B. M. PECK, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, Office over Braund & Hill's meat market. Towarda, Jan. 15, 1879.

E. L. HILLIS, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, TOWANDA, PA. (nov11-75. E. F. GOFF, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, Main Street (4 doors north of Ward House). To wanda, Pa. (April 12, 1877. DATRICK & FOYLE, ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, TOWANDA, PA. ' H. THOMPSON, ATTORNEY AT LAW, WYALUSING, PA. Will attended to his care in Bradford L. IL ANGLE, D. D. S.

OPERATIVE AND MECHANICAL DENTIST

MASON & HEAD, ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW. Townsda, Pa. Office over Bartlett & Tracy, Main-st. .G. F. MASON, [1977] ABTHUR HEAD.

ELSBREE & SON, ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW,

O. D. KINNEY, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. Office-Rooms formerly occupied by Y. M. C. A. Reading Room, (Jan.3178.

McPHERSON, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, TOWANDA, PA. Dist Att'y Brad. Co. TOHN W. MIX,

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND U. S. COMMISSIONER, TOWANDA, PA. Office-North Side Public Square, DAVIES & CARNOCHAN. ATTOLNEYS AT-LAW. SOUTH SIPE OF WALD HOUSE.

I ANDREW WILT, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. office over Turner & Gordon's Drug Store, Towarda, Pa. May be consulted in German.

W. J. YOUNG, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. TOWANDA, PA. cond door south of the First Nai Bank Main St., up stairs,

WILLIAMS & ANGLE, ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW. OFFICE .- Formerty occupied by Wm. Watkins,

H S. WILLIAMS. (Oct. 17, 77) E. J. ANGLE. | peaceful look to his face. WM. MAXWELL, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. TOWANDA, PA.

Office over Dayton's Store. 🚰 L. LAMB, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

WILKES-BARRE, PA illectious promptly attended to.

OVERTON & MERCUR. ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW,

TOWANDA, Mee over Moutanyes Store. [may675. LOVERTON. RODNEY A. MERCUR. ADILL & CALIFF. ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW.

Office in Wood's Block, first door south of the Pirst (YHAS. M. HALL, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND JUSTICE OF PRACE

FIRE INSURANCE IN RELIABLE COMPANIES Page over Dayton's harness store. Nov. 21, '78. R. S. M. WOODBURN, Physi-

• over M. E. Rosenfield's, Towanda, Pa. th inserted on Gold, Silver, Rubber, and Al-umerian base. Teeth extracted without pain.

Oct.,31-72. 12 P PAYNE, M. D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

Character Montances' Store, Office hours from 10 to 1g, 4 N., and from 2 to 4, p. M. Special attention 2 vento diseases of the Eve and Ear, Oct. 19, 76-11. W. RYAN, COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.

62a e day last Saturday of each month, over Turne & Gordon's Drug Store, Towarda, Pa. Towns ta, June 26, 1878. M RS. H. PEET, l Lucherior Piano Music, TERMS, $100 per term.

(Residence Third street, 1st ward.)
Towanda, Jan. 13/79-1y.

🖊 s. Russell's INSURANCE AGENCY

TOWANDA, PA. DAINTINGS. PORTRAITS AND LANDSCAPES l'ainted to order at any price from $5 to $500 l'aintings Re-l'ainted, Re-Touched, or char made as desired.

All work done in the highest style of the Art,
JOHANN F, BENDER.
Towanda, Pa , April 18, 1678. W. H. JESSUP,

ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR-AT-LAW, MONTROSE, PA.

Judge Jessup having resumed the practice of the law in Northern Pennsylvania, will attend to any gal business intrasted to him in Bradford county. Persons wishing to consult him, can eatl on H. Streeter, Esq., Towanda, Pa., when an appointment can be made.

HENRY STREETER, ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR-AT-LAW. TOWANDA, PA. Feb 27 79

IMRST NATIONAL BANK, 🎍 TOWANDA, PA.

This Bank offers unusual facilities for the transaction of a general banking business.

N. N. BETTS, Cashier. JOS. POWELL, President.

Aradford

na as my mother confessor."

pression changed and softened.

know that of Diana. I shall chance

So he lest; but Sir Frederic lin-

It was night, but night as light as was the veil that lay upon the land.

"He loves me!" she whispered,

" He does! he does!" murmured

--it was as good as Cinderella.

ed, and kissed," and parted.

citement knew no bounds.

of her, "Lilias! what is it?"

n, Diana Fairfax 2)

mutely watched her.

Nothing-only he is engaged-he was engaged all the time to his cous-with swift steps, while they, stupid with rage and grief, stood below and Presently they knew it all. The Half an hour more dragged slowly

by, and then Lilias came slowly, her feet.

ervice to a little wood nymph," said | she repeated, with a long-drawn

REGARDLESS OF DENUNCIATION FROM ANY QUARTER.

TOWANDA, BRADFORD COUNTY, PA., THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL 10, 1879.

$1.00 per Annum in Advance.

NUMBER 45

Hoeten.

VOLUME XXXIX.

Ah, pain of sad uncertainty!

Upon the sofa by her side.

He held her hand so white and small.

But changed his mind, and let it fall,

Nor made the space between them less,

Which seemed so narrow, yet so wide.

The dimpled mouth, the serious eyes

And moved to preas it with his lips,

With chillest touch of finger-tips,

The gazing on the perfect face,

And drinking in with eager ears The music of her low replies, He let the bright hours drift away,

Nor told the secret of his heat,

Rose, all reluctant, to depart.

An eager, timorous request

But when the shadows lengthened lay.

And stammered forth, with blusing check.

That she, for old acquaintance sake, Would grant the rosebud from her breast

And watched him leave her, with a sigh

Selected Tale.

THE BABY.

whether she were not in reality nine-per youth. They adored have as we only natural, coming, as she did.

with her joys and woes.

test stable boy, unrebuked.

like silver chimes.

into its horsehair chairs.

helpless glance around.

a long páuse. 🚿

peared.

neavest chair.

lets would be safe?"

rhole I should say not."

in the blues than his friend.

Any use in ringing the bells?

asked the elder of the two, whose name\was Lord Farnie, casting/c

"Try, replied his companion, sulplied the waiter, in a sing-song tone,

"Cutlets," said his lordship, plain tively, his eyes fixed upon a faded cobweb that hung with much dejection from the ceiling, "cutlets in a village inn. Fred, do you think cut-

" Don't know, I'm sure," said Fred.

disgustedly. "It would more than half depend on the state of the fire;

perhaps they have no fire; on the

She gave to him, with downcast eyes,

"So good," she said, "so true, so wis

COODRICH & HITCHCOCK, Publishers.

FAINT HEART. indignant waiter, throwing as imper-She stood before him, tall and fair, tinent an intonation into his voice And gracious, on that summer's day, as he dared; "we ain't in the habit With June's first roses in her hair, And on her cheek the bloom of May But rosy cheek, and dimpled chin, I dessay you'll get 'em." Conceal the answer he would win

It might be Yes; would it be No? Farnic, when the man had disappear-Ah, if 'twere No-his throubing heart Stood fairly still with sud 'en pain : ed; "there was an insolent twinkle And if 'twere Yes, the world so wide in his eye that I especially admired. His deep content could scarce contain. Yet I don't think he likes me. Odd So wondrous fair : how could she stoon that one possessed of---" To favor such a one as he? Ah, sweet suspense that still leaves hope!

"There, don't moralize," said Fred in his arms and placed her lightly on brusquely, "but tell me what in the ground. duced you to stop at this beastly

"An inward craving-" "Nonsense! when you are within five miles of our destination..." his right eye to his left. "I wish caught his hand. "Good-by," she myself safely out of it quite as much said, and, while still having a tight luck with Miss Lilias," said his lord-calm. She looked up bravely. as you do, but I never lose my tem hold of him, went ou with what had ship, rising. "Good night, dear boy; per. Firstly, because I haven't got been puzzling her for some minutes. it is just as well I am leaving to-mor- said, without a tremor in her voice, for a few days."

"I hate compulsory visiting." een civil to one in a hundred little estive under adversity."

She was the bonniest, sweetest. most lovable child in the world; quick and lithe and fairy-like. In me accepting any more of his little shock, Lilias laughed too. many small points she differed from civilities in a hurry, if this is to be other children of her age; she selthe price of so doing. I have a mordom misplaced her words, and held bid horror of small towns and eccen-know I should not feel amused, but infantine abbreviations or dissylla- trie gentlemen. I suppose Linwood I cannot help it. You must forgive bles in contempt. From her lips, now and then, dropped little rounded pearls of speech that made those stay there three days." wonder who heard; while she had a

"Perhaps it is a palace," said Lord fine love of getting at the root of all matters that raised within her minwell go see it now, or we shall be late gled feelings of admiration and awe. for dinner, and turn your eccentric At times they vaguely doubted gentleman into a ravening beast." They rose and went.

ty instead of four years old. But her elinging arms and dewy kisses, The next morning awoke calm and and sweet innocence assured them of smiling; and, deepening into full- I have been happy enough to do good the last kind petal. "He loves me!" rown day, showed itself one of sum mer's brightest and gavest efforts. thirteen years after they had all de-On her own doorstep stood Lilias. cided Nina was to be the last; bringing with her so much grief and went, and so it happened that the wee delicate bairn was flung upon a cold world, with only four growing big and little sister went up the ave- you are Miss Heriot, I fancy? girls to tend her, and sympathize nue under the limes and out of sight.

Their father, always a recluse peaceful, and full of such intellectual grew daily more and more faciturn and sedentary, as month by month Boots." But when they entered old hopelessly the companionship of her Tom Conroy's wood-now glowing bring me more of those pretty white who had been to him all in all. Only and swelling with the pride of its flowers? And I shall show you my zled. For the first time, as he saw the journey's end was reached and detest you with all my heart—so the baby" could bring a smile to rich and bursting charms—they turn- squirrel, and my bow-wow, and my one of them preparing to leave the the friendly bed-room door was closed there! his lips. Only her soft fingers could ed aside and took a higher flight into dolly." by their touch coax back the old the land of fantasy, and discussed But that her nature was too true for spoiling, she would have been utterly ruined before her first year had ing of bloody jaws and fierly, wicked guess at the relationship-your ended. None of those about her eyes, raised her head on high and be- aunt's foot." dared oppose her slightest wish, so came enamored of some white bloscross-grained butler down to the la- make them madly desirable. "I want them," she said, with a But Lilias, pretty, stately Lilias, healthy disregard of grammar. was her chief joy; gentle Lilias, dark, deep eyes, her lissome, grace- them." ful figure. None of them came so "I won't," said the baby; "I want latter, and drew the child away. close to the baby's heart as this her them, Lily-get them for me." eldest sister; and all of tiny riplets "But, darling," expostulated Lily, of discontent, and still wider waves who would always follow out an arof wrath, were ever quelled by the gument with children, instead of tell- aunt at all-she is my mammy." So low, sweet voice of Lilias, that rang ing them, as wiser people do to be it ever pleased her to designate her silent, or that "little folks should be sister Lilias. Their name was Heriot, and they seen and not heard,"-" but, darling, Their name was Heriot, and they seen and not neard, "-" but, darting, Luat afternoon they caned, and Heriots door, and from it augusted then the next day, and then the day an elderly lady, short but resplendcant and unknown. Three miles happened to Goldenlocks when she from them was a town rejoicing in a went wishing for what was not meant | the day after that again that it first | upon them from an upper casement | railway station and (what its proprie for her. See, these yellow flowers dawned upon the Heriots that Sir -did not seem to her altogether unetor was pleased to name) a railread here are far pretiter.' "I don't care for them, and I don't their Lilias. state of stagnation, but one evening care for Goldenlocks either," pouted in midsummer two young men, ap- the baby; those up there are betparently fagged, broken-hearted, not ter; I want those. If Jerry was so that, when a full week had gone made him a present-according to o say ill-tempered, took pity on it, here," reproachfully, "she would get by since their arrival at Tom Con-B. KELLY, DENTIST .- Office and leaving the station just opposite, them for me." Geraldine was her walked into its best parlor, and sank second sister.

But Geraldine is so much taller reach them without climbing." "Then climb," said the household tyrant promptly.

kily, who was evidently further gone command, the big tears stood in her Nothing shall induce me to come azure eyes, kilias gave in. Placing liere again. To night he told me all Lord Farnie tried. A cracked bell one foot upon a projecting branch over again that story about Sympinkled in the distance. There was she essayed to climb, and just as she kin's oxen; I wish Sympkin was with uncertain step, into the hall, ed. Outside a few geese cackled unthrough some laures shrubl hard by, Will you come with me, Fred?"

pleasantly; inside all was as silent came himself unseen-upon4 this charming picture. s the palace that held the sleeping beauty. The sun, as yet untired, A little maiden standing with frock | Ashurst, evasively. poured its golden rays through the out-held to eatch the hoped-for blos- to stay a day or two longer." many-paned window; the door opensoms, a bigger maiden, with intent ed slowly, sleepily, and a waiter aplook, showing amid the green leaves. smile. "Waiter," said his lordship, lanyards from mother earth, she stopped ly pretty girls, those Heriots are." guidly, " what can we have \" while short and glanced down ruefully at his friend, standing at the window, her own miniature beneath. " Now, Daisy, what is to be done? gazed moodily down upon the courtshe said. "I have caught my foot in " Fowl, sir, cold jint, cutlets," rerom your flowers as ever. How wisping some imaginary dust off the shall I get down?" proffer aid. Daisy saw him first. "Oh, he will get them for me!" she chied, gleefully—with all the selfishness of childhood, forgetful of the wounded foot. "He is taller "I shall be very happy to do anything," said the young man, taking courage, and speaking to Daisy while

"Then we have no resource but to his eves were fixed upon a crimson fall back on the fowl or the cold jint," face a little way above him. "Are said his cousin, "and I don't think I these the flowers you want?"

her frying-pan will hold. You think my foot," trying to still it and mak- had no charms for you, else you as though he had never been among she knows how to serve it properly?" ing a faint grimace, "my foot has would understand and appreciate my them. "I really can't say, sir," said the forced itself into this hollow—and—simile. I beg pardon if I have offen-

hurt!" said the young man, anxious- say? How shall you explain to Di- it is." of serving rashers in this house ex-cept at breakfast But if she can der and try to turn it. There! Now "I don't follow you"—stiffly—"I throw her mind into 'em at this hour, it is released. Is it painful? Do know of nothing that requires explanot use it for a moment, and then let | nation. And, even if I did, I know |

"I like that fellew," said Lord me help you down." Then very soft no reason why I should choose Dialy: "Will you permit me?" He attempted to put his arm round she uttered no protest. He took her from his coat sleeve.

"Does it pain you?" he asked. ing," said Lilias, coloring again. To thing that ought to be, considering bent down. her, if not to him, the situation was how the estates lie; but I have never altogether new and strange. "I uttered a word of love to her in my father, sternly, "receive a letter from come down here," said his cousin, tantly, and would have gone away, were I to do so, she would not listen and unopened." cheerfully, changing his glass from but the child, Daisy, ran to him and to me."

one to lose, and secondly, because it will you prove the second of the tree," in the second of the tree," in the second of the tree," in the second of the tree, in the second of the t one to lose, and secondly, because it "Why did you put your arm round row, as I was fast losing my heart to and left the room. the beaux yeux of your love." but what will you? Here we are, terposed Lilias, troubled, but out for a rejoinder, but in the corrider A heavy sigh broke from their fathand here we must remain, at all events wardly calm. She felt what was outside he paused, and his whole ex- er. These were the only sounds that

"Oh!" said this terrible infant, "So do I. But when a man has pausing. Then, questioningly: When Bob puts his arm around you it with her on my return from the ways, and then makes a point of get he always kisses you—but he didn't north. She is handsome, distingue, ting one to promise to spend some kiss you," with a reproachful glance and can hold her own. She likes me, time with him, it don't do to refuse. at the stranger; "why?" (Bob was I fancy, and-and-really, I believe That's about it, I take it. So let us a distant cousin.) It was too much. I like her, too—uncommonly!" put a good face on the matter and be Sir Frederic Ashurst burst out laughing; not only laughed, but roafed, "You're right," said Fred, laugh, and in a minute or two, when she had grown into a month, ing; "but old Conroy don't catch had had time to recover from the

"I beg your pardon," he said presently, with much contrition; "I is a torn-down place, without the me. Good-by, little Daisy; I am common necessaries of life. I shan't glad I was able to get you your flowers. Good-by."

Just then his cousin appeared, Farnie. "At all events, we may as sauntering leisurely toward them. "There you are, Fred!" he said: I have been looking for you every- leaf by leaf, upon the water's bosom, where." Then he stopped and leaving behind it an assurance sweet. glanced curiously at Lilias, and put as the touch of lips forbidden. his hand in a puzzled way to his hat.

Sir Frederic, smiling at Daisy, then | py sigh." ie turned to Lilias and said frankly: Heriot, ready equipped for a walk; "I have no cards about me, but I a voice close beside her, in trembling she called to the baby to hurry, and should like to introduce myself; I accents. "Oh, Lilias! but do you presently the little one broke from am Frederick Ashurst, and this is love him?" the nurse's grasp and ran to her with my cousin, Lord Farnie, and we are hand outstretched. Together the staying at old Tom Conroy's; and her soft, pink-flushed cheek to his. "Yes-I am one of the Misses He-Their walk for a short while was riot," said Lilias, smiling as frankly. conversation as can be derived from house down there," broke in the hos-Mother Hubbard" and "Puss in pitable baby in her high, sweet treble. Won't you come to see us, and home nest, it dawned upon him that against intruders. She flung herself such topics congenial to the scene as recting appealing eyes at Ivilias, "I approved the engagement, but shrank groan. "Goldenlocks" and poor 'Red Rid- should like to call this afternoon to from naming any immediate day for inghood." Presently the baby, tir- inquire about"-with a desperate the wedding. "Time, time," he said to Frederic, that she tyrannized over the entire soms in the trees above her. They couldy. Then, seeing his face fall, household, from the ancient and were sufficiently beyond reach to her conscience smote her, and she Scotland for the grouse shootingadded: "But if you do call, I am well, when you return we will talk it dismay over the slight white heap sure-papa will be glad to see you." over." She bowed first to Lord Farnie "But they are so far away from and then to him, bestowing a gra- said Fred, laughingly; but so it was thinking ofwith her crown of golden hair, her us that I fear we must do without cious smile upon the former, while arranged, and after a few more days not deigning to raise her eyes to the "Good by," called the baby, nodding at them over her shoulder. "Come soon. And she is not my after that again; and I think it was ent, whose features—as Lily gazed Frederick Ashurst was in love with familiar.

It also dawned upon Lord Farnie; roy's, and still his cousin showed no hour of her society. esire for departure, in spite of venement protestations on the subject chimed two all four girls were nearly than me, and even she could not before coming, he made his way one mad with a suppressed desire to know night to Fred Ashurst's room and and when the stranger had departed, spoke as follows: "I can stand it no longer; I am off to-morrow; it is insufferable.

did so, a young man, forcing his way dead, and his oxen, too; I shall go. "It might look rude, our both going together, don't you think?" said "Better for me

"Ah, just so!" said Farnie, with a "What a considerate fellow When Lilias had raised herself two you are, Fred, and what uncommon-Very; though I don't quite see what that has to do with it.

"No more do I; but I think I like the eldest one best. She is in very some awkward way, and am as far truth a lily. I wonder (provokingly) how you can prefer Miss Geraldine -though I own that she, too, might Here the young man came a few yout many a London belle. If I eps nearer, and stood, hat in hand, staid here much longer I should lose resitating, hardly knowing how to my head; as it is-did you ever see father was Lady Ashurst, Frederic's that nearly broke Geraldine's heart; anything so fresh and sweet as her mother, and she had come to tell him and when Daisy had squeezed a besmile when she gave me that rosebud of her son's engagement to his cous- loved but dilapidated doll, and half have your doll."

> Miss Heriot?" "Yes, of Lilias. She gave it the dent conduct with Miss Heriot, and "I dare say you asked her for it," ters really stood.

the presiding genius in your kitchen could cook a rasher, and fry it with two fresh eggs?"

"Now, may I assist you?" he said, "Then he furned to Lilias."

"Oh, make it four when you are about it," said Fred, impatiently; "I dare say I'm as hungry as you are."

"Thank you," said Fred, coldly.

"Thank you," said Fred, coldly.

"Coarse! my dear fellow. Far be course, as she put it, she showed if possible more consideration for Lilians in the drawing room, she changed to o, but gravely, as became her position. "That child induced me to make it four, and as many rashers as a ded her or you. I had no idea it had ed, and then went on—"it is not in speak. And what is happened during my absence? An engagement spoken of that was "It is indecent," she said, "neither shut, and was impatient for the affray ded her or you. I had no idea it had ed, and then went on-"it is not in speak. "And what is all this that finger of her right hand she proceded to him. She walked out with an

"And now." said Mr. Heriot, se-

he allowed himself.

that." "Engaged! nonsense! Of course I am not engaged to her. I believe quiet within the embrasure of the and-" my mother and hers have often spo- window, her knitting in her hands, "No-not much-it will be noth- ken of a marriage between us as a her fingers moving swiftly, her eyes "Should any one," went on her

> He paused. They all sat around, "Ah! that being so, I wish you silent, frightened. Lilias alone was soon dream of marrying my sister, "You shall be obeyed, papa," she

A shadow fell upon them. Nina He left the room without waiting and Gertrude were crying silently, came to them through the gloom. "So!" he said, "I am glad to Was the father thinking of her who should have been there to soothe and comfort her stricken child? "Papa," murmured as little troubled voice out of the semi-darkness,

'papa!" Five small fingers tightened upon his; he lifted the child in his arms, gered on at Linwood until the time and as he pressed her almost pas- all a mistake—a fatal one. And ty strong language." tears fell upon her upturned face.

day-so pale and brilliant were the moonbeams, so faint and shadowy Lilias stood in her rose-scented garden alone, her hands clasped ing that at any time something fur- dine?" loosely behind her, her eyes fixed ther might crop up as a sequel to She had plucked her rose and now in their way, and to the outer world were as they had ever been. watched it floating away from her Lilias herself appeared utterly callous and unconcerned. At times so you regard your promise," muttered Charming, and Lilias rose to her feet when you rode in your carriage inperfect was her indifference that a she, viciously.

with a little wild, half-suppresse vague feeling of disappointment op
"What has come to you Jerry?" scream, and held out her hands. "I have had an adventure, Farnie; dreamily, her fingers still pressing pressed the others as they asked asked Fred, his tone changing "You "Lilias!" he cried, his whole heart ing you will be found dead. That themselves whether, indeed, the love used to be the best little girl in the in his voice. hat had seemed so real could be put aside and forgotten as entirely as though I were the veriest scoundrel rushed forward, past them all—past ness that it will be a relief to know though it had never existed. But in this they wronged her.

About a fortnight after the preceling events, and just about the time For an answer she turned and laid when, if everything had gone well Fred might have been expected home, some one in their neighborhood gave Heriots to hear that Lilias was go. Lilias was most severishly gay "And we live in the big, gray ing to be married-and to Sir Fred- throughout the evening. With pair eric Ashurst. She would have a ti- el astonishment her sisters watched tle-she would be my Lady Ashurst her. All through the drive home she

"I cannot bear it any longer," she said to Geraldine (they occupied the same room); "it is killing me; will "It is quite well," said Lilias, a dear possession, and expect me to awake to it again—that is horror of of time rejoice over it. You are going to it." Lilias!" cried Jerry, bending in > on the ground. "Darling, this is "Then I will return immediately," dreadful. Surely you are not still "Yes, I am," she said, doggedly "I am always thinking of him-I of lovers' raptures Lilias and he bade each other a sad farewell, and "kiss-Four weeks alone were to separate by, no last word—and the pain in mamma."

them; but when he had been gone my heart forever burning-burnbarely a fortnight it so happened that one day a carriage drove up to the Lily-Lily, called a plaintive Heriots' door, and from it alighted voice from the dressing room, in frightened sleepy tones, "Lilly!" dream of bogies and calling to her swer him. favorite mother to come to her aid. She begged a private audience of How could she refuse the entreating Mr. Heriot, and being shown into accents? She rose wearily but hastily, and, going to the small crib, the library, where he sat reading, took the child to her breast, and holding it so and crooning over it his daughter's calculations—of one and soothing it, southed, too, at the By the time the schoolroom clock same time her own poor wounded The next morning Mr. Heriot received a letter, the writing on the and Lilias, of them all, was summoned to the mysterious apartment envelope of which turned pale Lilias paler still. It was from Fred, and declared his intention of coming she had so lately occupied, their exforthwith to her home to learn in person the cause of the strange silence to which he had been subject-. At thrill of excitement ran-through where they stood awaiting her. Her the household Lilias' lips refused to face was as death, her very figure had lost some of its pretty round. speak—she sat silently awaiting her doom. And when her father came in and said she was to go to her grand-"Lilias," they cried, catching hold mother's for a month or two, she "Nothing," she said, in a low voice twisting her slender fingers in and out, with a fierce effort at composure.

like going to execution, because she one's brother-in-law. What shall I signs of fatigue, but after awhile was a dreadful old women, and was bring you from London, Daisy-a rehemently detested by every one of doll?—a very big doll?" the girls. She had a hateful habit She went from them up stairs, of calling a spade spada, and would clapping her hands. "And will it not hesitate about playing upon open and shut its eyes? Cecelia," one's weak point. However, Lilias gave in without nods, and says mamma."

a murmur, and packed her things in lady who had been closeted with their a methodical, miserable sort of way yesterday? It has haunted me ever in, Diana Fairfax. They had been a gingerbread cake dump with tears, betrothed for years, she said, with into her pocket, she stepped into the "Of whom are you speaking-of the consent of both families. She carriage and drove away to the railhad heard accidentally of his impruway station. "I give strict orders," said Mr.

In the drawing room at Marley osebud, I mean-with such perfect had hastened to inform Mr. Heriot, Heriot, to the three who remained for the good of all parties, how matters really stood.

behind—taking no heed of Daisy, who sat shrivelled up in a corner, ground had brought them news that the business, spend a night in a cellar ground had brought them news that their olfactory organs may not be taken "I did, certainly; nay, I begged Her son's honor was in his hands; "like Niobe, all tears"—'I give raised within them feelings of indig-their olfactory organs may not be taken for it, and got it. She has got the would he not restore it to him un- strict orders that if that young man nation and fear. In one poor heart by surprise when they lug off a "stiff" like cold jint. Waiter," as though suddenly inspired, "do you believe the presiding genius in your kitchen laid them in the tiny maiden's arms.

He made a spring, brought them prettiest eyes I ever saw—somewhat broken? Was this sudden fancy for laid them in the tiny maiden's arms.

He made a spring, brought them prettiest eyes I ever saw—somewhat broken? Was this sudden fancy for laid them in the tiny maiden's arms.

Lilias to lower him forever in the laid them in the tiny maiden's arms.

He made a spring, brought them prettiest eyes I ever saw—somewhat broken? Was this sudden fancy for laid them any information had sent his mother warning of the about Lilias' present abode."

I would not be coarse if I were eyes of the world?

A bout Lilias' present abode."

Reputet.

of it?" "You have behaved shamefully," verely, that same evening, "let me cried she, with rage, "hatefully, and "I thought you were engaged to never again hear that young man's I wonder you dare show your face by this intrusion?" her, and as Lilias just then was mak- her," said Farnic, flicking a small name mentioned in this house. He here again. No engagement, indeed? ing a trial of the wounded member, fragment of cigar ash with great care is dead to us. Let us all remember when your own mother came to this house and spoke to papa about it, circumstances," said Uncle Charles

> It was not an engagement," he both being present. persisted, angrily. "There was Diana, and there was I, and because "When a man is openly engaged to we grew up together; I would as duct, I shall-"

her." "Your mother said you was engaged to her," replied she, obstinately running the point of needle across er, severely. "Cease any excuses. old woman's lips. the linen she was working, so as to The young man has behaved abomimake a creakling aggravating noise, nably. No more need be said on that killed that man—that buried the

"and I for my part, believe her." "She-made herself misunderstood." Then, hotly, "Am I a ing to marry that lord," said Charles, hands," whispered the court. "Is blackguard to come here, and try unrebuked. to win your sister's affection, when promised to another woman? My mother has wished so carnestly and seemed to hear. so long to see me married to my cousin, that she brought herself to Uncle John, viciously, "and I shall must be times when she looks back tionately to his breast, two large then my letters," he cried with agitation, "rejected unanswered; and I kind," said Mrs. Heriot, with decis- she remembers the graves she once left in the dark as to the real cause. ion. "No son of mine shall address wept over, and children's voices must After this a good deal of the laugh- It was unjust. And now, when I him one word. Does he imagine we some time remind her of the tones of ter of their lives, went from them. have come down here without an in- -the Heriots of Marley-sought an those laid to rest long years ago: I Not that they were altogether an stant's delay to explain to her, I find alliance with him? He shall never would not be in her place for all the

"No: indeed I will not. Even if upon the liny stream that gurgled at poor Lily's story. Still, they took I would, I could not, as I have promi whatever amusement chance threw ised papa faithfally not to do so." "It is madness. Such promises and a young man, dusty, travel-stain." are better broken than kept."

done to you?" "What have you done!" she cried her lover's arms. tears in her eyes and voice. "What have you not done? You have upset his heart. They did not speak, they our whole lives. You have made scarcely breathed; but they kissed Lilias—the dearest, sweetest darling each other passionately, lingeringly It was a wonderful thing to the a ball. The Heriots went to it, and on earth-miserable; you have driv-forgetful of all, of every one, but he en her from her home; you have de- of her and she of him. stroyed our peace, and now you ask Then she lifted her head, and smilwhat you have done. I wish," ex. ed, and sighed-a long, long, happy claimed the girl, waxing wroth, "I sigh-and knew that she might dare chattered and laughed and jested had never heard your voice-I wish the world. Their father was pleased, but puz. with their chaperion. But at length I had never seen you. I hate and

"Thank you," said Fred, stiffly, they were no longer children. He upon the floor with a low, agonized "I have not taken away your breath, at all events. Do you refuse to tell me where she is? "I do, distinctly." "Very good. Then I shall find give me time. You rob me of it ever end? Oh! to sleep, only to out for myself; it is only a question A patter of tiny footsteps-a ringing, joyous laugh. The door was finally died out altogether. flung widely open, and the baby came

> "Ah, Freddy, Freddy!" cried she rapturously; and, spreading out her and there never was such a beautiful arms, she came flying up to him, her doll in all the world as the baby got exquisite golden fleece floating be- from London. Begravia. never cease thinking of him-I wish hind. "You have come back; I was dead. Oh! if I could see him knew you would, and now my Lily A STORY OF RAILROADING DOWN again, only once, perhaps I might will come, to. How glad she will be. pear it better. But to have no good- I know she hates staying with grand-

"Daisy," Jerry broke in vehementyou to mention her." But he had her in his arms and was gazing at her, compelling her by It was the baby awakening from a the very fixedness of his look to an-"Go on," he said, with authority.

"She is staying with grandmammawhere? the child, in a troubled tone, glancing first at him and then at Jerry. "Marley hall-did you not know? Have you not been to see her? She lways said you would come to see her the first thing when you came back. But that was before she left." y, straining the child to his breast, cents, which was denounced as a The very first thing, indeed. Oh, Daisy! Daisy! what a debt I owe you! My poor Lilias, she at least believes no evil of me. "Daisy, what have you done?" exclaimed Jerry, desperately; and then to him; "if you take advantage of That I will, and before the sun goes acquiesced outwardly and made no down. Good-bye, Jerry; try to protest. think more kindly of me. It is unpleasant to be on bad terms with

"Oh, will you?" cried the baby, in a half-whisper, "has one that "You shall have one that says 'mamma,' and 'papa' too,' said Fred.

decidedly. Good-bye, my best friend," kissing her. "You shall "And Lily, too?" called the child. "And Lily, too," returned he gay-

He lifted the sash, and vaulted world of determination. She was in lightly in. "Well here I am again," her mood, and chose the centre otto- "sass" as he sent, and that he might

It was the only unkind insinuation never an engagement the whole more nor less to persecute us in this to begin. world dead against me-and Lilias way. In my young days no gentle-Her ladyship, well content, with- hidden away? What is the meaning man with any claims to distinction Honor, talking to himself, "I used to would have so forgotten himself. But pass a white house on Second street. the youth of the present days ore It was so white and clean, and its sadly wanting. What does he mean

"Well, perhaps it is only natural his wishing to come here, under the happiest people in Detroit. They He did not look at Lilias, who sat and was as rude as ever she could be from the background; with a glance had children who played games on at Lilias, he and his elder brother the green grass, and the birds sang "Natural!" frowned Uuncle John.

our estates joined, two or three old one woman, what right has he to go women put their heads together and to philandering after another? An- house turned brown with neglect. "My dear fellow, don't lose your hardly feel it now; thank you so life, and never shall, for various rea- him, I desire it shall be returned to decided that we should marry each swer me that. If he has the imperti- The birds went away. The children temper because you have chosen to much." She bowed somewhat dis- sons—one of the chiefest being that, its false sender without an answer other, whether we liked it or not neare to show himself here in this died or grew up ragged and uncivil. She is four years older than I am; house, after this dishonorable con- I well remember the day the husband

"Charles!" interrupted his moth-subject." "I certainly did hear she was go-There was an awkward pause, but Lilias neither raised her head nor

"Just let him come here," imagine her wish fulfilled. It was give him my opinion of him in pret- to plenty, peace and happiness, and happy, but they bad an uneasy feel- -you will tell me where she is, Geral- enter my doors. I shall give strict wealth in the world." orders to Tapes that if he comes he may not be admitted. Just at this auspicious moment the door was flung violently open.

ed, handsome, stood upon the threshthe world contains. What have I grandmama's frown, past Uncle that you are dead." John's detaining grasp-right into There he held her, close against

Of course there was a terrible fuss made about it just at first, and a general chorus of indignant "noes." But when Diana's marriage with Lord when old Lady Ashurst not only wrote but came in person to entreat the grandmother to use her influence with her son to induce him to give his consent to Lilias marriage with Frederic, dissent became weak, and

So they were married three months afterward, and it was a very grand wedding, and Lilias looked lovely

IN NEW JERSEY.

We are frequently indebted to our river. friend Colonel Yard, of the Mon-"Daisy," Jerry broke in vehement- friend Colonel Yard, of the Mon- The reason, probably, that a sailor is ly, "do not speak of Lilias. I forbid mouth Democrat, for anecdotes illus- called a "sail" is because he is one of trative of the character of the pecu- the sea sons. liar people who live in New Jersey. He sends us this:

The Hon. G. T—— tells a good story of a slow railroad in the northern part of the State. He says he went there gunning, and came to a "Yes, at Marley in Surrey," said a single car, the forward end of which was partitioned off for baggage. He took his dog in the car with him and but him under the seat. Presently the conductor came along, and insis ted that the dog should go into the baggage room, which, after some al-"So I will," cried Fred eestatical- gage-master demanded a fee of fifty "swindle," and a "put-up-job," between the conductor and baggage master, and that sooner than pay i he would tie the dog to the train and let him "work his passage." The conductor assented, and the dog was hitched to the rear of the train. The what that child said, you will be _" | dog. so T _ says, kept along easily "Take advantage of it!" exclaim- with the train, but the conductor be ed Fred. with his old gay laugh, gan to get uneasy, making frequent trips to the engineer, urging him to increase the speed of the train, and back again to watch the effect upon the dog. The latter began to show caught his "second wind," and was keeping along as before. The con-cutting wood like melting throw?" ductor now ordered the engineer to heave all the coal into the furnace dear." Adolphus. "Becauth he'th thawand stir up the fire, which being done, the speed was perceptibly increased. The conductor then went to the rear of the car to observe the effect, but the dog had disappeared, whereupon he triumphantly called T---'s attention to the fact. The latter, after taking a glance at the situation, quietly pointed to a crack in the floor of the car, "and there," says he, was the dog, comfortably trotting along under the car, and licking the

THE PLOWERS WILL BLOOM AGAIN. The winds like funeral dirges sigh, The forest trees their leaves have shed And like a pall the snow doth lie But wait ; the sun will smile once more

Nor smile upon the earth in vain ; For, bright as e'er they were of yore,

The beanteous flowers will bloom again

Thy fondest hopes, like flowers, lie dead Wait, wait; the sun will smile once me Nor smile upon the home in vain:

Life's beauteous flowers will bloom again

Old Nancy had been telling Bijah that she'll give the court as good

"Years and years ago," began his green blinds contrasted so prettily, that I used to stand on the walk and wonder if the inmates were not the were happy. They had plenty. They all day long in the arbors."

Old Nancy looked around uneasily as he waited a moment. "As the years went by the white and father put a pistol to his head "I don't believe it was much of an and ended his shame and life togethand she would not have me if I asked engagement," said Charles. "There er. The wife was drunk when the > crowd." A low moan of pain escaped the "It was her love for drink that children-that sent the birds awaythat passed the place into strangers' the woman dead?"

"Oh! sir! don't talk to me_don't call it up!" she moaned as she wrung her hands.

"You may go," he said quietly, 'you have not long to live. There are those here who can remember "Oh! We all know how lightly old. It was her hero, her Prince when you had silks instead of ragswith a little wild, half-suppressed stead of wandering through alleys and lying in the gutter. Some mornwill be the last act in the drama s For a moment she tottered, then full of woe and misery and wretched-

White as a ghost, trembling in

FUN, FACT AND FACETIE.

buzz saw THE mosquito employs no collector WHEN is a newspaper the sharpest:

Wlien it is filed A BOUQUET is a good scenter piece for he dining table Locking a boy up to correct his faults s faults impris "BABY Mine" should be "Rocked in out on the spectacles of discretio CAUGHT in the act-An actor arrested luring the progress of the play.

The tailor who alters the shape of your Wny should a lady's home dress last forever? Because she never wears it out. A neavy loss-When the chain parts

A STOMACH-ACHE doesn't make a man MR. PARTRIDGE was hung at Corpus. Texas, the other day. Reports say that he didn't quail, but died game. These trapeze performers are desper-ave never begun. MEENIN' goes but a little way i' most lings, for you may mean to stick things then where are you?

o have any one ask questions, if so disposed." Student. "What time is it, ADOLPHUS. "Angelina, why ith a man when his wife asked him if he wouldn't like to hold the varn while she wound it replied, "Thank you, I don't hanker af-

WE have long known what is meant by the centre of gravity, but we confess to having just discovered that a handsome and fragrant boquet is the scenter of at-WHEN a young man has learned to consume cigarettes in an artistic manner by ejecting smoke through his nostrils, life is o longer a barren ideality, but as real as "WE'VE been told," says the Norris with too many swallows he will not feel A Scoren lady had invited a gentleman

So when the storms of life strip bare

The sheltering roof-tree o'er the hear And 'neath the chill snow-wreath of care For, bright as e'er they were of yore,

WHY SHE WEPT.

was something about another man body was brought home by the Old Nancy grouned as her tears

"No, she lives. She has no home, no friends, no one to love her. There has such a heartache as few women "You shall do nothing of the know of. There must be times when > every limb, and weeping like a child. she passed out .- Detroit Free Press.

Conn is king! Yes, corn is aching most How to acquire short-hand-fool around the Cradle of the Deep.' IMPULSE never stops long enough to

It makes a vast difference whether the father Orson buys the Valentine. HAs whisky wings? Certainly; else ADAM was the first man to enter the

THE harder the times are the more men pocket-books. BURBANK considers the wild bull a very innleasart animal on account of his r iving if they have to swing for it.

o, and nine men out of ten acknowledge Hoop, in describing the meeting of a with all his might, and the lion with all

A BUNION on your big toe isn't a favor-

Professor (looking at his watch). As we have a few minutes I should like

"I can't tell Dolly. Tell me It was an apt reply of Simpkins who, town Herald, "that if a man goes to bed

THE Cleveland Voice thinks that the clergyman's text, "Shall we stop pray-ing" will scarcely apply to those who