with pleasure report the seminary. under the management of Rev. Dr. Copeland and his co-laborers, occupies a prominent position among our educational institutions. Three days spent in the recitation rooms, diping hall and chapel, have given us an opportunity to judge of the government of the school as well as of its scholarship. The gentlemanly bearing and lady-like deportment of the students speak well for the discipline of the school. The lesson of self-government seems to have been well taught, and we are not surprised to learn that there has been great freedom from all acts of disorder during the entire year. As a college preparatory school the seminary ranks very high. The presidents of Yale, Wesleyan, University and Lafavette colleges report Wyoming students as standing among the first in scholarship and gentlemanly deportment. The high reputation of the school in this respect 1 largely due to Prof. Randall, of the department of Latin and Greek.

Advantages are offered by Myoming seminary for a general academic education for both ladies and gentle men. There are two courses of stu iv taken no medicines and has never called a for this purpose. A three years course for literature and science and a classical course of four years. Both of these courses are complete, affording a broad and varied culture. Peculiar facilities are afforded, for the study of natural science. The labratory is well furnished with the necessary apparatus for thorough instruction in this department.
