The retail coal dealers of this city allege that they are being forced out of business by this Company's retailing coal to consumers. the largest retail dealers was before the committee, and his evidence is about a fair sample of all who are against the Reading Company. Mr. Fisher, the dealer in question, testified, that he was driven out of business because of the deficit in weight of each car-load of coal furnished him by the Reading Co. On cross-examination he stated that to the best of his knowledge the instances of short weight amounted to a dozen. When asked to detail those instances, the witness was able to testify to but one, which was that of a consignment to him of five car loads of coal, for a Mr. Strouse; that the weight fell short about three hundred pounds to a car; that in this case he merely acted as: the agent of Mr. Strouse, having had the Mr. Stronse's cellar, for which he was paid liberally for his services: that the

The whole thing, on the part of the retail dealers, whose prices are $2 a ton-higher than the Reading prices, is so riliculouly contemptible that I really wonder why the time of legislative members is taken up with this matter. Their movement is under the direction of P. T. Barnum, the great American showman. Mr. Barnum, it is explained, haying achieved so many triwmphs in the way of directing public opinion, has resolved to found a new religion, and he has entrusted the work to Moody and Sankey. One of the reasons prompting this speculation on the part of Mr. Barnum, is his desire to furnish a continerpoise to the too powerful novelty of Cardinals McCloskey and Manning. The speculation has proved to be an astomaling success. The pecuniary results have been very great, and the English speak of Barnum with enflusisen as among the wonders of the world. husiasm as among the wonders of the world. Mower. All other mowers with which I am zequainted pass one wheel over the cut grass, packing it closely to the ground, and one horse tramps upon it with the same effect. There are two injuri esuits attending this packing. First, it prevents quick drying; and second, the bruised grass is damaged in quality, for the juices, instead of drying into palatable food, are subject to chemical changes which convert the nutritive properties into useles matter just to that extent in which the green grass is bruised. On hard bottom meadow with a mediu crop the broad face of the wheel rolling upon every swath brules a considerable portion of the whole I have witnessed the work of the Eureka, and in these two important particulars it is better than the work of any machine which runs over the swath Besides, the cut grass is left in the loosest condition, admitting currents of air to effect speedy turing, which is essential to secure the flucit hay PRESIDENT HOFFMAN. The questions brought to us in the letter are fair. They deserve our conderation, because they affect our interests. We nave in this Club been very careful about recomending seeds or implements until we have made ull tests, and we intend that none may be misled I used a Eureka Mower in the last having, cutting a hundred seres with it-some of it extremely rough hillside on which there were many large tones. It had been moved many ti always with a scythe. I went over it with the Eucks and cut it well, and the machine came on well from the severe trial. There is an important advantage in the use of this mower, in the cutting back and forth, making a compact piece more easy to gather than when the cut is around the field or a plece, as by the side cut machines. And there is a farther advantage in the raking. The grass will gather cleaner from the swaths of the Eureka than rom any other machine I have ever used. Running in parallel lines across one side of the field the rake omes more constantly against the sides of the swaths if the grass is of so fine a character as to make the raking difficult. Besides the rough ground I cut on flat, smooth-meadow. I felt sure that the direct draft was easier than by the side cut machines. It is true also that the curing is more even and rapid, owing to the condition in which the grass is left... There was in my machine a mechanical defecta lack of metal in two important points. I learn that in the present manufacture this has been corrected. I apprehended that in very heavy grass the machine would load, but I am satisfied after trial that it will not. I speaked it and it's work as they appeared to me. I confess to disappointment. I did not expect such ability to meet difficulties as I found. The hillside which I moved was a severe test, and-there were twenty-five acres of it. In driving a wagon along the slope to gather crops, I have found it necessary to chain a lever to the upper side and weight it to prevent upsetting. Of much excited at the creation of a cardinal -a "real prince" it calls him, -and it is course the mover would slide so that I could not evidently of the opinion that our country get full swath, but it only made the work slower,
