IT is generally conceded that BARNUM "mules" helped the fusionists in Maine, but we had no idea that votes were so expensive in that state, until we read in the Owego Gazette that "the result, however is a Democratic majority of about $1,000 votes." This is a candid admission though the price is probably exaggerated

THE Democrats and Greenbackers of Elmira quarreled a little too soon over the premature reports of a victory in Maine. The exhibition of wrangling be comes the more ridiculous as the Republican triumph becomes certain. The Greenbackers, it seems, remained masters of the situation, and the Democrats were forced to retire, leaving their comrades of the soft-money persuasion to celebrate a victory which never happened
