

Editors: E. O. GOODRICH, S. W. ALVORD. Published: Thursday, Oct. 7, 1875.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR: GEN. JOHN F. HARRINGTON. FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL: HENRY HAWLEY.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET.

FOR THE SHERIFF: ANDREW J. LAYTON. FOR THE CLERK: BENJAMIN M. PECK. FOR THE REGISTER: GEORGE W. HAYES.

Republican Mass Meetings.

Friday Evening, Oct. 8. John's School House, Albany. Monday Evening, Oct. 11. John's School House, Albany. Tuesday Evening, Oct. 12. Canton Boro. Wednesday Evening, Oct. 13. Canton Boro. Thursday Evening, Oct. 14. Canton Boro. Friday Evening, Oct. 15. Canton Boro. Saturday Evening, Oct. 16. Canton Boro. Sunday Evening, Oct. 17. Canton Boro. Monday Evening, Oct. 18. Canton Boro. Tuesday Evening, Oct. 19. Canton Boro. Wednesday Evening, Oct. 20. Canton Boro. Thursday Evening, Oct. 21. Canton Boro. Friday Evening, Oct. 22. Canton Boro. Saturday Evening, Oct. 23. Canton Boro. Sunday Evening, Oct. 24. Canton Boro. Monday Evening, Oct. 25. Canton Boro. Tuesday Evening, Oct. 26. Canton Boro. Wednesday Evening, Oct. 27. Canton Boro. Thursday Evening, Oct. 28. Canton Boro. Friday Evening, Oct. 29. Canton Boro. Saturday Evening, Oct. 30. Canton Boro. Sunday Evening, Oct. 31. Canton Boro.

PLEAS GUILTY.

After the publication of Mrs. Miller's affidavit, charging her son-in-law, Col. Prolet, with fraud in the settlement of her husband's estate, no time was lost in fixing the matter up, and Mrs. Miller ought to thank us for saving her a good round attorney fee, to say nothing of the delay and uncertainty of the law.

These few lines were left out of the issue because they could not stand Democratic correction. And it is a singular fact that all these fellows, who are so ready to correct others, are themselves guilty of the same crime.

This man who talks of conscience was hardly in his legislative seat before he hastened to have the Legislature endorse and applaud DAVID WILMOT's desire to preserve new territory from the encroachments of Slavery.

YOU HAD.

The following is a letter from Mr. CHURCH to Mr. ALVORD, dated Oct. 1st, 1875. It is highly creditable to the reputation of our candidate for Sheriff, Mr. LAYTON, that his Democratic competitor, and his friends cannot, and dare not, say anything derogatory to his character, or depreciatory of his fitness and qualifications for the office.

In marked contrast with the means employed by the Democratic candidate for Sheriff, Mr. LAYTON has not stooped to any low and disreputable expedients, but has conducted himself in a gentlemanly and honorable manner.

I am informed that my Democratic competitor for the office of Sheriff, and others, are circulating in the county a list of names of persons who have been employed by the Democratic candidate for Sheriff, and who are alleged to have been employed by the Democratic candidate for Sheriff, and who are alleged to have been employed by the Democratic candidate for Sheriff.

A LIE SAILED TO THE COUNTRY.

The North American's defiance of this spy synopsis of an interview had by a Tribune correspondent with a "Republican politician" of Philadelphia, in which the "concerning" has a word or two to say concerning our "honest layseed Granger." Our readers will relish this, especially the mouthful of honesty represented in the person of the Granger statesman.

Without any well-defined policy, principles, in fact, with nothing but inflation scribbled upon their banners—the Democracy of Ohio and Pennsylvania have entered the political field. On this issue, with the exception of a gambler who stakes his last dollar, they are expected to make no pretensions to patriotism during the days of the rebellion.

By reading the following correspondence, the reader will perceive that Mr. SATTERLEE declines the nomination for Sheriff of the Prohibition ticket. WYOMING, Sept. 27, 1875. JOHN F. SATTERLEE, Esq.

"HONEST POLLETT."

The long-talked-of resignation of Secretary Delano has at length been accepted. The Administration appears to be getting around for a successor, but as yet nothing definite has been made public. The latest rumor is that Mr. Geo. D. Coleman, of Lebanon, Penna., has been tendered the appointment.

Without any well-defined policy, principles, in fact, with nothing but inflation scribbled upon their banners—the Democracy of Ohio and Pennsylvania have entered the political field. On this issue, with the exception of a gambler who stakes his last dollar, they are expected to make no pretensions to patriotism during the days of the rebellion.

Without any well-defined policy, principles, in fact, with nothing but inflation scribbled upon their banners—the Democracy of Ohio and Pennsylvania have entered the political field. On this issue, with the exception of a gambler who stakes his last dollar, they are expected to make no pretensions to patriotism during the days of the rebellion.

LETTERS FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER. Information and Democratic Party. The President's Situation in the West—Washington, Tuesday, Oct. 6, 1875.

Without any well-defined policy, principles, in fact, with nothing but inflation scribbled upon their banners—the Democracy of Ohio and Pennsylvania have entered the political field. On this issue, with the exception of a gambler who stakes his last dollar, they are expected to make no pretensions to patriotism during the days of the rebellion.

Without any well-defined policy, principles, in fact, with nothing but inflation scribbled upon their banners—the Democracy of Ohio and Pennsylvania have entered the political field. On this issue, with the exception of a gambler who stakes his last dollar, they are expected to make no pretensions to patriotism during the days of the rebellion.

FROM IDAHO.

OUR BRADFORD CORRESPONDENT. It is a singular fact that all these fellows, who are so ready to correct others, are themselves guilty of the same crime.

Without any well-defined policy, principles, in fact, with nothing but inflation scribbled upon their banners—the Democracy of Ohio and Pennsylvania have entered the political field. On this issue, with the exception of a gambler who stakes his last dollar, they are expected to make no pretensions to patriotism during the days of the rebellion.

Without any well-defined policy, principles, in fact, with nothing but inflation scribbled upon their banners—the Democracy of Ohio and Pennsylvania have entered the political field. On this issue, with the exception of a gambler who stakes his last dollar, they are expected to make no pretensions to patriotism during the days of the rebellion.

AT PANIC POINTS.

OUR BRADFORD CORRESPONDENT. It is a singular fact that all these fellows, who are so ready to correct others, are themselves guilty of the same crime.

Without any well-defined policy, principles, in fact, with nothing but inflation scribbled upon their banners—the Democracy of Ohio and Pennsylvania have entered the political field. On this issue, with the exception of a gambler who stakes his last dollar, they are expected to make no pretensions to patriotism during the days of the rebellion.

Without any well-defined policy, principles, in fact, with nothing but inflation scribbled upon their banners—the Democracy of Ohio and Pennsylvania have entered the political field. On this issue, with the exception of a gambler who stakes his last dollar, they are expected to make no pretensions to patriotism during the days of the rebellion.

NEW GOODS.

KENT & BLISS. Have just opened their first invoice of FALL GOODS.

DRESS GOODS. CLOTHS. CASSIMERES. SHAWLS. GLOVES. HOSIERY. LADIES' TIES. Notions &c.

Special bargains in every department. Call and examine. KENT & BLISS. TRAVEL & TOURS. A. YER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

REPORTER FOR THE CAMPAIGN.

We will mail the REPORTER and its contents to the close of the present campaign, or November 10, for 25 cents.

WE DEMAND THE EVIDENCE.

Mr. STONKS spends much of his time in retelling to Republicans some revelations, which he professes were made to him by WM. GRIFFIS, in order to prejudice them against his opponent, A. J. LAYTON. This is about the "story" STONKS tells: That WILLIAM GRIFFIS told him that an arrangement had been entered into between GRIFFIS, J. M. SMITH and A. J. LAYTON, by which the latter was to pay SMITH $2500 and GRIFFIS $1000 in the event of LAYTON's nomination and election.

If this charge is true MR. LAYTON is disqualified for any office in the country, and we here assure Mr. STONKS that if he will produce the evidence that Mr. LAYTON has entered into any such agreement, or any other corrupt arrangement to secure his nomination and election, to the office of Sheriff, we will repudiate him and demand that his name be stricken from our ticket. If Mr. STONKS does not substantiate his "story," he must stand convicted of a base and calumnious falsehood. This language may seem strong, but it is no more emphatic than the subject demands.

At the election in 1846, through the desires and exertions of DAVID WILMOT, the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, VICTOR E. PROLETT, was nominated and elected to the Legislature of Pennsylvania.

One of his first acts as a member of that body was to introduce resolutions in favor of the Wilmot Proviso, which resolutions were unanimously passed in the House, and with but three dissenting votes in the Senate (Col. MASON then representing this district). PROLETT was then professedly an ardent friend of the Wilmot Proviso. But as the Slave Power brought its influences to bear, and the Democratic party became the adjunct and tool of the Slavery propagandists, PROLETT proved false to his professions, and became not merely the facile tool and advocate of the Slave Power, but the most unscrupulous and malignant of the detractors of DAVID WILMOT's motives, and the most bitter and virulent of those who made a personal warfare upon him.

We need hardly remind our readers of the base and dishonorable means which were employed in a vain but wicked attempt to break down the great champion of Free Labor and Free Speech, for that eventful period in the history of the country is well remembered by many of our voters. The leader in this base warfare upon one of the purest public men the country has ever known, was VICTOR E. PROLETT. It was his brutality and venom which embittered the politics of that day, and which followed Mr. WILMOT with a persecution which, for infamy and personal detraction, has never had its parallel. It was the malice and treachery displayed in this warfare which made for the leader a reputation in this country that has elicited a proper rebuke at the polls whenever the people have had an opportunity to express their judgment.

THE PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY owe a plain duty to themselves and to the interests of the institution to promptly disown the proceedings of their State Lecturer, and deposit him from the office he is now prostituting to political purposes. We assert that he has declared heretofore, that his aim was to use the Grange to "break down the d— Republican party," and it can be proven by more than one credible witness. He sought the endorsement of the Democratic County Committee as a candidate for Governor, with the assurance that the Grange influence would nominate him; and his nomination for State Treasurer was axedly brought about by promises of votes from Republican grangers.

At the election in 1846, through the desires and exertions of DAVID WILMOT, the Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, VICTOR E. PROLETT, was nominated and elected to the Legislature of Pennsylvania. One of his first acts as a member of that body was to introduce resolutions in favor of the Wilmot Proviso, which resolutions were unanimously passed in the House, and with but three dissenting votes in the Senate (Col. MASON then representing this district). PROLETT was then professedly an ardent friend of the Wilmot Proviso. But as the Slave Power brought its influences to bear, and the Democratic party became the adjunct and tool of the Slavery propagandists, PROLETT proved false to his professions, and became not merely the facile tool and advocate of the Slave Power, but the most unscrupulous and malignant of the detractors of DAVID WILMOT's motives, and the most bitter and virulent of those who made a personal warfare upon him.

We need hardly remind our readers of the base and dishonorable means which were employed in a vain but wicked attempt to break down the great champion of Free Labor and Free Speech, for that eventful period in the history of the country is well remembered by many of our voters. The leader in this base warfare upon one of the purest public men the country has ever known, was VICTOR E. PROLETT. It was his brutality and venom which embittered the politics of that day, and which followed Mr. WILMOT with a persecution which, for infamy and personal detraction, has never had its parallel. It was the malice and treachery displayed in this warfare which made for the leader a reputation in this country that has elicited a proper rebuke at the polls whenever the people have had an opportunity to express their judgment.

THE PHILADELPHIA NORTH AMERICAN pays its compliments in this vigorous and caustic style to the statesman(?) of Bradford, upon his profound letter, declining to preside at the meeting of the Legal Tender Club.

"The disadvantage of having hair in one's hair is beautifully illustrated in the case of one V. E. PROLETT, who, in addition to being nominated for State Treasurer at Erie, was lately invited to address a public meeting in New York. But Mr. PROLETT had agreed to address the farmers of Bradford county on agriculture, at their county fair, which happened to fall on the same day. In order to make a good impression upon the Bradford farmers Mr. PROLETT had adorned his flowing locks with real country hair, and he was unable to comb it out so as to make himself presentable to the big wig in New York. We regret the failure of the great Granger to meet the kid-glove and swallow-tail Democracy, but his hair is almost as good as anything he could have had, and he has been present on the ground. The last sentence, but one is perfectly logical, nobody can find out what it means. The last sentence is strikingly original. It rises above typography.

MR. CHURCH complains that he has been badly treated because he was not re-nominated by the Republican party, while Mr. PECK was. Has Mr. CHURCH forgotten that he aided in defeating Mr. GLASSBORO for re-nomination three years ago? It is alleged by good men that he then advocated the one-term principle for the Register's office. Whether this is true or not, MR. CHURCH submitted his claims to the party tribunal, which decided by a very large vote against him and in favor of a named Union Soldier, who is admitted by all who know him to be in every way competent to discharge the duties of the office. We submit the question to the intelligent voters of the county: Is Mr. CHURCH's course in keeping with the reputation he has so long enjoyed of being an upright man and consistent Republican? Had a majority of the delegates to the Republican Convention decided to re-nominate him, Mr. ALVORD would have gracefully yielded to the will of the party and given Mr. CHURCH a cordial support.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. MR. GRANGE—PEOPLE'S NEVER. A few years ago the Republican majority in Bradford county was 3,300. Now the Democrats contest every inch of ground in the county. They are in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania. In these latter States the whole of business depression is still raging. The Democrats resolve to inflate and shape their resolutions to suit the times. They are to be simple enough to believe them in their gossamer network of promises, which they well know will never be fulfilled. The Democratic plank of the Democratic platform of Nebraska and the far western States recently adopted such strong language as to be in direct opposition to their Democratic brethren in Ohio and Pennsylvania.