In the heart of the man lies a hidden sigh. An aged man leaned silently, O'er the stream that glides to eternity; He thought of the honest work of years, Of vanished dreams, of unshed tears; "Bear me on, O stream !" said he, "There's a world where rich reward I see." "Little Snow-White."

An Interesting Story for the Children Albert Tschautch, a German painter, is the author of a handsome painting called "Little Snow-White." The story of "Little Snow-White," or as the Germans call her, "Schneewittchen," is that once upon a time a queen sat sewing at her palace window and looking occasionally at the snow falling without. The window frame was of ebony, and as the snow lay on the sill it looked so beautiful that she forgot what she was doing, and presently pricked her finger with the needle. Three drops of blood fell on the snow and it looked so charming that the queen said, "Ah, God! that I had a child as white as snow, as red as blood, and as black as ebony." Such a child was soon born to her, and she died, leaving the little one to the king's care. Soon, however, he married again, and the new queen was so proud of her beauty, that she could not bear the thought that in all the world was one more lovely than she. In her bower was a mirror, to which she would say: " Mirror, mirror on the wall, Fairest am I not of all?" and the mirror would tell her yes. Meanwhile Little Snow-White was growing up, and one day when the queen questioned her mirror it informed her that Little Snow-white was a thousand-fold lovelier than she Filled with rage and anger she gave the little girl into the hands of a woodman, with instructions to kill her. The child's beauty touched him and he let the child run free in the forest, where one day she found a small table arranged for seven persons. She tasted the food and drank a little wine, after which she lay down on one of the seven little beds, and soon was fast asleep. The seven dwarfs who owned the house, and delved for the precious metals in the earth, soon came home, and seeing her beauty let her sleep till morning, when she told her story. They told her she might live with them if she would be their housekeeper. She consented, and the dwarfs were very fond of her. One day the queen consulted her mirror and found that L'Little Snow-White was yet alive. She poisoned an apple and sent it to the child, who took one bite of it and fell deads The dwarfs mourned and carried her on a bier for burial, but the looked so lovely as she lay there, her throat so white, her cheeks so red, and her hair so black that they made a glass coffin and inscribed on it, "She was a king's daughter." This, with the maiden in it, they placed on the mountain, where one day a prince saw it. He wept, and at last induced the dwarfs to let him bear it to his palace. As his followers were carrying it the jostling caused the piece of the poisoned apple to fall out of the maiden's throat, whereupon she rose as well as ever, and married the prince. The

WIT AND DIFFIDENCE.-When the Scotch Professor Aytoun was courting the daughter of Professor Wilson ("Christopher North"), he told her he disliked to mention the subject to her father. She, therefore went to the old man herself, asking "Shall I accept his offer, papa? He says he is too diffident to name the subject to you himself?" "Then, said old Christopher, "I had better

SMYTH'S PATENT DUPLEX GRATE With or without Low Closet, Reservoir, or Ornamental Elevated Shelf.

The Greatest Combination of Valuable Improvements Ever Presented In one Range.

After the flattering experience of the past year, having had a very large and extended sale, we find that the The Ransom Cottage is universally conceded to be the most desirable Range of its class in the market. Its general features are the same as in the celebrated Ransom Range, which has for years been considered the finest Range made. It contains the Patent Expansion Broiling Chamber, which is universally acknowledged to be the only successful and practical brilling attachment in use. It is also furnished with Simyth's Patent Burplex Grate. This celebrated Grate is extremely simple in its construction. It has now been in active use for more than five years, and in view of the judicessful experience of its operation and durability during that time, as well as the highly satisfactory results obtained by justin our ownithorough trail of its qualities, we have no hesitation in pronouncing it the only complete and successful arrangement for removing clinkers and refuse from the tre-box tuntantaneously, thoroughly and cleanly, while the degree of combustion obtained has never, in our opinion, been equaled with any other slyle of grate.

The Rankom Cottage is a thoroughly frateclass Range in all its portions and appointments, while the price inscrimenty low. It is so constructed that it can be changed from a Low Closet to a while the price incriremely low. It is so constructed that it can be changed from a Low Closet to a Single Oval Range, by merely lifting the upper part of the Range from the Low Closet and placing it upon a set of ornatented lega. All sizes can also be furnished with the Ornamental Elevated Shelf. The large Baled Ash Pan is taken out at the end of the Range instead of the front—a much more convenient and cleanly arrangement—and the capacious. Warming Closet extends underneath the whole Range. The Hott Water Reservoir is heated entirely from the bottom, and is of a larger capacity than will be found on my other Range of this class. All the minor details in the construction of this Range have received the closest attention. It has highly burnished ends, nickté-plated knobs of a new and beautiful pattrn, nickté-plated panels, nickte-plated Towel Racks, and the mounting and fittings is in the best style.
