PRINTED ON THE FAIR GROUNDS.
East Towanda, Pa., Oct. 3, 1879.

—Over four thousand admission tickets were sold at the ticket-office yesterday.

—The total entries for premiums footed up nine hundred and twenty-six.

—C. B. Strait took both first and second premiums on Bronze Turkeys.

—J. O. Nichols received first premium for best pair of farm mares for all work.

—The Towanda Eureka Mower took the first premium. The Champion second premium.

—Competent judges estimate that there were 5,000 people on the Fair grounds yesterday afternoon.

—Hugh McCabe's fine bays wear the first prize ribbon for best-matched team of draft horses for farm work.

—Richard McCabe, of North Rome, was awarded first premium on a pair each of Blue, White Top-knot and Grey Geese—very fine fowls.

—The Ransom Cottage Range, exhibited by McIntyre Brothers, was awarded the first premium. The Westminster heating stove, exhibited by the same firm, was also given the first prize.

—Judge Bentley, who was a visitor at the Fair grounds, gives it as an extra-judicial opinion that it is one of the best County Fairs he ever attended—and the Judge is a good farmer as well as a profound lawyer.

—Newspaper reporters were thicker on the Fair grounds than black-berries in an old wind-fall. Wherever did they come from? But we forget that every man thinks he can run a newspaper or keep a hotel.

—The young people and some of the older ones enjoyed themselves yesterday in tripping the "light fantastic toe," to inspiring music. They seemed to think the "festive dance" the best part of the exhibition.

—Geo. H. Webb, of Alba, was awarded first premium on Fantail pigeons, Pekin ducks, Plymouth Leghorn chickens, Haulams, Black-breasted Games and Georgian Games, and also for best collection of fowls. George's exhibit was a very fine one and the premiums were worthily bestowed.

—The Reporter boys had a multitude of visitors, and the various processes of newspaper making were viewed with curiosity and evident satisfaction. The demand for our little daily was incessant, and those who were fortunate enough to secure copies carried them away to be kept as a memento of the Fair.

—When the Fair is over, and our farmers have returned to their homes, it will be in order to talk over the incidents of the occasion and draw from it such benefits as it is calculated to bring. Every intelligent farmer, desirous of elevating his calling and of adding to his pleasure and profit, cannot fail to have observed something which added to his stock of information and gave him useful and valuable hints for his future guidance. He will also find in the columns of the Reporter every week a department devoted to Agricultural matters, which we will guarantee will be worth more to him in the course of the year than one dollar—the price of subscription.

—We trust that in arranging and placing the entries at the next Fair, every exhibit will be distinctly marked with the name of the exhibitor and such other particulars as will do away with the necessity of asking questions. Much time was spent yesterday by visitors in endeavoring to get information (often unsuccessfully) which might have been imparted upon a small card, conspicuously posted. This plan was adopted at the State Fair, and should hereafter be made a part of the regulations by the Society.

—Our esteemed friend, Francis Wats, who was the Commissary General at the Fair, supposed he had made ample arrangements for feeding the visitors of yesterday, but they came down upon him like a swarm of hungry locusts, and literally ate up everything he had, and then clamored for more. Today he will profit (in a double sense) by the experience of yesterday.

—Mr. Morris, of Susquehanna county, represents the State Society at our Fair. Mr. M. is a member of the House of Representatives, and is thoroughly posted on all matters relating to Agriculture.

—Calkins, in the Reporter building, is relieving the afflicted by supplying them with Kabala cigarettes, which are a speedy and sure relief for Catarrh and kindred diseases.

—The Singer Sewing Machine received the premium at the Grange Fair held at Le Roy September 29th and 30th of this year. "The Judges have thoroughly tested all the leading machines offered in this vicinity and pronounce the Singer the best." The Singer also took the premium at the Troy Fair last week.

Black, how is this? "Why, easy enough. The Vertical Feed was not there."
