VILCOX.—On the 24th day of January, 1878, Mis-Mary Adelaide Wilcox, daughter of Elen and Mary Elvira Wilcox, aged 27 years. Extract from the sermon preached on the occsion of her funeral by her pastor, Rev. Hallock Armstrong:

Armstrong:

"It has been my pleasure to have known sher whose remains we are about to consign to the tomb from her earliest years. She was my pupil when a little child, when in early youth, and then again in the full maturity of her youth; and I have never known what seeined to me to be a more faultless character. As her teacher for years, I do 'not be character, As her teacher for years, I do 'not be lieve that I ever had occasion to utter one word of surgery." Some insules years and he became a means day of her death. Just only week from the day of her burlal she gent am carnest request for me to visit her. I hastened to her slek chamber and found her in a dying state, and with no hope of living. Her mind was clear and unclouded. She realized her situation. But she could not read her fittle clear to mansions fa the skies. She was for a time to the dark, but longing and praying for ligher and light and peace, and joy and happiness were not long denied her. With great farmestness and with a sweet smile of faith and heps she was able to say: "Seus has pardened my sins. I can trust in Him." From that time until death closed the scene, she seemed at peace and happy. She begged a weeping slater not to weep, saying, "I am happy." No one who was present in that room on the occasion of thy visit can ever doubt that Addite Wilear is now in heaven, a ransomed sinner. He,

Hear is now in heaven, a ransomed sin who while upon earth never turned away a pent soul, did not refuse to hear and answer tent soul, definot refuse to hear and answer the prayer of this poor, suffering, dying sister,:

To the sorrowing father and mother, and brothers and sisters, to the whole afflicted household, I rejoice that I can speak words of comfort and hope. Your daughter, your sister, is not dead, but sleepeth. She will not return to you, but you may go to cher. Benighter that death is not only breaking up, but re-unifing households. The separations are temperary the reunions are eternal.
