

Pittsburgh Gazette.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 17.

Union County Ticket.

For President Judge of the District Court. MOSES HANFORD.

First Prizes.

Well, the teachings of the World, and David, and Daily News are beginning to yield their legitimate fruits in the works of their disciples of the Five Points.

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

This letter had been submitted by Admiral Foote to the President and his Cabinet all of whom read it with much satisfaction; but he hesitated to communicate it to the public.

It is possible that you can meet another lesson? Must you burn, your friends, before you can make up your mind to put your incendiary newspapers into the fire?

And Saratoga, too, the apostle of liberty, who stood so bravely pledged to protect the people of New York against the tyranny of the General Government, how feeble and timid he is in the presence of his own hands.

With him was the crisis—the turning point in his history—is just now reaching, and we wait, not anxiously, but confidently, to hear whether the Government is equal to the occasion.

Our rulers should prove so weak as to give our hands to the Government, if it should sink in such an extremity, with so many millions ready to rally to its support!

to take shelter in Richmond. It is enough that he should have allowed them to cross the river, and make a clean thing of it, without knowing a word about it until afterwards.

The dispatch sent by the Associated Press agent in New York, yesterday, stating that "the retreat of Lee now becomes a certainty."

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

This letter had been submitted by Admiral Foote to the President and his Cabinet all of whom read it with much satisfaction; but he hesitated to communicate it to the public.

It is possible that you can meet another lesson? Must you burn, your friends, before you can make up your mind to put your incendiary newspapers into the fire?

And Saratoga, too, the apostle of liberty, who stood so bravely pledged to protect the people of New York against the tyranny of the General Government, how feeble and timid he is in the presence of his own hands.

With him was the crisis—the turning point in his history—is just now reaching, and we wait, not anxiously, but confidently, to hear whether the Government is equal to the occasion.

Our rulers should prove so weak as to give our hands to the Government, if it should sink in such an extremity, with so many millions ready to rally to its support!

Parasit of Lee. The newspaper correspondents are already preparing excuses for an obviously expected failure on the part of Gen. Meade to pursue the retreating rebels.

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

This letter had been submitted by Admiral Foote to the President and his Cabinet all of whom read it with much satisfaction; but he hesitated to communicate it to the public.

It is possible that you can meet another lesson? Must you burn, your friends, before you can make up your mind to put your incendiary newspapers into the fire?

And Saratoga, too, the apostle of liberty, who stood so bravely pledged to protect the people of New York against the tyranny of the General Government, how feeble and timid he is in the presence of his own hands.

With him was the crisis—the turning point in his history—is just now reaching, and we wait, not anxiously, but confidently, to hear whether the Government is equal to the occasion.

Our rulers should prove so weak as to give our hands to the Government, if it should sink in such an extremity, with so many millions ready to rally to its support!

Parasit of Lee. The newspaper correspondents are already preparing excuses for an obviously expected failure on the part of Gen. Meade to pursue the retreating rebels.

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

This letter had been submitted by Admiral Foote to the President and his Cabinet all of whom read it with much satisfaction; but he hesitated to communicate it to the public.

It is possible that you can meet another lesson? Must you burn, your friends, before you can make up your mind to put your incendiary newspapers into the fire?

And Saratoga, too, the apostle of liberty, who stood so bravely pledged to protect the people of New York against the tyranny of the General Government, how feeble and timid he is in the presence of his own hands.

With him was the crisis—the turning point in his history—is just now reaching, and we wait, not anxiously, but confidently, to hear whether the Government is equal to the occasion.

Our rulers should prove so weak as to give our hands to the Government, if it should sink in such an extremity, with so many millions ready to rally to its support!

Parasit of Lee. The newspaper correspondents are already preparing excuses for an obviously expected failure on the part of Gen. Meade to pursue the retreating rebels.

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

This letter had been submitted by Admiral Foote to the President and his Cabinet all of whom read it with much satisfaction; but he hesitated to communicate it to the public.

It is possible that you can meet another lesson? Must you burn, your friends, before you can make up your mind to put your incendiary newspapers into the fire?

And Saratoga, too, the apostle of liberty, who stood so bravely pledged to protect the people of New York against the tyranny of the General Government, how feeble and timid he is in the presence of his own hands.

With him was the crisis—the turning point in his history—is just now reaching, and we wait, not anxiously, but confidently, to hear whether the Government is equal to the occasion.

Our rulers should prove so weak as to give our hands to the Government, if it should sink in such an extremity, with so many millions ready to rally to its support!

Parasit of Lee. The newspaper correspondents are already preparing excuses for an obviously expected failure on the part of Gen. Meade to pursue the retreating rebels.

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

This letter had been submitted by Admiral Foote to the President and his Cabinet all of whom read it with much satisfaction; but he hesitated to communicate it to the public.

It is possible that you can meet another lesson? Must you burn, your friends, before you can make up your mind to put your incendiary newspapers into the fire?

And Saratoga, too, the apostle of liberty, who stood so bravely pledged to protect the people of New York against the tyranny of the General Government, how feeble and timid he is in the presence of his own hands.

With him was the crisis—the turning point in his history—is just now reaching, and we wait, not anxiously, but confidently, to hear whether the Government is equal to the occasion.

Our rulers should prove so weak as to give our hands to the Government, if it should sink in such an extremity, with so many millions ready to rally to its support!

Parasit of Lee. The newspaper correspondents are already preparing excuses for an obviously expected failure on the part of Gen. Meade to pursue the retreating rebels.

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

This letter had been submitted by Admiral Foote to the President and his Cabinet all of whom read it with much satisfaction; but he hesitated to communicate it to the public.

It is possible that you can meet another lesson? Must you burn, your friends, before you can make up your mind to put your incendiary newspapers into the fire?

And Saratoga, too, the apostle of liberty, who stood so bravely pledged to protect the people of New York against the tyranny of the General Government, how feeble and timid he is in the presence of his own hands.

With him was the crisis—the turning point in his history—is just now reaching, and we wait, not anxiously, but confidently, to hear whether the Government is equal to the occasion.

Our rulers should prove so weak as to give our hands to the Government, if it should sink in such an extremity, with so many millions ready to rally to its support!

Parasit of Lee. The newspaper correspondents are already preparing excuses for an obviously expected failure on the part of Gen. Meade to pursue the retreating rebels.

It is well known that Admiral Foote was in the habit of receiving letters from the second of King of Sheem with whom he became acquainted when in command of our fleet in the King's waters.

It is interesting to read such generous words of sympathy from a foreign source. No such words were ever sent to England or France; but they are entitled.

Union County Ticket.

First Prizes.

Public Notices.

New Advertisements.

Dry Goods.

Dry Goods.

Bargains in Embroideries.

Union County Ticket.

First Prizes.

Public Notices.

New Advertisements.

Dry Goods.

Dry Goods.

Bargains in Embroideries.