The Recipe-Book.

The English Mode of Curing Bacon. Americans visiting England are often struck with the superiority of English bacon over our own, particularly that from Wilts and Yorkshire. It is believed that the difference is owing solely to the mode of preparation. We publish the following recipe as furnished by Mr. Browne, of the Agricultural Bureau of the Patent Office. It is worthy of the attention our agricultural readers:

As soon as the bacon comes from the butcher's hands it should have a covering of salt, dried and rolled to a fine powder, well rubbed in with the hand to every part, using the finger to fill every hole and joint, as it is most important that the meat should take the galt when quite fresh. In twelve hours all the brine and damp salt not absorbed should be scraped off the bacon and removed from the vessel, and dry salt added again, as much as needed to cover it, as before, and well rubbed in. This process should be repeated every twelve hours for three days, when saltpetre should be added, getting off previously all the damp salt and brine as before; and applying the saltpetre as the common salt, adding a handful of the latter. A quarter of a pound of saltpetre to a side of bacon weighing seventy pounds is sufficient; then mix one pound of coarse brown sugar, one pound of treacle or molasses, and pour over the saltpetre on the bacon, adding a little more common salt daily for three days, which serves to make the pickle keep well, and the whole liquor should be ladled with a teacup over the bacon as often as convenient, four times a day for the first two weeks after it was first put to the bacon, and then never less than twice a day for the remainder of the time needed for its pickling, which is four weeks, or longer if large bacon; and then it should be sent to the drying house, and smoked over a wood fire."

Birds-Nest Pie .- Take a deep baking tin, and set as many apples in it as will cover the bottom. Pare them and remove the core from one end; make a custard and fill each apple as it is placed in the dish. Then make a thick floor batter, pour over the whole and bake one hour. Serve with sour sauce.

Boiled Pot-Pie .- Take two quarts of apples, pared, cored, and quartered; put them into a pot or kettle, and sprinkle on a little sugar, grated nutmeg, and pour in water enough to boil them. Then make a light saleratus crust and roll one inch thick, of the size of the kettle, and lay it on the apples, boil three-fourths of an hour, without cessation. Prepare the sauce in the same way as for pie above.

Potato Yeast.—Pare, boil and mash smooth twelve potatoss; stir into these one large cup of sugar and one quart of boiling water; when cool add one quart of cold water, and half a about twelve hours, when it will be ready for use. Shake it carefully before using; always reserve a small quantity of old yeast for raising the new. Bread or cakes made with this yeast never need saleratus, and will raise quickly. I trust housekeepers generally will try this, and dispense with the unwholesome article of saleratus.

Soft Gingerbread.—One cup of butter; two of molasses; one of milk; three eggs; one table-spoonful of saleratus; beat it well, and bake it in a quick oven.

To Stop Potato-Rotting.

An experienced agriculturist informs us that about six-years ago he applied slaked lime to potatoes that were partly rotten, and plied, remained as they were, the progress of the rot being stopped, while potatoes to which were lost. Since then he has made it a practice to apply slaked lime to his potatoes as he takes them up. He puts a thin layer of lime upon the floor where the potatoes are to tatoes-about every ten inches, as they are put down. He considers this as perfectly protecting them from rotting, as he has never had a rotten potato since he has practiced it, and he
