Towarda, Pa., Thursday, May 8, 1879 THE BOURBON DYNASTY.

There may have been some who doubted the sinister purpose of the Democratic party in its frenzied appeals for reinstatement as the depositary of power. The closing acts of the 45th and the opening scenes of the 46th Congress, must have resolved all doubts into certainties. The teed him by the Constitution, because former expired in the act of inaugurating revolution. The latter came into the power of organized existence to reveal the revolutionary impulse. That impulse is very strong. It will overwhelm the conservative influence in the party, and such men as Bay-ARD will be swept along with the current, or, if resisting, they will be stranded high and dry outside of the party. It is only a question of the status of negative and positive powers, and is a fluestion which has been settled a thousand times? Positive power is always aggressive and must dominate, where, as in this case, it has the numerical majority. Those Democrats who found their hopes of they have been brought, through the full and fearless investigation of the peace and progress upon the ability cunning and dishonesty of the more charges of corruption which have of the few, the very few, conserva intelligent and favored race, who been plainly and emphatically made tive leaders in their party, may as should be their protectors and not The people of the State will be satis well dismiss their hopes. day evening.

The action of the committee to investigate the charges of bribery and corruption in connection with the riot bill, commenced its labors this week with a secret session on Tuesday evening. The decision was not well received, and the programme has since been changed. Four or five witnesses, including Wm. H. Kemble, of Philadelphia, and John C. Barr, of Pittsburgh, a newspaper correspondent, were examined at this Tuesday evening meeting, and it is understood they all denied any guilty knowledge.

Additional meetings of the committee were held, publicly, in the Hall of the House on Wednesday and Thursday eveing, and on Friday at noon, the latter being a very brief one to hear Mr. Smith. as above indicated.

The testimony taken at the meetings on Wednesday and Thursday evenings is very voluminous; so much so as to render it impossible, though it were desirable to do so, to give even a synopsis of it. Three members of the House, so far—W. F. Rumberger, of Armstrong; the second, Emile J. Petroff, of Philadelphia and the third, George F. Smith, of Philadelphia-have been charged by fellow members with approaching them improp erly, but it does not appear that any mor ey was used; it was only talked about. Silverthorne, of Eric, says Rumberger wanted to buy his vote, while Watson, of Mercer, testifies that Petroff endeavored

Mr. Smith, in accordance with his own ately after the House adjourned, when he committee met, and, in the most pos itive and solemn manner, denied the truth of the testimony of Knittle, saying that the only conversation he ever had with him about the riot bill, he (Knittle) introduced the subject, and seemed anxious to know if money was being used to pass the riot bill. Rumberger and Petroff have not yet been on the witness stand, but it is understood that they will also deny any criminal conduct. The taking of testimony will be continued next week.

The role of detective, which it appears has been played by certain members, to to violate the law, is not looked upon here as a very honorable one; and if those who have been playing it, before the thing is all over, find out that that they have "bit off more than they can chaw," they may not feel so good. If these fellows were to take heed to the suggestion of Him who spake as never man spake, when He said. Let him who is without sin among you cast the first stone," it is very certain no pebbles would be thrown by any of them.
