After the flattering experience of the pant year, having had a very large and extended sale, we find that the THE RANSOM COTTAGE is universally conceded to be the most desirable Range of its class in the market. Its general features are the same as in the celebrated Hansom Range, which has for years seen considered the finest Range made. It contains the Paterin-Expansion Broffing Chamber, which is universally acknowledged to be the only successful and practical broffing attachment in use. It is also furnished with Smyth's Paterin Burplex Grate. This celebrated Grate is extremely simple in its construction. It has now been in active use its more than five years, and in view of the universally successful experience of its operation and durability during that time, as well as the highly ratisfactory results obtained by usin our own thorough trial of its qualities.

Gentlemen: I take picssure in recommending for cough since last May. Have used all kinds of Cough Mixtures, but could get no relief. Mornings after getting up from my bed I would be so choked up that I could hardly breather; also frequently vomiting severely. A friend directed me to use Dr. German's Cough and Consumption Cure. 1 ald so, with but little faith at the time, but after using I changed my mind, and I can conscientiously say, after taking only one bottle, I did not only obtain relief but am not troubled with that Tullness in the morning. My cough has stopped, and I can obtain a good light's sleep—something not enjoyed by medor weeks before. Will close by saying it this letter will be of any benefit to you, you may have my consent to make it public. Yours very respectfully.

House Cleaning. It is rather early yet for the full eremonies of house cleaning, but the bright April weather makes old housekeepers as restless as all out-of-door things are at this time. The serpent taught Eve one lesson that remains to this day—the necessity of shedding and renewing the outer skins of every thing a woman has to do with at this time of the year. The carpets look bright and the rooms neat, but she knows that one is full of the winter's dust, and even the walls have got their winter's cost of smoke from the fires and from the lamps, even the gas, and from the ac-cumulated breathing and living of so many human beings. The people who live in whitewashed rooms may be easy for a little while longer. They know they are going to have a fresh "coat" before long, which will sweeten all their rooms. Whitewashed walls are a great deal of trouble to be sure, and when coat is laid on over coat, the fresh lime will crack and sometimes come of in patches, and occasionally a section of the litchen ceiling comes tumbling down when softened by too much steam from cook stove or range. It is best on every account, for old walls, to scrape off the thick layers of lime before the new is put on. This seems a great geal of trouble or expense, and we have no workman, like the Chinese, who will scrape the old walls of whitewash, plaster, or old wall paper, for the materials alone, that they carry away and sell as fer-tilizers to farmers. Remembering this, it is the best to let the fertilizers go out of the house. Painted walls, of course, are best for wear, as these absorb nothing of dust or impurities.

The objection to them is that they cost considerable at first and that of all street, of the street and they fade or change color, that they show dents and damage by furniture sock coal, moving, and, in the case of stairways, with the bumping of trunks on the expressman's shoulders. Once dented it is impossible to renew the plaster and paint the wall over to match the rest. When a prepared wall gets a knock it is easier to repair of course. Paper gets soiled and smoked and needs to be renewed more often than people think, for still another reason, particularly in sleeping rooms, or wherever there has been sickness; it absorbs so much of elfluvia, and the least of its impurities are the finger marks or grease marks that anybody can see. Fortunately, papering is very cheap, and it is easy to have walls renewed with fresh, pretty patterns for quite a trifling cost. But the old wall paper should always be removed, for there is no reason, except appearance, for putting the fresh one over it, as whatever was in it there is still. There are some housekeepers who can paint or paper their own walls and who do their own whitewashing. These may be interested in a receipt for calcimining walls. Have ready a quarter of a pound of white glue, previously laid in cold water over night so that it is easy to dissolve, by gradually heating in the morning. Mix eight pounds of whiting with hot water, add the dissolv ed glue and stir together, adding warm water until it is about as thick as cream; apply with a calcimine brush. Copperas put into whitewash, ACKE PULVERIZING HARROW AND CLOD used for cellar walls, is good to keep vermin away. Clean paints with soda water-not soap-and use a bit of old flannel or of new canton flannel for the paint cloth. Try soils water to clean smoky ceilings; whiting and ammonia for very dirty ning ger marks on painted wood work? Wash stained wood with cold tea. It is far better for many reasons, to clean one room or one floor at a time. There is no need to tear up all the carpets from the floors at once, and live in an atmosphere of steaming buckets and chilly entries. There are people who have their whole houses cleaned from garret to cellar and "not a creature knew it" for any di-comfort there was about it. Especially should this be remembered by the early beginners, as open doors and windows and damp floors at this season will be apt to give somebody cold in the household. and, perhaps, add nursing to other cares. Of course the furniture in all rooms needs cleaning as much as the walls or floors. Large furniture dealers keep women constantly going over the finest furniture with cold water and a chamois cloth to take the dust out of carvings, that no brush could reach. Old housekeepers used to freshen up the substantial furniture by rubbing it well down with turpentine and then rubbing up again with linseed oil. Bedsteads must be taken to pieces, was !ed down with brine or alum water; but this is a precaution not needed in those households where all hedsteads are examined once a month, well dusted, and the slats and inner woodwork carefully washed with soap and water. PREVENTIVE HOUSEKEEPING. But this is the time of year it must oe remembered when whatever does create roaches, moths, suts, and other creeping things, or "brings them," as we say, in full force. Dust and grease, and other "matter out of place," which is the philosopher's definition of dirt, certainly help them to come. Roaches may be brought in-the wood into the cellars, but it is very certain if greasy dishes are left to stand about in the kitchen sinks, hey appear about the water pipes or in the closets where the soup pots and sauce pans are kept. Of course they can be got rid of by leaving poison about phosphorus, hellebore. corrosive sublimate, as can other things not to be named. But this is dangerous when there are children about, and it is better to sprinkle borax, which is safe, in closets and cupboards, and to use plenty of washing soda or ammonia about kitchen sinks and for cleaning iron vessels. A little ammonia is worth a good deal of soap in cleansing heavy dishes and kitchen utensils, and borax, soda, ammonia, etc., all neutralize grease, which is better than killing the roaches and mice afterwards by other means. Red ants are still a difficulty which it would repay some natural scientist to look into. These do come into the cleanest places, and noknown remedy can be pronounced as sure Cayenne pepper sprinkled about, which is recommended, is almost as bad as the ants. Begin house-cleaning by doing all the closets first, store rooms and china closets, linen closets and pantries, one at a time, on chosen days, without disturbing the household, and the garrets and cellars also. Then, when the rest of the house is done, these places are all neat for whatever is to be stored away, and the whole process will not be a domestic earthquake with every article of the family's possession in stacks and hears in the passage way.
