Communications from this quarter seem to lag. What has become of your correspondents? Did they die with the old year? We trust not. Christmas was celebrated at the Church in a pleasant manner, the house being elegantly decorated for the occasion, and the music was exceptionally fine with the able Mrs. Troxell presiding at the organ. Rev. Mr. Troxell gave an int resting address, and Mr. Oscar Webster read a poem to a crowded house. On the evening of January 3d. Mr. C. II. Pierce and wife had been at the County House to a mite society, and on returning had put up his horse and gone to the house, when he returned to the barn to get some things left in the wagon, and in retaining again to the house, which is some distance, he took a cross-lot direction and when about midway stepped into a slight ditch that caused him to bring the other fost suddenly 'orward to revent a fall; and in doing so stepped on a bit of ice slipping about a foot and striking solid breaking both bones of his right leg near the ankle and one of the bone some inches higher up and below the knee.
