

COMPILER.

Local Matters.

BLANK DEEDS—beautifully printed, on the very best of paper, can always be had at the Compiler's office. Also, a general variety of Blanks.

MAP OF THE COUNTY.—The attention of the public is directed to the Card of Mr. CONVERSE, in to-day's paper, announcing the early completion of the new Map of Adams county. The Map has been prepared with great care from actual surveys, and will show all the roads, post offices, mills, churches, dwellings, &c. This county is now being canvassed to correct any errors that may be detected, and procure subscribers. The Map will be a very desirable one, and ought to command a very general sale in the county. It has long been wanted.

MISSING.—A friend in Reading township informs us that ABRAHAM KITCHEN, of that neighborhood, has been missing since the last day of December, and that serious apprehensions for his safety are entertained. Being of intemperate habits, it is feared that he perished from the intense cold; and during the thaw the neighborhood was hunted over, but without finding him. The snow drifts, however, prevented a thorough search.

FARMS SOLD.—Mr. John McMaster recently sold his farm, 111 acres, on the line of the Railroad, in Mountpleasant township, to Mr. Joseph Herman, for the round sum of $5,000. Some six years ago Mr. McMaster purchased the property for about $3,000.—So much for the Railroad.

Mr. Samuel F. Neely, of Straban township, has purchased Judge Watts' farm, 110 acres, near Carlisle, for $11,000—$100 per acre.—We understand that Mr. Neely has disposed of the one he now resides on, to Mr. John G. Gilbert, of the neighborhood of New Chester.

THE RAILROAD.—In passing along a part of the line of the Railroad, the other day, we were struck with the handsome progress made in the grading and bridging, and particularly so when taking the character of the work into consideration. It is much heavier than we had any idea of. The road, however, has been carefully located, and the work is being well done. The bridges especially are objects of complimentary remark. The whole, we think, reflects much credit upon the contractors, Messrs. IRWIN & TAYLOR.

SINGULAR.—On Yesterday morning a week, four Sheep were found imbedded in a snow-drift near Heidersburg, three of them alive and one dead. The Sheep must have been there ever since the snow storm of Jan. 18—a period of three weeks. The only thing upon which they could have subsisted was the moss on some stones, and the bark of a white-oak tree, by the side of which they lay.

ANOTHER SNAKE!—The Hanover Gazette says that Mr. James F. Hull, of Mauthem township, York county, on Thursday week, killed a Black Snake measuring three feet eight inches in length.

TARGET-FIRING.—The "Independent Blues" will have a target firing on the 21st inst., upon which occasion the medal, presented to the company by Col. Samson, will be awarded to the "best shot."

HOPS.—A Grand Hop is to come off at the Mountain and Valley House, in Emmitsburg, on Wednesday evening next.

This (Monday) evening a Cotillion Party will take place at McConaughy's Hall, in this borough.

Miscellaneous Enigma. I am composed of 11 letters. My 1 10 5 6 is a military command. 2 4 6 is the goddess of mischief. 3 2 4 5 is sometimes delayed. 4 11 is a proposition. 5 4 7 8 is a ferocious beast. 6 10 14 is sometimes used for fuel. 7 4 5 is used for various purposes. 8 7 6 is an adverb. 9 4 6 is a small portion. 10 8 6 is an insect. 11 4 1 4 5 is the Latin word for nothing. My whole is a township in Adams county.

Answer to last week's Enigma—"The Railroad."

Answer to last week's Puzzle—"Tyler."

Mr. Editor:—I noticed an article in the Compiler of the 9th inst., in reference to the irregularity of the mails on the Mauthem route, written by "A Sufferer," of that place. It has been my intention to say something for some time past concerning the unpardonable irregularity of the mail at Hunterstown also, both roads being under the control of the same contractor.

The time appointed in the contract for the arrival of the mail at Hunterstown is 9 o'clock in the morning. Consequently people often arrive in town from the county, and wait until near the middle of the day, only to be sent away disappointed, without their letters and papers, and then, about 4 or 5 o'clock, P. M., the mail comes along. Some days we also have none at all, making things very annoying to those from a distance who arrive in town and expect to take with them the news. I hope a word to the wise will prove sufficient, and not compel the citizens to take further and more severe steps.

Yours, &c. REGULATOR.

A Frightful Ride.—At Franklinville, Cumberland county, Md., the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad passes along the side of a precipitous mountain, at the base of which, more than two hundred feet below the road, runs Crabtree creek. A few nights since one of the locomotives of a burden train, just as it reached this place, broke a flange, and bounding detached from the train, dashed down the mountain, carrying with it the engineer and fireman, and bringing up, all safe, in the creek. The engineer says he wouldn't do it again for a new hat!

"Sal," said one girl to another, "I am glad I have no beau now." "Why so?" asked the other. "Oh, cause I can eat as many onions as I please."

From the Hanover Gazette.

The Gettysburg and Hanover Railroad is progressing but slowly. The reason that the work has not been pushed with more vigor is the limited supply of "the sinews of war"—money. According to the articles of subscription the instalments are only payable at long intervals, and as usual many stockholders are after time, hanging fire. The Company will have "to follow in the footsteps" of other similar corporations and borrow the money. The Directors are however very unwilling to submit to the operation of being "fleece and skinned at the same time," that is, taking seventy-six dollars and giving Bonds for one hundred, bearing six per cent. interest. The object aimed at by them I understand, is to obtain a guaranty from the County Commissioners, sanctioned by Act of Assembly, for regular payment of the interest. It is to be hoped success may attend them. The money expended heretofore has been applied discreetly, with economy and sound judgment. It would be worth while for many of the citizens of Hanover and vicinity, who during the past five years have on all occasions proclaimed "that Adams county was too poor even to construct a Railroad," to select some favorable day when the ground is dry and settled, and take a view of the work. It will be found to compare favorably with most and to surpass that of many other roads. The masonry of the bridges, culverts, &c., is so built that the first view will impress the spectator with an assurance of durability. The unmistakable aim carried out was permanency: as the "county is poor," the Managers wisely determined to follow up a system somewhat akin to that daily incited by the writer's Irish schoolmaster—"That a thing worth doing, is worth doing well." This governing principle ensured so careful an expenditure of the funds, that the work executed, in common parlance, speaks for itself. Consequently the progress has been very slow, somewhat discouraging to its friends and for a time elating its enemies. But this delay like many other deferred undertakings, has some minor advantages which will ultimately add to the solidity of the road by the firm settling of the embankments and the addition of precautionary work; avoiding hereafter many costly, lavish and imprudent expenditures which other Companies, proud at the time of building, now must put down on their ledgers among the items of burnt fingers, caused by precipitancy and permitting designing selfish Contractors to take the advantage of an eagle and dupe them.

It would be impossible at this time to attempt stating what kind of a road the Gettysburg and Hanover Railway may prove to be until finished and worked, because there are no Prophets now-a-days; but it will not be incurring great hazard to assert, that on the entire route there will not be found so acute a curve as the Hanover Branch has at the terminus and junction, where half an hour's strenuous effort is sometimes required before the Locomotive can drag away the up train. It will not have on its line such a frail shackling looking Trestle-Bridge as the one stuck-up below Leit's mill—endangering the lives and limbs of passengers and which must from the rapid decay and disintegration of material and soil break down with a heavy train, impose losses on the Company such as the Northern Central road has repeatedly met with during the past disastrous two years, and bring the Hanover road with its present cheering prospects of liquidation of indebted debt and remunerating revenue to the brink of bankruptcy. Further, the Gettysburg road will not have on its route an "inclined plane," a grade so steep and so course-provoking to the Engineer as now exists below Smith's Station, to take up one or two "Ten Cent" passengers, to the halt is inevitably followed by a war of not of dominions, set one of powers, steam engines, and "Greek meeting Greek" leaves it long doubtful on which side victory inclines, to the serious alarm of the nervous, until after much puffing and panting the engine conquers. And yet further, the route of the Gettysburg road, not laid out by a silk stocking Engineer, but by a practical self-made man in cow leather boots, will complete favorably with the best, and will not have so long and steep a grade, an acclivous slope commencing on the Western side of Hershey's Mill-race until it reaches the Common; heretofore often compelling the Locomotive to stop and generate more steam to ascend it, giving the Passengers in pleasant Summer weather a fine chance to get out and creep back in hand walk through "Fifth Avenue," vulgarly called "Pigeon Street," and view the improvements, which many availed themselves of.

Some of the fatuous opponents of the Gettysburg road, who on every occasion in Barrooms, Oyster Cellars and Pig-nut and Mint-stick Saloons, during the past four years unmercifully ridiculed the understanding of the Adams county people for even thinking of constructing a Railroad, and invariably pleading the poverty of the County as an insuperable bar to the undertaking; forgetting if they ever knew the fact, that the poor Buckwheat county of Adams furnished Twenty thousand dollars to aid in the construction of the Hanover Branch Railroad.—But Hanover like favors and kind acts are invariably written in sand. Many of these idle rapid declaimers could well remember the jibes and jeers awaiting Hanoverians coming to York some years back and the stereotyped question, "Did you come down on the Railroad?" assailing them in every corner.

But there are, as Philosopher Square in Tom Jones observes, only three classes of people in the world. Those who earn by the experience of others, a second class who learn by their own experience, and a third and incorrigible class, who neither learn by their own experience nor that of others. I leave the moral to the reader.

STOCKHOLDER IN BOTH ROADS. Mr. Wm. Riddon, of Minton, Canada, was frozen to death at his own door. He attended the election at Harrison on that day, and on returning home found the door locked, his wife being gone to a neighbor's house, and it is supposed he sat down to await her return. Mrs. R. however, not expecting him to return that evening remained at her son's house over night, and on proceeding early in the morning found her husband lying at the door a corpse.

Moses Shepard, Esq., of Baltimore, retired merchant, died in that city on Sunday morning. He left $600,000 to found an usurious asylum.

A CAPITAL IDEA.—Captain Hartstein, in his letter to the Ship Owners' Association of Liverpool, said, in speaking of the Ocean Steamers: "The iron men of a company like steam shuttles, weaving between a fabric of mutual interest, and he might have added, like those real practical statesmen which weave splendid broad cloths to be made into garments at the House of Clothing and of Bookhall & Wilson, Nos. 295 and 297, Cheapside Street, Philadelphia."

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—External injuries, as well as internal diseases, may be truly said to have their seat in the blood. The Ointment of Holloway's Ointment. The worst burns, burns and scalds, the scalded flesh wounds, and the most dangerous fractures, are treated with success by the Ointment of Holloway's Ointment of London and Paris. The directions for its use are contained in the enclosed papers, and are so plain, that even a child can use it. The Ointment is sold by all the principal Druggists and Dealers in the United States and the civilized world, in boxes at 25 cents, 62 cents, and $1 each.

There is a considerable saving by taking the larger sizes.

N. B.—Directions for the guidance of patients in every disorder are affixed to each box.

Health or Sickness?

CHOOSE BETWEEN THEM. Holloway's Pills.—The blood furnishes the material of every bone, muscle, gland and fibre in the human frame. When pure, it secures health to every organ; when corrupt, it necessarily produces disease. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS operate directly upon the elements of the stream of life, neutralizing the principle of disease, and thus radically curing the malady, whether located in the nerves, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, the muscles, the skin, the brain, or any other part of the system.

Used Throughout the World.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS are equally efficacious in complaints common to the whole human race, and in disorders peculiar to certain climates and localities.

Alarmingly Disorders.

Dyspepsia, and derangement of the liver, the source of infirmity and suffering, and the cause of innumerable deaths, yield to these curatives in all cases, however aggravated, acting as a mild purgative, alterative and tonic; they relieve the bowels, purify the fluids, and invigorate the system and the constitution at the same time.

General Weakness—Nervous Complaints.

When all stimulants fail, the renovating and bracing properties of these Pills give firmness to the shaking nerves and enfeebled muscles of the victim of general debility.

Delicate Females.

All irregularities and ailments incident to the delicate and sensitive organs of the sex are removed or prevented by a few doses of these mild, but infallible alteratives. No mother who regards her own or her children's health should fail to have them within her reach.
