Retaliation—Colonel Montgomery's Proceedings Explained.

The destruction of private property by Colonel Montgomery in his recent raid in Georgia, Florida and South Carolina, has been made the subject of much misadversion, not only by the rebel-sympathizing journals, which would naturally feel acutely for their friends—but also by several journals, whose conduct was wholly dictated by a regard for the honor of our flag, which ought not to sanction any proceeding contrary to the well-established and generally recognized laws and usages of civilized warfare.

Was our Land and Sea. Montgomery was dunned by the troops under Col. Montgomery. It was not the good ship Jacob Bell, but the little fishing schooner which were seen in flames yesterday off the Massachusetts coast, with a rebel ship lying near to insure their destruction, and the houses of Darwin were private property, not the good ship Jacob Bell.

Of course no subordinate officer has the right to order acts of retaliation. That belongs to the government, or to the general-in-chief of the armies. But when the order is given, the subordinate who carries it into effect is protected by it. Retaliation in war is like reprisals during peace.

A formidable iron-clad ordered to sea. The New York Evening Post, of Wednesday, says: "The harbor battery of New York, the iron-clad frigate Beane, went in commission to-day for sea service."

CONFEDERATE MONEY is selling in Nassau at four cents on the dollar, and some transactions have been made at even lower figures. "Sooner or later," says a letter from Nassau merchant, himself a Confederate, "I am confident Confederate money will not be worth the paper it is made on."

A REBEL PRIZE ON THE NEW ENGLAND COAST.—By counting up the number of vessels captured and destroyed by the rebel privateers—all reported from different parts of the New England coast within twenty-four hours—we find that she has captured the Isaac Webb and burned thirteen. A United States steamer has been sent to look after her.

THE TORONTO LEADER says it has authority for stating that the Atlantic Telegraph will be commenced at once. Over $1,000,000 in the amount required has been subscribed in England and America.

Banquet to Gen. Meagher.

One evening last week about two hundred of the personal friends of this gallant Irish soldier, gave him a banquet at the Astor House, New York. Mayor Orourke, Throulow Webb, James T. Brady, Judge Daly, and many other distinguished men were present.

The Chairman then introduced General Thomas Francis Meagher, and in concluding presented him with a magnificent designed gold medal, upon which is inscribed the names of all the battles in which the Irish Brigade was engaged.

Gen. Meagher, in reference to the gallant midland officers, and made an eloquent speech, in the course of which he paid a high tribute to the Irish Brigade, complimenting the men for their services in aiding to put down the rebellion, and restoring the career of Irish soldiers on every battle-field in Europe.

The Secession Element in Baltimore

—How the Fious Rebels Behave at Prayers. A correspondent of the Philadelphia Press writes that in the churches of Baltimore many persons remain at the doors of the churches on Sunday until the prayers for the President have been recited. He adds: "It is an informed source that it is no uncommon thing for worshippers either to go during the recital of these prayers, or to show their contempt by refusing to assume the devotional attitude which various denominations adopt as peculiar to prayer. On Sunday I visited the great Cathedral of Archbishop Kenrick, not because of any expectation to witness a demonstration such as I speak of, but merely through curiosity, having remembered that he is a Catholic. The Archbishop, Baltimore comprises principally the congregation of the Cathedral. It may be stated that the archdiocese of Baltimore includes all of Virginia as well as Maryland, and the city of Richmond is as much his home as the city of Baltimore.

No diabolical sentiment or sympathy has ever been imputed to Bishop Kenrick. On the contrary, he is known to give the government the hearty support, and it is not frequently expressed publicly, that it is a sympathy for the rebellion has never been expressed as that he is ostentatious in an anomalous position, and as a faithful shepherd over a loyal and disloyal flock. He never neglects, however, to recite the prayer for the Union, and to sing the national anthem, and to recite the prayer for the Union, and to sing the national anthem, and to recite the prayer for the Union, and to sing the national anthem.

"On Sunday this venerable old man preached at the Cathedral. He was full dressed in the holding of his office, his head gray with years, but his voice and manner bearing all the vigor of his early manhood. He prayed for the Union, and to sing the national anthem, and to recite the prayer for the Union, and to sing the national anthem, and to recite the prayer for the Union, and to sing the national anthem.

"The voice of the Archbishop continued, and that they were the prayers for the Union, and to sing the national anthem, and to recite the prayer for the Union, and to sing the national anthem, and to recite the prayer for the Union, and to sing the national anthem, and to recite the prayer for the Union, and to sing the national anthem.

"The Archbishop continued, and that they were the prayers for the Union, and to sing the national anthem, and to recite the prayer for the Union, and to sing the national anthem, and to recite the prayer for the Union, and to sing the national anthem, and to recite the prayer for the Union, and to sing the national anthem.
