CHAPLAIN M'CABE addressed a crowded audience at the Methodist Church on Monday evening. Although laboring under the disadvantages of a severe cold, and excessive fatigue, having spoken four times the previous day, he was listened to with the most intense and enthusiastic attention. The fact of having participated in, and been witness to the horrors of that shameful reproach to modern civilization, Libby Prison, gave peculiar interest to his narrative. The fine art of the speaker was evinced in the power with which his inimical de-
