SOME OUESTIONS ANSWERED. The fiat money people are making so many and so extravagant statements in their arguments before the people that we receive daily numerous letters asking for information on various points. Thus a correspondent represents that Mr. Glover, chairman of the Greenback state committee, in a recent speech at Hinchly, Ill., devoted some time to an explanation of the profits of the National banks from the destruction of the bank notes by fire and other agencies. All the profit from the destruction of bills accrues to the government. The government issues the notes and the banks furnish the means of redecining them. The banks pay taxes on their circulation and their deposits; greenbacks are. not taxable To substitute greenbacks for national bank notes will he to substitute $33 ,000,000 of unaxable currency for a like sum now axed. We have not yet heard of the proposition to tax greenbacks. These fiat money people also deal out strange versions of fact concerning the paper money of England and France. We repeat; 1. All the paper money in France is issued by the Itional Bank of France. and not by the government. 2. The amount outstand ng is about $450,000.000. 3. It is redeemable on demand in coin, at the bank, or its branches. 4. It is not a legal tender for pubed to the House. On the 10th it lic or pivate debts to any amount passed through its several readings whatever.

A correspondent at Racine wishes to know if "the notes of the bank of England are based on the wealth of Pittsburgh National Labor Tribune, the nation," and are money of themselves, requiring no redemption, and are in fact never redeemed, the gold on deposit in the bank being held here merely for the convenience, and THE best protected life is the one pronever for the purpose of redeeming the notes. The truth is that the LOVE is what distinguishes, for every Bank of England is allowed to issue notes up to a certatain amount on a Tur human heart is like heaven : th deposit of government securities; for all notes above that limit the ONE should seek for others the happibank must have a dollar of gold for every dollar of paper outstanding.
