BE ELECTED? Pennsylvania is a Republican State by at least 30,000 majority. No well informed Democrat or anybody else will deny that. General Baily was fairly nominated, by a large majority of a convention regularly called by the Republican party to make a nomination. No one ever has dared to even insinuate that any corrupt means were resorted to by anybody to secure his numination. He is personally above repreach. A man of sober, steady habits, an intelligent and heroic soldier, who rose to official prominence by bravery on the field of battle, a man of the strictest honesty, a comparatively poor man, a mechanic who has earned his living by daily toil, one who would feel abundantly compensated by the salary of five thousand dollars a year which is attached to the office of State Treasurer. The foregoing are facts that no man can successfully deny. If they are facts then is not General Baily fairly entitled to every Republican vote in the State of Pennsylvania? Yes, and he will get the votes of all true Republicans in the Commonwealth. Factionists and soreheads, and disappointed politicians in the Republican party, make up the entire opposition to him in his own party.

THE SAME OLD STORIES.

It is rather amusing than otherwise to note the efforts of the Noble organs to raise a war whoop over the exploded scandal of the "Treasury ring." They have a lively recollection of the campaign of 1877, and they seem to hope that the memory of the people has failed as to all that has transpired since that date. The Treasury having been at that time so long in Republican hands it was difficult to disarm suspicion by denial and the field was ripe for the libeler's harvest. General results indeed could be pointed out which indicated anything but dishonesty. The rate of taxation for State purposes had been reduced, and a large part of the State debt paid off. The answer was that, while such things were well enough so far as they went, much more could have been done. A preceding Democratic Legislature after an exhaustive investigation had published a report in which, for want of better material, they blame the Republican Treasurers for not taking interest on State deposits contrary vestigators was explained upon the ground that they had not a Democratic Treasurer to assist them. The fullest statistics could be cited, but they were met by the allegation that they had been compiled by the "ring." It was a glorious campaign for slanderers, and resulted in the election of Amos C. Noyes, who, judging from his record in the Legislature, ought to have known fraud at sight, if familiarity with crime makes an expert

The result of that victory and of the investigation which followed forms a remarkable chapter in the history of Penn-Mr. Noyes, who had been HAS NO PO elected on the strength of the accusations, no doubt did his best to find evidence to support them, and it has never been pretended that he had not ample opportunity. The organs which had submissively inserted all the matter furnished from - headquarters grew impatient at his long silence, and the politicians who wanted material for the next campaign chided him for his delay. At last he was forced to speak, and like a relucta: t witness, from whom a humiliating admission is ORANGE MASS. forced under oath, hestestified to the stainless purity of several administrations preceding his own whose rottenness he had contracted to lay bare.

The slanderers were silenced for the time being, but now that another Republican holds the office they have taken courage. Their champion and spokesman began his remarkable stumping tour in the good old style, only changing the dates of the old time stories and bringing them within the present administration. He struck the first snag in Governor Hoyt, who turned upon him with a vigor that forced him to look to his support. Finding that he had no evidence to sustain his charges he wisely took them back in detail. Then he struck another snag in Treasurer Butler, of Chester County, who is too well known in this part of the State to be hurt by political libels. Treasurer Butler met the charges and again they were taken back. Now it is said that there certainly must have been fraud somewhere, but it is not to be found in Mr. Butler's administration. Of course. it was not in the time of Mr. Noyes, and if it were there would be a poor argumen for his fellow partisan, Mr. Noble. -This puts the charges back to the ad ministration preceding that of Mr. Noyes which are covered by Mr. Noyes' investigation and report. It is a well known principle of law and common sense that an admission made against the interest of the person making it is in all probability true. The admissions of Mr. Noyes were very much against his interest and he had the most ample means of knowledge.

position of the organs and orators is not position of the organs and their own way out of the dilemma. The spectacle of the reform brigade with the death-bed insurance flag floating in their van, firing bombs that fizzled without bursting four years ago, and have lain and rusted ever since, is not suggestive of serious warfare or of coming defeat for the assailed .--Norristown Herald.

SALE OF A LIBRARY. JAMES MACFARLANE, Esq., has consented to sell his valuable Geological library to the United States for the use of the Government Geological Survey where it 16 much needed. The books consist of a nearly complete set of the official reports upon the State Geological surveys of all the States, the best authorities on the science. Many of the works are very rare, only a small number of copies having been printed, and hence command high prices. Mr. MACFARLANE has been a fortunate collector, having picked them up in the course of his travels during many years. Having done his share of geological work in the publication of his two books-"The Coal Regions of America," and "The Geological Railway Guide," and being offered a very handsome price for his books, to be placed where they would be of the most service to the cause of science, he has packed them up carefully and tenderly, like burying old friends, and shipped them to Washington, consoled by knowing that this special collection of books will be preserved together where it will be added to in all time to come, not to mention the additional consolation of a draft on the United States Treasury. Mr. Macparlane's studies will be hereafter devoted, as they have been for several years past, to the law, his former profesica," and "The Geological Railway years past, to the law, his former profession, and with his/characteristic industry he has planned a work on one of the most important branches of Pennsylvania law, at R. It frequently happens that a person has a very good horse otherways than this very pernicious habit of cribbing—or crib-biting—the cause of which is not very definately settled by the books, as the veterinary practitioners, like all other doctors, disagree. Cribbing is said to be infront about fifteen inches high and for the bottom fit in a nice piece of bard-wood board, or plank. Have no bar or crosspiece at the bottom of the hay rack, but instead, flare off the ends of the slats and screw them on strong to the boarding in the front part of the stall. The time of sowing is not so know of for the stable—having tried important as with cabbage, though if know of for the stable—naving them it myself—is to construct the stall in the following manner: Make the crib, or manger, on the floor instead of three feet higher up, with a plank of three feet higher up, with a plank high and winter without injury. In Central Pennsylvania from the tenth to the twentieth of September is about the proper time. Farther south they should, of course, be sown correspondingly later, about six weeks of growing weather being required to get them in proper shape for winter. the droppings will fall into the man-ger, and not be trodden under foot, and the horse will have nothing to bear his foreteeth upon to suck wind bear his foreteeth upon to suck wind young plants, not being entirely hardy, will not stand our rigorous winters without some protection. In the Southern States fall sowing is carried on more extensively than spring sowger was higher up, and it is thought ing, for the reason that the crop thus by many that this is the best and having an earlier start is more likely to be perfected before the severe drouths of summer, and even in this latitule some of the finest onions we ever saw were from fall-sown seeds. The ground requires the same preparation as for spring sowing, and should the weather not be very moist at the time of sowing, it will be necessary to roll it well in order to
