time were very much exercised, over the frequent occasions of "unpleasantness" which happened between editors in this country. And now, strange as it may seem, the editors of two rival London newspapers have been indulging in a street fisticuff, growing out of blackguardism published in the columns of the papers they respectively own and edit. Hope we tshall not have any more criticisms on Yankee manners.

Chiminal carelessness or stupidity mus be at the bottom of such accidents as that at the race course at Adrian, Michigan, where, by the falling of a "grand stand," sixteen persons were killed and fifty injured. A few dollars extra for better lumber, or more nails, or greater intelligence among the workmen would convert a dangerous stand into one which would withstand any weight of people that could be crowded upon it. There is no valid these temporary structures.

A pecision has recently been made by athe General Land Office, which has a relatively discouraging effect on Mormonism. It is to the effect that polygamous wives. so long as they maintain that relation, cannot obtain titles to land under the Homestead laws, on the ground that the husband might, in that way, secure as acres as he had wives, which is contrary to the spirit and intent of the Homestead act. Mormons, therefore, who have more than one wife, cannot obtain land.

Shootings and Hangings in the South. O, yaas! Ther is hangin' and shootin' But politics hesn't a thing To do with it, spite of the tootin' And howls of the Radekie Ring. Jest study each case for a minute Onprejudiced, and you'll see how

They come to begin it

And who mixes in it-It's aliuz a personal row : This Dixon Taxonans couldn't suit 'im They waited upon him one day If he would keep out of the way, All votes and all offices shunnin'. But he, with an obstinate vow

Insisted on runnin'. Twas merely a personal row : Jedge Chissom? Yaas! He wuz another! He voted with niggers, they say, And foolishly said he hed rather Git killed 'a to vote t'other way,

Some two hundred Southerners caught

The odds was immense, I allow-

They hustled and got 'im-To jail, and then shot 'im-'Twas only a personal row! That Pos'master Nix? Wall, th' trigger, It hastened the blances fer him. Fer Luther White won't hev no nigger

It wasn't the Democrats slew him (But darkeys don't count anyhow) A bullet whizzed threw 'im When Luther spoke to 'im-Twas plainly a personal row ! What's that? You imagine its curou That darkeys is alluz the ones An' git right in front of the guns!

They madden the scout and the ranger; But if they vote with us, I trow, And not with the stranger. They won't be in danger Of hevin's personal row i There'd be no eccasion to grumble,

And personal rows would be through, And vote ex the gentlemen do! If black and white niggers wuz willin To vote ez as their masters vote now, "Twould end all the spillin" And heal every personal row!
