Whereas, Association to effect any purpose of general interest, the public statement of that purpose and stated discussions of its progress, and means of success, seem to be the mode of proceeding most in accordance with the institutions of our country and the habits of the community.

And whereas. No purpose is more worthy of the best efforts of the citizen or the employment of the most effectual measures to give it full effect, than that of the improvement of the Common Schools, which being as it is, the foundation of our whole Educational fabric, is also thus to a great extent the starting point of the improvement, or the reverse, of society.

Therefore, We, Common School Teachers of Adams county, feeling the force of these truths, and the weight of the responsibility resting on us, do resolve:-That we will this day form a permanent County Association of the Teachers and Friends of Education, to meet at least twice in each year. That we heartily approve of Teachers' Institutes and will use our influence to entablish and sustain at least one Teachers' Institute in the year, for mutual improvement in the art of teaching; to continue in session not less than one week and to meet at such time and place as shall be determined by the County Superintendent. That we earnestly recommend to the Teachers of each School District, the formation and frequent meetings of district associations of teachers and friends of Education, at which the parents of the youth in the school shall be especially invited to be present.

That the Chair appoint a committee of five to prepare and submit a constitution for the regulation of a Teachers' Association. This report was received and after some discussion in which Mr. Burrowes of Lancaster, and the Superintendent of Franklin county,

A Melancholy Case.

At St. Louis, on the 1st instant, the body of a well dressed and remarkably handsome man, about 25 years of age, was found lying dead in the street, and on his person was found a letter, in which, after stating that he died by his own bands, he says:

"My name is Francis Henry de Longville, born in Paris, April 4th, 1828. My family was ruined by an extensive speculation in 1849. married one of those girls of whom the world has few, and thought my happiness assured. I quit my native land with my little family in the month of May, and disembarked at New Orleans, July 24, 1854. But alas! having tasted happiness only during fifteen days, a frightful calamity covered me with mourning. My poor beloved wife was attacked with the terrible cholera: after two hours of horrible suffering, she expired. Hardly was she buried when my poor little boy, aged three years, died of the same disease. My despair was very great. But God had still left me a little daughter of thirteen months, whose smile gave me new strength to resist in future, for in this poor little innocent I saw all the sweetness of her beloved mother. I asked nothing more of God than to live for my child.—But God was pleased to strike me again, taking from me the only good was the unhappy day on which I closed the week, forming a brilliant illustrated journal. "bring it along" as soon as they can. We evelids of my last treasure. Having then no consolation left, I resolved to make an end of it. The prediction is based upon the fact that about the same amount of water falls to the earth each year, and as much less than the usual proportion has fallen during the last six months, the balance is to be made up this winter .- Portland Argus.
