

Thirty-nine years ago yesterday (June 1, 1840), the first number of this paper was issued, and consequently this week commences the tenth year of its existence.

The Reporter of 1840 was printed on a sheet 24 by 36 inches in size, at a time when this section of the State was isolated from all the great political and commercial centres of the country.

No railroad annihilated distances, and of course no telegraph flashed the instantaneous intelligence of important occurrences.

The telegraph in its various stages from one end of the land to the other has now become a part of our daily life, and the morning daily papers bring to the reader an epitome of the crimes, the casualties, and the discussions which have yesterday shocked the sensibilities or engaged the attention of people in all parts of the country.

The first issue of the Reporter was printed with one regularity and good taste, and it has since become a standard of journalism, by creating a standard for the press.

voiced, and for which so many of the brave young men of this country laid down their lives upon the battle field.

of the many generous and reliable friends who have stood by and sustained the Reporter by their encouraging words and liberal support.

On no occasion since the observance of this beautiful and touching custom, has there been such an interest manifested, as on Friday last.

To those who in the past have been known as the friends of this paper, we desire to extend our hearty acknowledgments.

The Republican State Convention of Ohio met on Wednesday the 28th inst., and nominated Hon. CHARLES FOSTER as the candidate for Governor upon the first ballot.

The platform adopted is decidedly stalwart and aggressive. The resolutions sharply arraign the Democratic majority in the two houses of Congress for the revolutionary attempt to coerce the Executive by withholding the appropriations necessary to carry on the government.

But the most significant part of the proceedings of the Convention is contained in the speech of acceptance of the nominee for Governor. Mr. FOSTER has candidly repented of the past, and promises for the future.

At the beginning of President Hayes' administration I believed that the policy he adopted would result in a division of the sentiment South which would lead to an easy enforcement of the constitutional amendments and the revival of prosperity in that section.

Every impulse of patriotism, every noble and generous instinct, impels us to honor those who bravely defend the country's honor, and to reverse the memory of those who seal their devotion to their country with their blood.

The President Thursday delivered to the House his veto of the Legislative bill. That bill would be returned with the President's objections generally understood.

The President has determined to refer the findings of the Court of Inquiry in the Fitz John Porter case to the Senate.

The Ohio Greenbackers in their State Convention refused all alliance with the Democrats and nominated a straight ticket. They are outspoken in favor of paying the National debt with more paper "promises to pay."

REMON has it that Secretary McCABRY is about to resign as Secretary of War to accept a Judgeship. Among the names mentioned as prominent for the place thus vacated, is that of Hon. GALUSHA A. GROV, whose chances are said to be very good.

The Democrats in Congress held another caucus on Saturday, to decide definitely upon a line of action. It was determined to pass the appropriation bill with a proviso that no money shall be used for troops at the posts or supervisors.

During the reading of the veto message Thursday a portion of the Democrats indulged in sneering and even vulgar remarks, some of which they afterwards requested suppressed.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., has been the scene of a rash and romantic attempt on the part of a love-sick young man named WILLIAM NIXON to take his life, because a young girl, with whom he was desperately enamored, refused to listen to his addresses.

We are seldom called upon to publish a more distressing and mournful occurrence than the wholesale poisoning of school children at Island Pond, Vt. Potato tops, poisoned by Paris green were thrown into a brook, which was also polluted by the carcasses of dead animals.

A boy named Harry Ackley, was found dead on Friday afternoon, about 10 o'clock, at the house of his mother, Mrs. W. J. Brown, on the North Pennsylvania branch, at Wayne Station, on the Germantown branch.

The band remained during the evening as an auxiliary to the Literary Society which gave an entertainment of a high order at the opera house, Wednesday, June 5, 1879.
