THE partizans of Senator BLAINE are making desperate efforts to convince the country that his success at Chicago is certain. In politics nothing succeeds so well as success. The average politician wants to be on the winning side. Just now the onslaught is made on General GRANT. He is the lion in the path of all the Presidential candidates. There is great danger that the unscrupulous and super serviceable friends of BLAINE will overdo the business in their efforts to convince the country with the knowledge that all the delegates elected are for their candidate, and all those instructed for GRANT are ready to disobey their instructions. A WORD OF COUNSEL

As the day appointed for the asembling of the Republican National Convention draws near, the exertions THE contested election case of Cuntin of the friends of the prominent candidates increase and the struggle for success waxes warmer and warmer. It would be useless to deuv that they have succeeded, partially, and as the country became quiet and re-assured, the partizans of the several Presidential candidates, became impressed with a reasonable hope of turning the public mind away from GRANT, and the possibility of controlling the Chicago Convention for some other aspirant. The methods employed, have not been exactly such as we could approve of, but perhaps such as might be expected under similar circumstances. What the result will be, remains yet to be seen But what we most desire is to impress upon our readers the necessity for harmony and fraternal action. There is nothing in all this prelimi nary action which should cause feeling of disappointment or give rise to resentments which shall prevent a cordial and enthusiastic support of the Chicago nominee.
