ville was first showing what there was in 1877 G. M. Bixby, Chas. Northrup, her. There were several newly-made bonanza kings about Denver then, and among them was a man who had probably never had $20 in his pocket at one time previous to his strike. To have the possession of a watch was the natural evidence of the possession of a competence, and as he had made more than a competence he felt that the fact should be indicated by the purchase of several watches.

These he had deposited in the Grand Central Hotel safe.

One night he came into the office very much the worse for drink, lurched up to the desk and hiccoughed out to the clerk:

"Gimme a watch."

I am using Ely's Cream Baim and receiving very beneficial results. It is the only remedy of a great many I have tried which has acted as a cure. I have been troubled with Catarri for over 15 years, my head has been, most of the time, stopped and very much inflamed. It has opened my nostrils and reduced the inflammation in my head—in fact I feel I am being cured. It is the only remedy I have found which can be applied without pain and dread. My eyes are improving so that I can stand strong light, which I have not been able to do for years.

> After the flattering experience of the past year, having had a very large and extended sale, we find that the THE RANSOM COTTAGE is universally conceded to be the most desirable Range of its class in the market. Its general features are the same as in the celebrated Ransom Range, which has for years been considered the finest Range made. It contains the Patent Expansion Breiling Chamber, which is universally acknowledged to be the only successful and practical troiling attachment in use. It is also furnished with Smyth's Patent Duplex Grate. This, celebrated Grate is extremely simple in its construction, it has now been in active use for more than five years, and in view of the universally successful experience of its operation and durability during that time, as well as the highly satisfactory results obtained by usin our own thorough trial of its qualities, we have no hesitation in pronouncing it the only complete and successful arrangement for removing clinkers and refuse from the fire-box instantaneously, thoroughly and cleanly, while, the degree of combustion obtained has never, in our opinion, been equaled with any other style of grate.
> THE RANSOM COTTAGE is a thoroughly first-class Range in all its portions and appointments, while the price is extremely low. It is so constructed that it can be changed from a Low Closet to a Single Owai Range, by merely lifting the upper part of the Range from the Low Closet and placing it upon a set of ornamented legs. All sizes can also be furnished with the Ornamental Elevated Shelf. while the price to extremely low. It is so constructed that it can be changed from a Low Closet to a Single Oval Range, by merely lifting the upper part of the Range from the Low Closet and placing it upon a set of ornamented legs. All sizes can also be fornished with the Ornamental Elevated Shelf. The large finish Ash Pan is taken out at the end of the Range instead of the front—a much more convenient and cleanly arrangement—and the capa-lous Warming Closet extends underneath the whole Range. The Hot Water Reservoir is beated entirely from the bottom, and is of a larger capacity than will be found on any other Range of this class. All the minor details in the construction of this Range have received the closest attention. It has highly hurnished ends, nickle-plated knobs of a new and beautiful pattern, nickle-plated panels, nickle-plated Towel Racks, and the mounting and fittings is in the best style.

infested with cut worms, and about the time they were disappearing, I noticed, in this pasture land I propose to plow, a great many small grey millers or moths fluttering on the grass. Without knowing any. thing positive about them, I inferred they developed from the cut worms in my corn hills, and were laying in this sod, the foundation for another crop of worms. Am I right? If so, what can I do to protect the corn from their ravages? Would it be of any benefit to sow on the inverted sod, just before harrowing it, from 200 to 300 pounds of salt? What would be the effect of sprinkling on the top of each hill a small handful of salt before the corn came up, or around the corn after it came up? Answer-The moth winged form of the common corn cut worm is about three fourths of an inch long, and an inch and a quarter with its spread wings, dusky grey in color, and is distinguished by two black spots (one nearly square) near the whether those you saw are the same. There is doubtless a strong probabilcentre of its fore wings, with a nearly white spot between them. You may judge from this description, ity that the unplowed portion of the field will be infested with them, as the plowed portion was last year. The last year's grubs changed to the winged insects in July, and laid their eggs at the roots of the grass. They hatched and fed on a portion of the grass till the approaching cold of winter, when they crawled into the earth and remained in a partly frozen state till spring. By the time the corn was up, they were large enough to commence more in earnest. It was found useful to invert the sod just before winter, turning up the stupefied grubs to sudden freezing, and thus destroying them to some extent. This course cannot be now adopted. We have never found any repellant of any use. The only effect. ual remedy which we have ever used is to go over the field and kill the grubs by hand wherever they can be found, their presence being indicated by the plants which have been cut during the preceding night. As an instance, we may state that last year we had six acres of corn on inverted sod that was greatly infested with cut worms, and soon after the plants were up we found that either we or they must have the crop. We decided on the former. Two active men

The principal causes why butter is found to be badly "off flavor" are, first, browse and weeds in the pastures, or in the hay, or coarse roots and other unsuitable feed in the stable; second, bad water, or too little of it; third, heating the cow's blood by running or abuse; fourth, uncleanly milking; fifth, setting the milk in open pans which are exposed to the fumes of cooking, or to stovesmoke or tobacco-smoke, or to cold vituals set near; sixth, to keeping the cream in uncleansed vessels, or too long before churning; seventh, the use of impure salt; eight, putting down the butter in unsuitable or illprepared tubs or other packages; ninth, storing it in dirty cellars, or beside kerosene, salt or smoked ment, or fish, or any other strong-odored hing. Butter is the most susceptible of taint of any article of food, and when tainted, even slightly, has lost its value. A person may have every other qualification for the business, utterly unfit to be employed in butter-making. A farmer whose wife is a slattern may succeed in sheep or hogs, but never as a dairyman. Yet let every man remember that at least half our bad butter was made before the milk left the stable. Milk-What is It?

The natural food for the young of ill mammals is milk—a, rather complex fluid, the physical properties of which it is not necessary to describe. The principal constituents are water, sugar, easeine, albumin, fat and several salts. The sugar, when separated, looks much like the ordinary kind from the cane, but is much less sweet, Caseine is one of the leading constituents, and is the part which, when removed from the milk, becomes the cheese. The caseine exists in small particles in the milk, and is contracted or gathered into large masses by the action of acids or rennet. The albumin remains in solution after the caseine is removed, and is separated by boiling when it appears as white curds, somewhat resembling the white of eggs in appearance, as it does also in composition. The fat is not dissolved in the milk, but suspended as little globules with thin coverings. In the process of churning, these globules are broken, and the fat colleets in lumps of various sizes. This fat, when worked, salted, etc., is the butter of the market and table. The ash is but small part of the milk, and consists of a number of substances, which are left behind when the milk is dried down and hurned. There are many, things to influence. the percentage of these various ingredients of milk.
