Mg. Epiton:-Is it not lamentable, even soul chilling, to read the deplorable details of soul chilling, to read the deplorance actions the late election riots at Louisville, Ky? What the spirit of this their great prototype.

J. L. G. patriot, what lover of his country, what truly American heart but must mourn over such scenes? In the words of the great Webster. in his speech of July 4th, 1851, on the laying of the corner stone of the Capitol extension: "More than all, fellow citizens, if the purposes of fanalies and disunionists should be accomplished, the patriotic and intelligent of our generation would seek to hide themselves from the sourn of the world and go about to find dishonorable graves."

In the "Baltimore Sun" of Aug. 19th, inst.. it is stated that "profound regret was the prevailing sentiment with all who associated with such scenes, a most disastrous violation of the spirit and character of American institutions. The earliest despatch was promptly followed by the declaration that the aggressors in this serious outrage were foreigners,' or in other words, naturalized citizens; for it is hardly to he supposed that 'aliens' were engaged in the affray. The distinction is an important one of course, because the olien or unnaturalized citizen would be an intruder as a participant in the political affairs of the country, and appears as such at his own risk."

Who the aggressors in those disgraceful scenes were, time and impartial truth will develope; but the distinction between naturalized and unnaturalized foreigners as made by one, for it does not appear whether the "foreigners," either German or Irish, or of whatever other foreign country, shot, stabbed, burnt or beaten to death, were naturalized or not, or whether the property burnt or destroyed was that of naturalized or unnaturalized persons. not the case it would in a great measure arrest ceded to "aliens" also in other States. But— by enred, after being 28 years a cripple, and considered beto the distinction made by the "Sun," and yord human aid. to the distinction made by the "Sun," and which it calls an important one, I must in a certain degree deinur. As I have before me a copy of the N. Orleans Picayune, of Aug. 29th, 1853, which agrees with my ideas in an article on this subject, and appears to me to be based on common sense, I shall transcribe it, with some slight additions. In speaking of the affair of Kosta, which made so much noise at the time. and for which Capt. Ingraham was so highly

"We are glad to perceive, from the tone of the Washington press, that there is a strong probability the Administration will take high ground relative to the Kosta affair, and will insist that the actual residence of a foreigner in the United States animo manendi, accompanied with his declaration to become a citizen of this Republic, entitles him at home and abroad to all the rights, immunities and protection of an American citizen. Indeed, we do not see how it is possible for the Umted States, consistently with its own dignity, and the necessity of its position, to entertain a different doctrine. It must be remembered that as affecting a question of this character the United States is peculiarly situated. She invites immigration, and promises to the immigrants the freedom and franchises of American citizens. Thousands and thousands of foreigners have availed themselves of the invitation extended to them, have left the homes of their nativity forever, taken up their permanent residence in this country, renounced all allegiance to foreign governments, and declared their intention of becoming citizens of the Uni-

"Now, before they can become delege citizens of the United States, they must, in obedience the requirements of our local laws, g through certain formalities and pass a sort of probation period. - But, in the meantime, are they not as to all foreign as our own, Governments, citizens de facta of the United States The formalities to be gone through with are prescribed by the local jurisprudence for the purpose of entitling the beneficiaries to certain domestic privileges, as, for instance, that of voting. These formalities do not change the attitude of these inchoate citizens towards foreign governments, having voluntarily left them, and being strictly domestic regulations, which may at any time be abolished at the pleasure of the sovereignty of the country, they are in no manner cognizable by foreign powers or Governments.

"Supposing war were to arise between this and any other country, would not these probationary citizens be liable to the same treatment by our own Government, as liable to military duty and payment of taxes, and at the hands of our beligerants as citizens of full franchise? Would our own or foreign governments discriminate? It certainly could not be expected, and, strictly speaking, would have no right Shall foreigners, after accepting the promises held out to them by our laws, after taking up their residence and casting their lot with us, renouncing all allegiance to foreign governments, and complying with all the requisitions. of our laws, be denied the protection of our government? If these probationary persons are not citizens of the U. States, pray, of what country are they citizens? If the U. States does not protect them at home or abroad, who will protect them? They have renounced all allegiance to other governments, and in accordance with our laws, have in good faith declared their intention to become citizens of this Republic. Shall we not protect them, their persons, property and interests during the period which we ourselves have prescribed as necessary for their instruction in the letter, and their baptism in the spirit of our institutions? For our own part, we can perceive, upon principles of international law, or common sense, no practical distinction to be made, as to protection, on the part of foreign governments, or our own, between a citizen of the U. States in full enjoyment of all its domestic franchises, and a citizen of the U. States in partial enjoyment of Hose franchises. Under the peculiar circumstances, we do not see how the United States can stand honorably before the world, or fulfill its implied engagements towards those who have sought a home for themselves and their children upon its shores, without throwing the quage. (if desired.) agis of its protection over all who have in good faith taken up their residence here with the full and declared intention of becoming citizens Music on the Piano, Harp, or Guitar forms township, deceased.

cle, says, "the political contest has recently affected the type of internecine war. However the fact may be di-guised, we are now passing through an era in which the effort on one hand is to abridge the civil rights and privileges of one portion of the people, to the aggrandizement of mother." This is the distinctive feature of Know Nothingism. Its affected fears for the liberties of this country from foreign influence, and especially from the imputed slavery and subserviency of Roman Catholic citisimply based according to this simple acknowleigment on the effort of Know Nothingism to awridge the civel rights of Roman Catholic natives and foreigners to its own aggrandizement. All the falsehoods, misrepresentations, caricatures, talse colorings of the Catholic religion, its priesthood, ministry, morality, by K. N. ism, and its insolent and inalicious perversion of the truth and abuse of the laity, all tend to this me pant. What then is the daty of the Calibbic entition?
