THE Ohio Republican papers are talk- in purpose. But there was never yet a political majority big enough to carry double in the matter of fools. A few fools are quite necessary to form a background for wise men. In fact, fools are not to be despised, because all our judgments are made up relatively, in politics as in everything else. No man is wholly wise.

A man is wise only as compared with some other man who is more or less unwise beyond the average. Now the exhortation is not to kill all the foolish people, but to keep them in their places by marching them toward the rear and the wiser people toward the front. That is the way to keep a party growing. Keep the unwise in the background or let them struggle out of the line if that suits them better. They can be spared

The Republicans of this county have to select eight competent and deserving persons to be voted for next November to fill all the important county offices. WE agree with one of our exchanges that the question of uniformity in the matter of marriage and divorce in this country is one demanding early and earnest attention. In some of the States the berland valley some thirty miles with a divorce mill has become an institution and is doing its work with amazing rapidity. As a result of this the sanctity of the marriage relation is scoffed at in many places, and society is gangrened by a lax and low grade of morals. Dr. Woolsey, ex-President of Yale College, and a close student of social science, asserts that the number of divorces in the United States is much greater in proportion to the number of marriages than in other countries. In England and Wales, with came infected with the disease, the a population of 24,000,000, there were 800 mouths of the fowls becoming very sore ganize sub-commissions in each of the divorces granted in 1878, while in Massa- and the throats putrid. Is DIPHTHERIA CONTAGIOUS ?-A circumstance occurred recently which proves onclusively that diphtheria is contagious. A few days after the death of a member of a highly respectable family of this city. says the Harrisburg Patriot, a young lady aged eleven years, sister of the victim of the disease, was sent up the Cumview of benefiting the young lady's health. She took sick, however, with diphtheria, receiving the closest medical attention and most careful nursing, but finally succumbed to the disease. While in life and taking nourishment, toasted bread and milk were administered. Her nurse threw all the bits or pieces of toast left over into a receptacle, and it was afterward fed to the chickens about the place. In a few days afterward the chickens be-
