murder in the Miami county court. Mrs. Ruggin poisoned her husband, and confessed the crime in the presence of two hundred persons -so stated by the correspondent-and yet, by the sagneity and ability of her counsel, she was cleared of the horrible crime. It appears that she had for a long time entertained the idea of getting rid of her husband, who was an excellent person, that she might marry a fellow whose appearance was very digusting. She purchased arsenic, and after two attempts succeeded in killing him with it. She was cleared, because, her testimony being ruled out, the evidence was of a circumstantial character, which could not warrant conviction.-
