Dyeing Eyes.—A learned German doctor has discovered a means of lyeing the eyes of animals in general and of men in particular any color he pleases. He is accompanied on his travels of propagation by a dog with a rose-colored eye, a cat with an orange-red eye and a monkeŷ with a chrome-yellow eye. But the most curious specimens of his art are a negro with one black eye and the other blue, and a negress with one "Then why these tears? Strong gold-colored eye and the other silverwhite.
