

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

GOVERNOR: GENERAL HENRY M. HOYT, Of Luzerne. LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR: HON. CHARLES W. STONE, Of Warren. SECRETARY OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS: HON. AARON K. DUNKLELL, Of Philadelphia. JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT: JUDGE JAMES P. STERRETT, Of Allegheny.

The man ANDERSON has had his name before the POTTER committee. He quoted a letter he supposed to have been written by Secretary SHERMAN, but could only show a copy of it, the original having been taken by WEBER, to whom as well as himself it was addressed. ANDERSON could not swear that the copy was exact with the original, and WEBER was dead, shot down by a murderer, and the original was lost. Secretary SHERMAN confronted the testimony, as false, denied that he had ever written a letter. So until the witness ANDERSON can substantiate his statement, it is unproven.

PHILADELPHIA Press: All the philandering notices sent from Pittsburgh of DILL, the Democratic candidate for Governor, ostensibly refer to his military service. A careful inspection of the State records shows that there was an emergency regiment knocked together in 1861, known as the Twenty-eighth. It was mustered in June 24, and discharged July 25. Its service was one month. ANDREW H. DILL figures as first Lieutenant of Company F. This company consisted of a captain, two lieutenants, five sergeants, eight corporals, and thirty-six whole privates. There is no record in the list of casualties, of a death, wound, or even case of diarrhea. There is nothing to show that this regiment ever heard a hostile shot fired, or even saw a grey uniform. Hurrah for DILL!

The Record, of Philadelphia, is also credited with these scintillating remarks: "The workingmen cannot spend a dollar and keep it at the same time. They also know that the Government expenses have been very heavy, and that large sums must be raised yearly by taxation. The money that has been dissipated in civil war, in riotous living after the war, in vast projects of internal improvement that are not remunerative, in official thefts and jobbery, is to be slowly pulled out of the pockets of the people. The fight will be to bring this about by economy and thrift in public affairs. There is no other way to do it. Those persons who pretend to have discovered new ways to pay old debts are mountebanks."

The Democrats don't care a fig for Mr. Key's letter. Oh, no, they have twenty half himself by it, they say. And yet, strange enough, the whole party is organizing itself into a mob to loot at him. Every Northern editor in the party is devoting a column to him, simply to show that he is not account anyway; all the statesmen at Washington are pouring a similar story into the ears of the reporters and correspondents, and a Southern member of the House is said to be preparing an address to his section to counteract the effect of Mr. Key's misrepresentations. If a man of no account can stir up such a commotion as this, the party must be in a condition of nervous excitement bordering on hysterics.

The Right Worthy Grand Lodge of the World of the Order of Good Templars held its twenty-fourth session in Boston last week. Delegates were in attendance from all parts of the United States, from England, Ireland, Scotland and Canada. The report of the R. W. G. Secretary congratulated the Order on its numerical and financial progress, and summed up as follows: "To-day the Good Templar Order of the world is well established. The total membership is 300,000 adults and 10,000 juveniles."

This is the circumlocutory manner in which the Galveston News expresses the conviction which seems to be gaining strength throughout the country with each succeeding month: The peculiar vein of conservatism which runs through American character and enters into the texture of society is likely to invoke, under the influence of the spirit recently manifested by the Democratic party, the aid of some calm, bold, and strong nature like General Grant, and invest him with the mission of maintaining peace and order.

Among the several counts in the Democratic indictment of the Republican party, is one charging that in 1872, it "reduced the tariff on bituminous coal from one dollar and twenty-five cents to seventy-five cents per ton." Now steps forward Hon. S. S. Cox, otherwise known as "Sunset" Cox, who says that he had that reduction made. And he thinks it not a bad joke that the Republicans should be denounced for what he did. There are a good many plain-tries in the Pittsburgh platform.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL KEY ON THE SITUATION.

The revolutionary proceedings of the Democratic House have aroused the fears of Mr. Key, and he has addressed an open letter to the Southern people giving his views of the situation. When the peace-loving men of the lately rebellious States feel constrained to raise a protest against the conduct of the Democratic party, it behooves the people of the North to be under their guard. The Senate will be under the control of the conspirators after the 4th of March next, and unless the lower branch of Congress is secured to the Republicans there is great danger to be apprehended. The people of this district should not be found slumbering. It is true to the best interests of the nation, the old Wilmot District will return Col. OVERTON with such a united voice as will give the plotters of mischief to understand that we are as loyal to the Union now as in 1860. Mr. Key says:

WASHINGTON, May 29, 1878. The programme for the celebration of the Centennial Anniversary of the battle and massacre of Wyoming on the 3rd and 4th of July, has been published. Over the plain where the struggle commenced a procession will pass the first day, and an oration will be delivered at "Queen Esther's Bloody Roads," telling of the terrible event. On the second day the scene will be transferred to Wilkesbarre, where the memorial service will be transformed into one of celebration and rejoicing that out of the suffering and affliction of that awful day have come peace and prosperity. The history of the valley will be illustrated by a moving pageant typifying the several important epochs, commencing with the Aborigine period when the Leni Lenape held possession of that tribe. Not among the least attractive features of the memorial service will be the music, consisting of a choir of 400 voices and an orchestra of sixty pieces, while on the evenings of the two days, Theodore Thomas will give concerts in Wilkesbarre. The battle field and the entire plain of Wyoming will be restored, so far as practicable, to its original condition. Old Fort Fort has been rebuilt, the block house and palisades being an exact fac-simile of the original in location and size, while dotting the river bank will be seen the log-huts of the Colonists as they appeared in the olden times.

ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS has replied to the allusions to him in Mr. POTTER's recent letter. The concluding paragraphs are as follows: "But I have no time to say more at present, except to add that I look upon the whole of this proceeding, conducted as it was, conducted as it has been, as most unfortunate, and most mischievous. Its effect will be to disturb the peace, harmony and quiet of the country. Neither Mr. POTTER nor anybody else can prevent it; and I say to him most respectfully, that nothing short of an immediate general amnesty for all the participants in law and order among the people of all parties. Republicans and Democrats throughout the Union in reprobation of this investigation proceeding any further with a view to disturb the peace of the country, as announced by the Pennsylvania Democracy in their convention a few days ago, can arrest the most fearful consequences. Those who have, through innocent, sowed the wind will reap the whirlwind. My opinion is, as I have respectfully said, this affair will prove in the end either a contemptible farce or a horrible tragedy. Whether it will lead to the Mexicanization of our Republic, the result must be left to the future. I say to another recent occasion, that all soft words, instilling in the mind of the people of this country the idea that Mr. Hayes can be peacefully unseated by Congress as a despotic and tyrannical ruler, is a delusion. I believe to be the case, then, the people of the Southern States should take care that in the XLVth Congress they are represented by men who will defend the disturbers of the public peace, and prevent the Mexicanization of our institutions. To this they may be compelled to act independent of the Democratic party. Recent events have demonstrated the inability of the Democratic members of Congress to prevent the mandates of the caucus and the terror of the party lash, the one wretched and the other inspired by men who seem willing to endanger the welfare of the country and the stability of republican institutions for the sake of revenge on political opponents and in the hope of dividing the spoils of victory." If the Democratic Representatives of the South could not resist the caucus command to pass the Potter resolution, they should not be able to do so in the XLVth Congress, to resist a similar command to ignore Mr. Hayes as President and to recognize Mr. Tilden.

The South must now face the most momentous crisis in its history since 1861. To endorse the recent conduct of their Representatives is to admit that the cause of the people of the South care nothing for the welfare of the Union, desire the downfall of the Republic and would rejoice to see it again involved in civil war. If their Representatives abstain from any and every act which would tend to divide the Union, I believe to be the case, then, the people of the Southern States should take care that in the XLVth Congress they are represented by men who will defend the disturbers of the public peace, and prevent the Mexicanization of our institutions. To this they may be compelled to act independent of the Democratic party. Recent events have demonstrated the inability of the Democratic members of Congress to prevent the mandates of the caucus and the terror of the party lash, the one wretched and the other inspired by men who seem willing to endanger the welfare of the country and the stability of republican institutions for the sake of revenge on political opponents and in the hope of dividing the spoils of victory." If the Democratic Representatives of the South could not resist the caucus command to pass the Potter resolution, they should not be able to do so in the XLVth Congress, to resist a similar command to ignore Mr. Hayes as President and to recognize Mr. Tilden.

HERE is the method adopted by the chivalrous south to control the political sentiments of the colored voters: "The Columbia (S. C.) Register reviews the career of some colored men charged with crime, and says: 'If they will show penitence and a due regard for public opinion by abstaining from any and every attempt at leadership, the past may be forgiven.' There's something wrong here, certainly. If these colored men are really guilty, aren't their accusers criminally lenient in their forgiveness? But doesn't it look as if the only offense of these colored men has been their activity in politics, and as if charges of crime were made against them solely to secure their inactivity in that field."

WHEAT-HARVESTING is now in progress in all the southern counties of Missouri, which is an extraordinary spectacle for that section of the country. Generally begun about the 20th of June, it continues until the 1st of August. Bishop BROWN, recently elected Bishop of the diocese of Quincy, Ill., is a stately gentleman, an inch over six feet, and of commanding presence. He is fifty years of age.

PACKMAN, a widower, in Milton Vt., has been publicly horsewhipped by a woman and sued by another for $10,000. Both charge him with breach of promise to marry. Don Julian de Zulueta, Marquis of Alva, who died recently in Cuba, worth $20,000,000, is supposed to have imported from the East Indies a life-time not less than 100,000 slaves.

PARTY DISCIPLINE.

THE GREENBACK CLUB DEALING WITH A RECREANT DELEGATE.

How Col. Smith was Served From Expiration by his Friend, the Chairman.

It having been publicly announced that the Greenback Club would take action on the resolution to expel Col. SMITH on Friday evening last, we made our way to Patton's Hall, where we found a not very large audience. The business of the meeting had already begun. At the close of the routine work, the resolution of expulsion was read by "Senator GUNN" in a slow and solemn manner, as though the matter referred to was of the gravest nature. The reading was accompanied by a few remarks pertinent to the question delivered in a tone indicating that the speaker at least meant "business."

As soon as Mr. GUNN ceased speaking, Wm. FOYLE Esq. jumped nervously to his feet, and commenced denouncing in unmeasured terms that "superstition political fraud Col. PROLET." We peered about the room to see if that individual was present, but our eyes could not rest on his honest (?) granger face, and we came to the conclusion that FOYLE had joined in the persecution of his old partner Col. SMITH, as the sum of that gentleman's offending appears to have been voting for PROLET in the Greenback State Convention, but after giving PROLET an unmerciful drubbing, he closed with an eloquent appeal for mercy in behalf of SMITH, picturing the terrible consequences to that unfortunate gentleman's reputation and standing in the community should the ban of excommunication be pronounced against him. With evident emotion he took his seat.

Bro. YOSBURY then took the floor, and after addressing the Chair in genuine parliamentary style, turned his back upon that functionary and began an eloquent harangue with the thrilling sentence, "When BENEDETT ARNOLD betrayed his country and furnished the British general with a topographical survey of the American fortifications." Here the speaker was interrupted by Col. SMITH, who inquired whether the gentleman intended to compare him to BENEDETT ARNOLD? YOSBURY, considering discretion the better part of valor, let that branch of the subject and began an obsequious eulogy of Col. PROLET, whose financial views exactly accorded with his own (Bro. YOSBURY guards the railroad crossing between this place and Wysox, and PROLET is a director in the company).

Now came Col. SMITH's opportunity, and he had evidently prepared himself for it. He began by denying the jurisdiction of the Court, and then stoutly contended that he had not disobeyed instructions. But promised that he would not do so again; then closed with a plaintive appeal to the mercy of the "Club. Col. M'KEAN, President, then arose, and in his blandest mood counseled great latitude and liberality of judgment, suggesting that the party had no votes to lose. But GUNN was for justice, and called loudly on the rank and file not to be influenced by the eloquence and flattery of the accused, but to stand up for the principles of the party: he was purifying the Club, and declared he would have no political fellowship with traitors. He was interrupted by Col. SMITH, who was more of an offender than himself, and was politely told by a gentleman that he was "doubtfully" of his assertions. About this time a general scurrilous began all along the line, and the lie was freely bandied about, interspersed by the shakings of fists and crinations and slennings in a manner that would have done credit to our Confederate Congress. C. C. MOWER, who has been recognized as a leading man in the organization and who was the originator of the movement here, handled the Colonel without gloves, and frankly told him and all other political tricksters that their room was worth more than their company.

Mr. FOYLE having moved the resolution, a vote was taken, and although the motion was lost by a decided majority, the Chair declared it carried, whereupon a division was called for, when the vote was again against postponement, but was nevertheless decided by the Chair to be carried. At this point Mr. MOWER took his hat, and in language more emphatic than classical, announced his withdrawal from the Club, saying, "I had supposed we had an honest Chairman, but I believe you are all a set of d—d rascals." He was induced to return to the room and call for another count, however, which the Chairman acceded to, and made the announcement as follows: "There are nine votes in favor of the motion to postpone and ten against; I will vote for the postponement, and declare it elected." This was too much for MOWER, who again left the Hall, declaring his intention never again to enter it.

The performance was as good as a circus, and we have devoted too much space to it, simply to show what kind of straw such political mountebanks as PROLET and SMITH will catch at. In attempting to manipulate such men as MOWER and GUNN, they discover they have caught a Tartar, and will probably look about for some other organization.
