KIND PATRONS

The ever moving wheel has turned. And brought another year; The past has gone—forever gone,

All hail, then, to the present year, May it bear hope, and joy, To all our Patrons, far and near, True bliss without alloy.

Few things of note have happened since We last our greetings brought, And all we have to tell you now,

Our Ship of State still rides the waves, Despite the stormy weather,— The reason why is easy told:

Pirates have hung upon her track, And held false lights in view-They can't seduce her from her course,

She's far beyond them all— Sons of the Sires, nor any name, CAN TEMPT HER TO HER FALL.

But let us come now nearer home, And see what has been done, What game have we been playing HERE, Who's lost? And who has won?

Our glorious State has raised her voice, And settled all dispute— She thundered out in tones most plain, "Proscription here wont suit."

Old Adams, too, has wakened up, (Still nearer yet to come,) And was in earnest when she said,

But let- us talk of something else, This topic might grow stale, Our wish now is to see you all, . ___ "A ridin' on a rail."

You know the Road will now be made, It's track is near marked out, And soon we'll see the Iron-Horse; Tis true—beyond a doubt.

"Sam's men must stay at home,"

We might have had it long ago, If we had only pleased— This verse runs hard, hold on a bit, Until our engine's greased.

* * * "Penelope's" gone; yet we can say, She served us long and well, And in her 50 years of use, Had much good news to tell.

"SAM's" friends rejoiced when "NELLY" died, And thought he'd take full sway, But "NELLY ANN" came on the ground, Prepared to win the day.

We brought her in, in noble style, With sound of fife and drum, Four gallant greys HER carriage drew,— "Sam's" boys looked mighty glum.

The "Tape-worm" heard her first report, A sound of thousand tongues, To make a noise but half so loud, Would split "Sam's" mon lungs.

We always have been on the ground, When duty called us there; Thus, let our men in future act, And we have naught to fear.

And now, kind friends, we part again, But one thing more I'll say, Again, TO ALL A HAPPY YEAR!-BUT DON'T FORGET MY PAY.
