ATTOISEY-AT-LAW AND U. S. COMMISSIONER TAVIES & CARNOCHAN. SOUTH SIDE OF WARD HOUSE. ANDREW WILT, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. W. J. YOUNG, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. Office-second door south of the First National Bank Main St., up stairs.

TILLIAMS & ANGLE.

MADILL & CALIFF.

D. PAYNE, M. D.,

W. RYAN, COUNTY SUPERINTENDE fice day last Saturday of each mouth, over a Gordon's Drug Store, Towarda, Pa

Towanda, June 20, 1878, C. S. RUSSELLIS

JOS. POWELL, President.

TOWARD WILLIAMS.

April 12, 1876.

THE EYE

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.

TOWANDA, PA.

"Please God, dearest, it shall not send some one to you." Omes in w data in the states.

Natic 1st bank, up-states.

H. J. VADILL. (jan8-73ly) J. N. CALIFF. breakfast, the snow was falling thickv: and when late in the day it ceas-

and DISEASES
THE EAR

DIRST NATIONAL BANK, N. N. BETTS, Cashier

to her ankles. As well as she could descry in the dim light, it seemed a descry in the dim light, it seemed a coarse, common kind of stable-boy who had been sent for her, with an equally common-looking hack-car. Brought up as a lady, with delicacy and care all her life, this careless in and care all her life, this careless in seemed all the old care and watchful love than she had anticipated, for the inflammable tinder; yet, though though stood contused for a moment. New in Langueucoc, 1 tunk, though such that had tended her young life, when superior character of the instrument ing with indignation, a sense of her character of the instrument superior character of the instrument ing with indignation, a sense of her character of the instrument ing with indignation, a sense of her character of the instrument ing with indignation, a sense of her character of the instrument ing with indignation, a sense of her character of the instrument ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar speaks English like one of ourselves; and there is some cloud or mystery can determ and there is some cloud or mystery there of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing with indignation, a sense of her of them seemed much embar ing difference as to comfort or propriety jarred painfully on her feelings. The point of this house, and so absorbing that she did not at perfect performance in the first detect a low knock at the door, performance in the first detect a low knock at the door, and she climbed up the side of the sid PRACTICAL PLUMBER & GAS FITTER, Place of business in Mercur Block, next door
Journal Office, opposite Polite Square,
Plumbing, Gas Fitting, Repairing Pomps of all half and all kinds of Gearing promptly attended at Manning with a historise of Gearing promptly attended at Manning with a historise of Gearing promptly attended at Manning with a historise of Gearing promptly attended at Manning with a historise of Gearing promptly attended at Manning with a historise of the car as well as her of the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long as manner, cringing and service to the matter, so long and service at the first character. The might was fine and consequent. The which she ead of the car as well as her long and service at the might was fine the might was fine

REGARDLESS OF DENUNCIATION FROM ANY QUARTER. COODRICH & HITCHCOCK, Publishers.

$1.00 ber Annum in Advance.

VOLUME XL.

TOWANDA, BRADFORD COUNTY, PA., PHURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 18,

Hoetry. THE THINGS IN THE BOTTOM

DRAWER. There are whips and tops and pieces of strings There are shoes which no little feet wear, There are bits of ribbon and broken rings And tresses of golden hair, There are little dresses folded awa but of the light of the sunny day.

There are dainty tackets that never are word. There are toys and models of ships, There are books and pictures all faded and torn And marked by the finger tips of dimpled hands that have fallen to dust. Yet I strive to think that the Lord is just. But a feeling of bitterness fills my soul Sometimes, when I try to Tray, That the resper has spared so many flowers And taken mine away. And I almost doubt if the Lord can know

That a mother's heart can love them so, Then I think of the many weary ones, Who are waiting and watching to-nigh For the slow return of faltering feet That have straved from the paths of right: Who have darkened their naths by shame and Whom the snares of the tempter have gathered They wander far in distant climes. They perish by fire and flood, and their hands are black with the direst cri That kindled the wrath of God.

Yet a mother's song has soothed them to rost And I thing of my children three, My babes that never grow old, And know they are waiting and watching for In the city with the streets of gold. Safe, safe from the cares of the weary years, And I thank my God with falling tear For the things in the bottom drawer.

Selected Tale.

RUTH MORRISON.

CHAPTER I.

"God bless you, dearest!" The low, earnest voice that uttere these words was the only voice on from the Imperial Hotel, Dublin, up- ture treatment uncertain. The en- ant look of this little sitting-room, man who had bidden her adieu, stood deserted, the lamps were being rap-tance, which consisted of two loud apartment with her pupils, idly extinguished, though it was still knocks by the latter like a postman's When Bridget appeared in dusk, while the bitter freezing wind them more together, and companions late you are!" from early youth, they became deeply with the stronger passion of riper steps for every one we came forrard. never did run smooth." sorrow, and had aided the young man to the ut- hand?" cried the butler, in a sharp most of his power, and he was now, tone, as the boy was laying down chiefly through his instrumentality, Ruth's luggage on the doorstep, successfully prosecuting his studies "Bring it in here." And he lifted as an engineer. Ruth's uncle offered one end of the large box himself.

the horn, and off went the vehicle, !"Thunder and Lightning." She was tion. "Surely," she thought, "It is not likely to do justice to your in ready?" leaving her standing, in the dusk, on wrapped up in a large loose shawl, strange that they should leave me so strument." As there was no sign of the road, shivering with cold, and that might have been either from long without food;" and then recollect yielding in the matter, Ruth played by the tone in which it was uttered, couples," was the response from was rather well born. She is of bad been brought up in the family. It INSURANCE AGENCY sinking in the crisp snow nearly up delicacy of health or the bitterness tions of bygone times came up, with two or three simple pieces, and better was like the dropping of a spark or to her ankles. As well as she could of the evening; her accent (though all the old care and watchful love than she had anticipated, for the linfammable tinder; yet, though believe than she had anticipated, for the guage, and always being present at fami-

drive, though really but a few miles in length, seemed interminable; their progress was necessarily slow, from the state of the roads; and once, her feet. He volunteered, too, some with dislike, and might very soon scraps of information about her ful become a dangerous associate.

ture home, not altogether uninterestwas most-ways from home;" that many years." misses was very sickly entirely;" that "they didn't see much of her:" "but," said he, "did ye ever hear tell, learned her hame before. miss of missis's own woman-her her?" and when Ruth replied "No," imagine; nor did the further expla- "is so much away on his business, nation her informant annexed convey that we see little of him." stairs. Thunder and Lightning." He speak but of one." also informed Ruth that the two this be Oaklands; you is the house, getting her to do as she is told." and down there is the lake and the

"Will you please come in, miss?

"Here, Patsey, will you lend a

Such were some of his last words to clock that stood at one corner. She was beginning to wonder who would or prospect as they were fraught, next appear, or if any one would they served in some degree to cheer come at all, when the door through Cold and dreary the day proved, again opened, and a female entered. She was tall and slight, apparently where they remained a short time for about thirty-five years of ago, pale, with thin lips, and an exceedingly plained that they were in the outer hall. "Oh, then I'll have them sent up; come with me." Ruth experienced, she could not

"My name, I may as well tell you," ing to Ruth, although the encourage she said, addressing Ruth as they ment be received in his communications was but an occasional monosyle serrat—Mrs. Montserrat; I am house another short flight of stairs, when their memories,"

The governess and her young with a request so wounding to my er she suppressed every outward to make the said, addressing Ruth as they charge crossed the lobby, went up own feelings, and so disrespectful to ken of anger. "Pardon, Mademotions was but an occasional monosyle serrat—Mrs. Montserrat; I am house another short flight of stairs, when their memories," she said, addressing Ruth as they labic reply. She gathered that, as keeper here, and companion to Mad-"Indeed," was the reply. Ruth did not care to tell her that she had boudoir, Marguerite calls it." "Yes," she continued, as they as in with Alice, in answer to the sum-inquiries, if about any, as being her neice; and very different children uture charge, she felt naturally spe- they are—but here are your rooms," cial interest in the topic. At length exclaimed Mrs. Montserrat, throwing It was, no doubt, a large fire that quickly with the indescribable nerv- bright warm glow all over the small der or loving tones, to the desolate ous shrinking sensation that is felt neat room, but not too large or hot, orphan girl. Almost as the farewell by the timid when first coming Ruth thought, for so severe a night. was uttered, the coach in which Ruth among strangers, and that is ever For the first time, a feeling like com-Morrison sat, its sole occupant, and enhanced when the position is that of fort and hope crept into her disconfor that she was thankful, drove off a dependent, and the reception of fu- solate heart, as she beheld the pleas on its northern route. The young trance to the residence at Oaklands that, as she gathered, was to be her was at the side; there was a kind of own; the bed-room, still smaller, with folded arms and dimmed eyes veranda or covered passage running opened into it, and she was consider watching the vehicle, the Belfast day- along from the door to the end of the ably relieved to find that she would coach, until it was quite lost to view. house, and there Ruth and the driver be alone, as she had some apprehen-The streets at that early hour of a of the car stood for several moments sion that possibly she might have cold November morning were nearly after the first application for admit- been obliged to share her sleeping

"My poor little darling!" ex- through the lower parts of the house. listener. She saw plainly that this of politeness from one so young -that claimed he who was left behind, as Immediately afterwards, there was servant, at least, disliked and resent- might have been a reproof to her come quick along slippy roads. Be volubility of an under-educated per- ly asked Ruth to be seated. son. More than once, too, she fan- Ruth Morrison, though bashful cled that she disliked its being known and timid naturally, had about her a back in the Ingees, or in a hotter noir. "Ah, oui," she replied; but thoughts found audible utterance sharply, "you shouldn't say that; Alice departed, according to custom, place—that would be the fittest place before she had time to say anything from the irritated girl, as she moved "she's fond of us both, and I like Mr. Sinclair, desiring Ruth to rethe heart of the poor lonely traveler, which the servant had gone was of tone and manner, succeeded in clair nodded, and after a moments out into the sitting-room, to await we don't like people." soothing her perturbed spirit. The pause, addressing Ruth, said: "Mrs. Mrs. Monterserrat's return. The ed, it was followed by a severe frost. her eyes were dark and piercing, tho', erness so won upon the domestic that give them their music lessons here, had yet been kindled in the apart-they were called to breakfast, a meal but?' (and here he hesitated for a spoils the whole job. If the Czar only Ruth, chilled and weary, had fallen as Ruth afterwards found, she rarely it was agreeable to the former to find Perhaps, Miss Morrison," she added, ment, Ruth began to walk quickly up at which the governess sat down to B KELLY, Dentist.—Office into a doze soon after they left New- looked straight at the person whom that in that strange household she "you would just let me hear you play up and down; as well to keep up vi- alone; and after it, the latter were to admit the fact) "she has, there ry, and was roused by their again she was addressing. Now, as she had already gained the good-will of a little," pointing to a piano at the tality in her chilled frame as to en- sent for to Mrs. Sinclair. In the is no question about it, managed not be so much noise in San Francisco. stopping to change horses at a way- advanced towards the young girl, one at least, however humble, as was other end of the room; "music I am deavor to allay the feelings of vexa- spare hour that followed, Ruth hap- to acquire a very great, and I both parties would make by the exstopping to change horses at a way- advanced towards the young girl, one at least, however numble, as was other end of the room; music rain deavorise many the respection that she was just then a prey to particular about, and I flatter myself tion that she was just then a prey to pened by mistake to go back sud- conceive, unfortunate influence change. The Czar would be fortunate if the breakfast room and over my wife. True, that when like Denis, he didn't have any brains rough voice calling out to the coach penetrating; then she dropped the ful manner of her attendant. When that I'm a judge." man: 'Is there one Miss Morrison lids, and eyed Ruth only with a furthe housemaid left her, Ruth remainrith you in the coreh?"

Ruth's education was, for her age, she would be one less blatherskite in San Francisco if Denis had the Czar's man: 'Is there one Miss Morrison with you in the coach?"

"Yes," cried Ruth; "I am here."

"A car for you, miss, from the captain's."

"A car for you, miss, from the appropriated and understand her position, and the house-clock Ruth with difficulty alighted, so cramped and frozen had she become; a hurried, confused search for her luggage, the accustomed gratulties a hurried, confused search for her luggage, the accustomed gratulties to guard and coachman, a blast of guard and coachman, and off went the very like ments and left her, Ruth remainted the house-clock was for an instant, at the clusted on appropriated first engaged in our service she was for in angle filter, Ruth remainted, found was extremely useful, and nundisturbed for nearly as the captain she captain and undisturbed for nearly as the cluster winding light, and wait patiently, for a she was extremely useful, and nundisturbed for nearly as the cluster, that made her fed lone and undisturbed for nearly as the clust, and nundisturbed for nearly as the clust, and this naturally left captain she c moving her foot about nervously, as sweet voice trembled as she answer-Rith stood before her. "Well, my cd: "Pardon me, Miss Sinclair, my tress may have ordered you to condear," said Ruth gently, "are you mother," and a pause for an instant Miss Sinclair?" ensued; but with a strong effort, when laboring up a steep hill, her tell why, a decided repugnance to good-natured companion insisted on ber companion. She at the same wrapping a coat of his own round was first the woman viewed her feet. He volunteered to some with dislibe and might need to some the component of the solution. "Well, come, take me to her, will scarcely a year—her voice again grew quet by which Ruth had heard she you?" and she took the litte girl's thin—"and I should rather leave was known in the lower regions of hander die granen in tie the child stopped at a door. "Here

Ruth knocked gently, and passed have dined, I suppose?" that come, they say, from Ingee with cended the stairs, "your mistress," mons to enter. The room in which don't mind." miss," he added, cracking his whip, the same since the birth of her little on a sofa; at a little distance from fromned, and was brushing past Ruth out;" and then with a mock polite do so. Ruth did not carry out her frequently was present in the schoolshe's-my eye!"-and he gave a girl in India, and I now have to man the fire. She had a cloak lined with out of the room, when Miss Sinclair ness more galling than the most intention of inquiring into the nature room during the hours of instruction, long, low whistle—"she's just that!" age everything for her. Captain Sin-fur, wrapped round her; her face was added: "You won't mind, I suppose, studied rudeness, she opened the of the authority which the house and the shyness that Ruth at first What this ambiguous description clair, poor man,"—and she shrugged strikingly handsome, and did not be my calling you Morrison; I can't door for Ruth, adding: "I must be keeper affirmed she was to retain as might imply, Buth was at a loss to her shoulders, half contemptuously—token the delicacy that Ruth had an make differences with persons in this excused for taking the liberty of go- she feared that such a step might be by the genial and encouraging voice ticipated from what she had heard | establishment." A bow was the only ing before Mademoiselle, as otherher eyes were large and dark, and answer Ruth could give. Mrs. Mont wise, she would not know the way." felt pleased to think that she certain. "I thought," rejoined Ruth, "that served to set off a complexion natural served, in her reflecin a lower tone, as if imparting some there were two little girls—that I ly pale and clear, but tinged with the giving her another scornful look said the rooms—a sufficiently comfortable intelligence: "We calls her, down was to have the charge of two; you dark hue that residence in an Indian sharply: "I'll send you up some re-inpartment, with the agreeable ad- became more kind and courteous; clime imparts. Mrs. Montserrat was freshment by the servant."

About them, indeed, Ruth emoiselle Gertrude is Madame's child, she entered, the quick, furtive glance full, and her prospects of comfort in in the same sneering manner, will ed as if she thought that the least would have been disposed to make while. Alice is only the captain's she had before seen and recoiled this, her first situation, too gloomy be the future study and school-room friendliness shown to the governess from. Near her another little girl Before lying down, she opened the of the gouvernance and her pupils. was standing, who, Ruth concluded, window shutters of her little sitting. Madamedesires that you will have the keeper. The first-break in the way was Gortrude Sinclair, her employers room. The night was beautifully goodness, Mademoiselle, to be here of variety from the ordinary course the cold and dreary journey drew to open a door, "Mon Dieu! only see own child. Alice withdrawing her calm and bright; a late moon had every morning at eight o'clock, when after Ruth's arival, when her pupil's large gateway to be opened, and roast an elephant!" And the house-came into the room, took up her place that strong affection that had been passing up a long avenue, the driver keeper pulled the bell angrily. "That at the head of her aunt's sofa. Buth the frost that had bound it. Not far the night, they are to be under your pa had come home," for so both the announced: "Now, miss, we're here; fool Bridget!" she continued, "no bowed respectfully to the lady, and from the house, the waters of a small charge; they are to walk out with little girls always called the captain. remained standing in the middle of lake gleamed like silver through the you every day that the weather perthe room. Mrs. Sinclair looked at naked branches of the trees that mits; their music lessons are, when said Gertrude; "and we have not grove," Ruth felt her heart beat burned in the grate, and that sent its her steadily from head to foot, refringed its margin. The still scene Madame is well enough, to be always seen him yet; but," and the child's turning the salutation with a scarce | without breathed something of rest | given in her boudoir. As to their face brightened up, "I know he'll ly perceptible movement of the head, upon the unquiet spirit of its watch- other business, Madame supposes that soon send for us." It was easy to Miss Morrison, you are er; and its wintry aspect was in you will understand how to arrange see that the attachment between younger looking than I was led to unison with her own sad meditations, that yourself; and she also says, that Captain Sinclair and his niece and expect," she said, in a voice that Soon she wandered off in musings to as I have had hitherto a great deal to daughter was of no ordinary stamp, seemed feeble, it might have been the last home of her people, the do with these young ladies" (and and Ruth felt that it spoke well for

> "I mentioned to you, ma'nm, as its green mounds clad at this mo you may remember, in our correspon- ment, she thought, in the pure white them I wish." dence, that I was twenty my last covering that met her eyes all round birthday."

"Well, yes; I do remember."

that swept by portended severe bell, and rang it so violently that such between her and Mrs. Montser- gently moved a chair towards the she threw herself on her bed, and they could hear its peal resounding rat, to which Ruth was necessarily a stranger. The little thoughtful act sank at length into a deep sleep. he looked up to the leaden sky, from the noise of doors slamming, and ed the woman's authority, while it seniors—was sweet to Ruth, who which already one or two flakes of then a quick tread along a hall, and was equally manifest that the house thanked her with a smile; but Mrs. snow were dropping, "What a terri- the door was opened by a man with keeper was most tyrannical in the Montserrat, frowning, told the child mornings at home that called her ing., In two or three minutes, the was greated by the children with ble day I fear you will have for your a candle in his hand. Before he had exercise of whatever power was vest- to keep quiet—a direction that was from her stumbers the day after her done so the carman had whispered to ed in her. That first evening of their at once peevishly echoed from the arrival at Oaklands. When she open as is natural with those of tender tion. Ruth stood for a moment Ferdinand Munroe and Ruth Mor- Ruth: This be Mr. Marks-Joshua acquaintance, Ruth observed that sofa, with: Do be still, child, and ed her eyes, she could not remember years, shy and reserved; but their apart, watching with pleasure the rerison had been neighbors' children. Marks, the butler: I knows his walk." when the housekeeper introduced as don't keep drumming in that way, where she was. A female figure hold-young instructress soon broke down ciprocal feelings of delight that were "Oh. is that you, Patsey?" ex she sometimes did, a French word or and shaking me all over;" and the ing a lighted candle was standing at this barrier, for she had a peculiarly manifested; and then he came for fact of both their families having claimed the man, shading the light expression into her conversation, it voice of the invalid was marvellously the bed-room window, the shutters of winning way with children. She suc- ward, and won yet further her favor- which he held with his hand. "How seemed involuntary, except when she stronger when raised in the sharp which she had just opened; the light ceeded more readily with Alice, the able opinion by the courteous, yet was irritated or excited, and that key. The child's hint, however, was from without was cold and gray, that younger of the two. Gertrude, who frank' and friendly manner with "Not so alsy, Misther Marks, to then the patois broke out with all the not lost, for Mrs. Sinclair immediate-lof the early, winter, morning, and was about a year older, had more of which he welcomed her to Oaklands. contrasted dismally with the candle that she was a foreigner, or that she great deal of quiet dignity, that and by degrees Ruth began to recol- short trial elicited the fact, that for can see," he continued, surveying the should be thought one at all. Mrs. almost, without a word, repelled any leet where she was, and recognized their years—ten and eleven both little girls attentively—"I think I Montserrat withdrew after her battle thing bordering on the slightest in- Mrs. Montserrat as the speaker, the children were very backward in can see improvement here already." both their homesteads, until, at the stepped within a narrow hall or pas- with Bridget, ordering her to have sult. In face and appearance, she "We're early people in this housetime of which we are speaking, they sage into her new—home; if she Miss Morrison's luggage brought up, was not at all handsome or striking; at least I am," she continued; and I might be able, in any sense, to call it and telling the latter that she would her figure was too short and set; her generally wake up the other servants; of the word; each, too, similarly cir-cumstanced, in having an uncle as name! come for her whenever Madame was features, taken singly, plain; yet so I came first to you. I suppose "I mean, we had no governess like man, with a uniform kindness, the re-cumstanced, in having an uncle as name! Mamma sometimes heard us sult of natural amiability of disposi-When the housemaid returned, her expression that not only redeem- without this," pointing to the candle; our lessons; papa taught us when he tion, that rendered him a general bringing up Ruth's packages, first ed it from being common place, but "and by the time I think your ready, was at home; but Marguerite, you favorite; though in his own house, seeing that the coast was clear, she to most observers gave a singular I'll be back, and give you your in know, she used almost always to there were two exceptions to this burst into the bitterest invectives charm, far beyond what actual beauty structions." So saying, and without against Mrs. Montserrat. "Ther's conveys. Just now, indeed, she approximation for any response, she left the no standing the place with that wo peared to disadvantage, wearied in room. her, it is true, an asylum at his house, on her mother's death, but in so cold man closed and barred the outer door, what, miss, you're a stranger in the of food, and so utterly dispirited, to mitigate for the time the depression uncle made aunt send for you." a manner that she rightly preferred and giving a half-curious, half-con- house here; if you'let that one get a that she was well aware the least ing sensation of loneliness that would independence, and was, this very temptuous look at poor Ruth, who hand over you, mind I tell you, miss, thing would overthrow the balance, otherwise have been paramount, Ruth morning that we write of, setting out stood trembling alike from cold as you'll not be able to stay at all. She and betray an emotion that might no rose from her couch, and proceeded object to my coming? What did she shortly and decisively. At breakfast, to fill the situation of governess in from nervousness.—"Follow me, miss, and Misther Marks - misther, in- longer be controlled. She sat down, to dress by the dim morning twilight. know about me?" the family of a Mr. Sinclair, who if you please," he said, and they deed!" ejaculated the damsel paren- however, quietly, in the seat that "If," she thought, "this woman be lived some miles beyond Newry. She passed into a square inner hall, lit by thetically, "as if he were any better little Alice had moved to her, and permitted to act towards me as she "but any governess at all. I heard Sinclair was often absent from the had been stopping with a friend in a lamp from the ceiling, and into than Patsey Donovan or Corbett the waited without speaking for Mrs. seems inclined, I'll not stay here a mamma laughing at her, and saying early meal, and on this day had a the full strength of his lungs: What Belfast some few days, at whose which five or six doors opened, which conchman, and should be nothing Sinclair again to address her. "I week. What business had she in that she was jealous about any one bad headache, from the excitement, are you doing there?" To the young Belfast some few days, at whose which five or six doors opened, which conchman, and should be nothing Sinclair again to address her. "I week. What business had she in that she was jealous about any one bad headache, from the excitement, were then all closed. The butler more nor less, we all knows, but forget, Marguerite," said that lady, truding into my room at this hour of coming." and had stipulated that he was to be stood for a moment, as if in doubt plain Joshua—the two of them are turning to Mrs. Montserrat, in a low the morning? I'll soon find out "I'm very glad that you have he asked Ruth several questions her escort to the coach, and to see what next to do. "If you please," to rule us all, indeed! And there's tone, what's this we were settling whether this is with Mrs. Sinclair's come, though," said Alice, looking about herself, and in a strain of so said he at last, "wait here, and I'll missis, she minds nothing but what about?" The housekeeper bent over knowledge, or by her permission up, with her soft eyes, into Ruth's much genuine kindness as to elicit that one tells her; she can twist her the back of the sofa, and whispered Other servants, indeed! I'll let her face, and laying her hands on her the warmest and happiest emotions "Please God, dearest, it shall not send some one to you."

be long; I'll soon be working in my profession, and we shall soon have alone in the hall. All was silent wishes, the Lord knows, she were the only word that Ruth caught was profession, and we shall soon have alone in the hall. All was silent wishes, the Lord knows, she were the only word that Ruth caught was profession, and we shall soon have alone in the hall. All was silent wishes, the Lord knows, she were the only word that Ruth caught was profession, and we shall soon have alone in the hall. All was silent wishes, the Lord knows, she were the only word that Ruth caught was profession, and we shall soon have alone in the hall. All was silent wishes, the Lord knows, she were the only word that Ruth caught was profession, and we shall soon have alone in the hall. All was silent wishes, the Lord knows, she were the only word that Ruth caught was profession, and we shall soon have alone in the bird's trill, and drink in the shall. All was silent wishes, the Lord knows, she were the only word that Ruth caught was profession, and we shall soon have alone in the bird's trill, and drink in the shall. All was silent wishes, the Lord knows, she were the only word that Ruth caught was profession, and we shall soon have alone in the bird's trill, and drink in the shall. All was silent with the shall Mrs. Montserrat again bent down about through the room in the necess her very much,"

vev to me."

""Oh. well," returned Mrs. Sinclair and courtesying low; "I was not the lad expressed it, "the captain ame, and have been with her for it is; here's aunt's room—her," and hesitatingly, as she looked toward aware that a governante was so ex-"No," returned Ruth; "but I to accompany me, I'll take you to a her and her young charges, especial. lightened spirits entered on the occuand, she laid an emphasis on the Ruth now found herself was spacious . "Not dired! Marguerite, why did part to you Madame's wishes, I hope to manage; more under the influence and asked who she was: "She Mrs. words that made Ruth wince at the and handsomely furnished; but her you not order dinner for Miss Mor- that their being brought to you by so of Mrs. Montserrat, who never failed lands while Captain Sinclair was at Montserratt, they call her," rejoined implication. "Your mistress is in attention was centred upon the figure rison? Let her have something to humble a person as myself will not to thwart the wishes of their instruction was centred upon the figure rison? the youth; "and I'll tell you what, broken health; she has never been of Mrs. Sinclair, who was reclining cat immediately." The housekeeper interfere with their being carried tress, when it was possible for her to kept down all unpleasantness. He

"Oh, did you not know?" returned standing behind the sofa, with her Wesk'as she felt, it was little that and brightly in its polished grate. young ladies were "nate little cray- the housekeeper. "Gertrude Mad. arms folded, and cast upon Ruth, as Ruth could take; her heart was too ... "This," continued Mrs. Montserrat, from sickness, or possibly from indo place where her father and her here Mrs. Montserrat's voice and for both parties; the more so, as his mother were sleeping side by side-

—until the anguish of memory be you told me this, as I shall inquire satisfaction that he returned; but excame insupportable; and like one of from Mrs. Sinclair the nature of that tensive agency business which he had There was another awkward pause, old, bereft of a parent's blessing, her control, and how far it is to interfere undertaken, since, in delicate health, during which Mrs. Sinclair closed very soul, if not her voice, went out with my authority over the children." he had left the army and settled in her eyes, as if exhausted by her ex- "in a great exceeding bitter cry." "Indeed!" indignantly returned an old family place in Ireland, neces-had thught them before. hear us when she had time."

Marguerite did not want you to come eye, that more than once, they fear-"Oh, but," said Ruth laughing, while they felt, that if he detected "why did Marguerite, as you call her, aught astray he would be sure to act ""On, not you," added Gertrude; and pupils joined the captain (Mrs.

She determined in her own mind that dealy into the breakfast room, sup-over my wife. True, that when now, and if that isn't rich, Mrs. M. faucy," continued Captain Sinclair, for picking up new phrases. A worthy you whatever directions your misjust then it gave her little concern. She did not at all regret what, on the -: The look that the housekeeper cast impulse of the moment, she had said your house to morrow than comply the house; but with marvellous pow, respect. For a fortnight or more lit. whom the Almighty has seen fit to routine of Ruth's daily course, the regular hours for instruction, the she hesitated an instant as if in doubt her was the how to say the next word—ther bouldor, Marguerite calls it."

That will do," she continued. "You remember. Well, if it will not deson bright phase of her life was the listener's heart; and it was with matter, as you think so much of it. she is; but, ma foi, I must try and of but little out-door recreation. The most ened eyes and a tremulous voice one bright phase of her life was the mean you too much, Mademoiselle, iunct of a brisk fire burning clearly but this. Ruth remarked, was only in needed some apology to the house-manner became haughty and severe), frequent absence must have weaken-

I am still to have what control over ed the bond of union between them. It was always with reluctance that "I am glad," replied Ruth, "that he left his home, and with extreme young ladies to you;" and as she left had left his affairs in extreme confuthe room, and gave, Ruth the same sion), that he wished to improve for malighant glance from under her his orphan niece, Alice, also entailed little girls came. They were at first, rapturous demonstrations of affecnatural coldness, but yielded ulti- "I trust, Miss Morrison," he said, mately in a great degree to the gen- "that you will find your residence "Oh, you're awake," said the voice; the advances of her governess. A with us an agreeable one. I think I haps, with Joe as the leading character, their learning. Ruth inquired who "Oh, no one," returned Gertrude, manners, he was perfectly a gentle-I mean, we had no governess like man, with a uniform kindness, the re-his butler and housekeeper. Both "Yes," interrupted Alice; "and were afraid of the keen, penetrating main for a moment, he asked her if Ruth mildly expostulated with the and spoke a few words more, but sary arrangements of her toilet. "Gertrude is quite right," said she found herself quite comfortable angry servant; and by her gentleness still in an inaudible voice. Mrs. Sin- When it was completed she passed Ruth; "we must not say, Alice, that since she came; adding, before she "Gertrude is quite right," said she found herself quite comfortable glad, and good table board may be had in had time to answer: "There is one "But I do not like her," repeated person, Miss Morrison, in this housegirl remained for some time, assisting in the unpacking of Ruth's trunk and the arrangement of the rooms;

| Solding her perturbed spirit. The pause, addressing Ruth, said: Mrs. Montserrat section. In the pause, addressing Ruth, said: Mrs. Montserrat section. In the pause, addressing Ruth, said: Mrs. Montserrat section. In the pause, addressing Ruth, said: Mrs. Montserrat section. In the pause, addressing Ruth, said: Mrs. Montserrat will tell you all my wish morning, like the preceding evening, the child; "and I can't' tell a lie. hold about whom I should wish to say a word to you; I mean the hole. Say a word to you; I mean the hole say a word to you; I mean the hole assassinated, and Before Ruth could frame any release, Mrs. Montserrat. She is a leaves a list of bloated aristocrats who and the ladylike kindness of the gov- am equal to it I shall expect you to impossible to see out; and as no fre ply to this embarrassing question, woman whom I can't say I like; are to be assassinated in return. This provokingly induced Mrs. Sinclair for a considerable time to object also. But now that you have come," he added, turning smilingly to Ruth, "I shall feel quite happy about the chil-

Ruth laughed, and answered that she did not think she was any favorite with the housekeeper, and that their intercourse was not likely to be very great. "Thope," returned Captain Sinclair energetically,"that she has not dared to give you any annoyance." "Nothing to signify, indeed, sir," replied Ruth. Miss Morrison," he added, "if you have the least cause of complaint about her for indeed about anything, be sure to let me know. Mrs. Sinclair's health is so indifferent that many things may escape her notice; but I should feel it a duty as well as a pleasure to promote in every way the comfort of the mented, it secured all that she cared will let me add, to protect, if necesfor—some outward manifestation of sary, to the utmost of my power, one tle occurred to vary the monotonous leave comparatively friendless in this trying world." There was a respectful tenderness music lessons—generally given in in the tone with which the last words Mrs. Sinclair's own room—continu. were spoken that went home to their attachment that sprang up between employer, and with considerably room with a fire, where I shall im- ly with Alice. Gertrude was harder pations of that day. With Ruth Morrison, it was sunshine at Oakin which he remarked her success injurious to her own comfort; she with her pupils. One source of un-Sinclair's estimation, since that lady she had been advanced. By the rule Mrs. Montserrat's absence; whenever ence was to take place between them; "let us only pray for each other," she was present her mistress appearwas her last injunction at their parting. Yet, strong as were the reasons for this arrangement, she could not but regret it. It would have been more than human nature, if she didspirit, in the day when the last storm of sorrow had all but swept her to "He came very late last night," the ground.

CONTINUED NEXT WEEK.

Fun, Fact and Facetiæ.

PLEASURE is the mere accident of our HUMAN things must be known to be oved, but divine things must be loved to and must of necessity have truth for its foundation. Wiley the human mind dets down to hubdeep in o a rut of thinking, it is hard

HAPPINESS can be built on virtue alone, to lift it out. LIVE is full of difficulty. No sooner do we overcome one obstacle than another

MANY a youth has ruined himself by

A PITTERING man recently made two insuccessful attempts to hang himself. time. - Oil City Decrick. THE man who asserted that Pauline mouth. Been there, eh?

"WHAT." asks the Rochester Express Captain Sinclair was a plain man, like comes along down the siste

At a samperbund concert the other tall, slight, and of middle age. In they would rather have kept closed;

that morning, when both teacher

she alleged, of her husband's return),

Some of the high-toned would-be-fashwhich only good English was spoken.—

rin, the ccho came promptly rolling back." Looking for you, you confounded thief."