JOHN CHAMBERS will remove his stock of hardware, tinware, etc., next week, from the Hale Block, Bridge street, to the south store in the Carroll Block, Main street.

The Canton correspondent of the Elmira Free Press, under date of March 23d, says: "There seems now to be little doubt but that Minerva will be rebuilt at once. It is asserted that the contract for the building is already let. Our citizens will be glad to have it again open to the public, as it is a great benefit to the people of Canton, but the farmers in this vicinity have gained by having this pleasant and interesting public resort near them."

COLONEL S. D. BARNHART, a prominent lumberman of Williamsport, who had been in very feeble health for the past six months, died at his residence in that city, Friday afternoon last, aged 45 years. He was President of the Lumbermen's Exchange last year, having been a member of the School Board and City Council and ran for Mayor on the Republican ticket and was elected. He served for a year and a half in the rebellion, retiring with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel of the First Pennsylvania Cavalry.

The religious excitement at Athens, still continues. A correspondent writing from that place to the Elmira Gazette, says: "The main thing talked of here at present is religion. It is being preached in the most crowded houses every night. Last Sunday night the crowd was too large for admittance in the M. E. Church, so the meeting adjourned to the Presbyterian Church, and the meetings are continued there now. A great many have professed Christianity."

We learn from the Williamsport Bulletin that the personal effects of a "minister in good standing in the Methodist Protestant Church," were sold at Constance's in Williamsport, on Friday of last week, "and the man and his family returned immediately into the street." This should be an everlasting disgrace to the people for whom he labored, and is a very remarkable occurrence to take place in a city where reside so many kind-hearted wealthy people. -Merry Lumbering.

PRESBYTERIAN DONATION.—It is worthy of honorable mention in these "hard times" when every hand economy is the rule, that retirement of some non-conformist refugees who went from England to Geneva in the 16th century to secure more perfect religious liberty, and was called the "Anglo-Genevan" revival, but is quite as well known as the "Brethren Bible," from the peculiar rendering of Genesis 27, where the word "son" is translated "brother." It is referred to in a book written by a German, with most profitable annotations on all the hard places, and the orthography of the times. Mr. Rosser, received it from his father, to whom it was presented by ROBERT TAYLOR, who brought it from England in the early settlement of this country, and, though the leaves are yellow with age, it is well preserved.

A LADY'S CORRESPONDENT of the Dispatch writes that a first class hotel is to be built at Eagles Mere, Sullivan County, for the accommodation of summer tourists and health-seekers. The writer says the building will be erected on a beautiful site, overlooking the lake known as the Green Lake fronting Lake avenue, and affording a magnificent view of the lovely stretch of water that dimpls and murmurs in its wooded fanged basin. The lake is a charming retreat; the air is laden with the aroma of the hemlock that grows every hill top for miles around, and during the most sultry summer days it comes in cooling zephyrs from the north and west. The lake itself, though but a small one, is "the loveliest of its size," cool, clear and limpid; yet with depths and mystery and uncertainty as the eyes of your last sweet heart.

Mrs. MARY N., wife of W. A. Beck, wife of this place, and daughter of Mrs. R. H. Rice, died suddenly, after a brief illness, on Monday evening, March 27th. Mrs. Beckwell had been long and faithfully nursing in this community, and her unexpected death is the occasion of great grief to her many friends. Possessor of a cheerful and sunny disposition, her heart, her presence was equally welcome to the gay or the sorrowful, and she will be sadly missed in other than the home circle, where her virtues show most brightly in a devoted wife, a tender and loving mother, and an affectionate sister and daughter. She was a member of the Episcopal Church, and was a devoted Christian. Although devotedly absorbed in her home duties, Mrs. Beckwell was an extensive reader, and possessed a degree of literary culture that made her an interesting companion and agreeable friend, and the many readers of the Reporter can testify to her ability as a writer of prose and poetry. She leaves a husband in feeble health, and two sons to mourn her loss.

ALONZO DENNIS, of Tioga County, Pa., who was injured by a fall in July last, but who decomposed in Danbury last week, leaving the parties who were on his last bed post office address, was captured last week at Wareton Junction, Va., and forthwith handcuffed and started by rail to the scenes of his former misdeeds. At Carpenter's Station, on the Northern Central Railroad, near the water closet, and the parties having him in charge becoming uneasy at his long stay, opened the door of the closet to find that their bird had flown out of the window, handless and all. Again search was instituted for the missing criminal. A Canton correspondent of the Elmira Free Press gives the following account of the capture of the culprit: "It seems the prisoner went to East Canton to a blacksmith shop, and there received himself of his iron, and took his way toward the south mountains; but as back (for him) would have it, he was escorted by his captives to the water closet, and was brought back to this place where he was taken North to meet his friends."

On Saturday morning, March 23d, says a Glenwood correspondent of the Montrose Reporter, an unfortunate accident occurred in a street of great excitement by the announcement that A. McDONALD, an old and respected citizen, had committed suicide by cutting his throat. The news spread with lightning rapidity, and in less than five minutes to write, crowds of eager, anxious people were seen hurrying to the spot through the crowded streets, and a coroner's inquest was held, and after a full hearing of witnesses the jury returned a verdict as follows: "That in a stable near the residence of deceased, between the hours of 10 and 11 A. M. on Saturday, March 23d, the body of A. McDONALD was viewed by the jury. He having a razor in his hand, did thereupon cut his own throat, completely severing the arteries and windpipe, and the jurors say from the causes, manner, and form aforesaid, Alan McDonald came to his death."

Decayed was a man nearly 72 years old, and had always been a hard working and industrious man, he being one of the pioneers of Sagsburg, he had seen many a great many hardships and privations in early life but never complaining of his lot. Always strictly honest in his dealings, and beloved by all who knew him. He leaves a large circle of friends who deeply mourn his loss.

Local Correspondence. On Tuesday a miserable brute named McGinnis, who has been peddling watches and jewelry in these parts for many years, got drunk and insulted some ladies here. We learn that about 15 years ago he was thrashed and beaten by a Danbury gentleman for his meanness, and it is a pity he did not get his head broke for Tuesday's conduct.
