co.,		him names he did not care to repeat,	and Ellis was to be hung on the	to its fellow-students in menal ac-	ligence which enables a reader to re-	everything that he suggests is a da-	ed some one was peeping through the keyhole of i his office door, investigated with a syringe full of t
Gacres under improvement; Fruned House and	MARY E. KITTREDGE. Towands, April 23, '74-ff.	and finally taunted him with the	third Miss Howa was not Josnon-	quirements, and its physical develop-	tain his convictions although he	Insion and a snare Man is weak	pepper-sauce, and went home to find that his wife had been cutting wood and a chip had hit her in	talk." "But you forget, my dear,"
Perchos, Pears, and choice Granevines thereon	TANK SAT MAD DIANA A Janima	"crime and disgraceful death of his	dant though But I though I had	ments will be far superior.	knows that many honest and able	Satan wily only God is true Trust	had been cutting wood and a chip had hit her in	returned the wife, meakly, "that it
Unimproved land, timbered with Pine, Oak, Chest-	Lie House and Lot on Fourth street 60b		· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	TT7 41	when differ theme "I fand also and I and	in This , do sinht an annual and a d	الثريم فبسبع المداسي وواللو أيوالهم والمحرب
particulars call on a state $25 per acros. For further	horse north of O. D. Bartlett's, convenient to Insti	lather. Then the young man, stung	now given up an hope of hiding my	iana waa hanlad nn for aballing hacon; ha nnt in a	him to nomina that formin and form	Ho shall motost and same don at the	OLD age 15 a blessed time. It gives	Was the anget who stopped the ways
LeRsysville. June 31 2nd W. O. WOOSTER	tute or-Graded School. Enquire on premises.	almost to madness, had used the	man in his place of miding, suit 1 :n-	a defence that he was told by his political teacher	min to perceive that fury is not force	The angue biddeers which seale Aon we the	the leisure' to put off our earthly garments one by one, and dress ourselves for heaven. "Blessed are they that are homesick, for they shall get home."	and Balaam and his ass who comaty plained of it."
4414497A1110. 01114.31 24	Towanda, March 12, '74-tf	words testified to by the servant.	duiged in one toriorn nope which I	to take "sides." somewhere.	'nor sueer blackguardism vigor.	епа.	they that are homesick, for they shall get home."	plained of it.
		P
		10 - 10 - 10 - 10 - 10 - 10 - 10 - 10 -	ί.	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·			a i fill a flore sea	