Pittsburgh Gazette.

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 21

The Union State Convention.

In accordance appointed, the Union State Convention was to meet in this city on the 1st of July, but owing to the fact that many of the delegates were at that time absent in the service of their country, aiding to drive the rebel invaders from the State, the Central Committee held a meeting in Philadelphia, on Wednesday, June 24th, and calling P. FRAZER SMITH, Esq., to the Chair, (General MARKLE being unavoidably absent,) passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That in the present emergency, while many delegates to the Union State Convention are engaged in military service, and cannot be present at the meeting appointed to be held at Pittsburgh, on the 1st of July next, it is deemed expedient to postpone the Convention until Wednesday, the 5th day of August next, at 11 o'clock a. m., and it is hereby postponed until that time.

P. FRAZER SMITH,
Chairman pro tem.
GEO. W. HAMERSLY, Secretary.
PHILADELPHIA, June 24, 1863.

In accordance with this resolution the Convention will assemble in this city on the day above named, and will hold its meetings in Concert Hall, which has been engaged for that purpose by the Committee of arrangements.

The Curtin Newspapers.

The Lancaster Examiner compliments us with the remark that we are "engaged in the dirty work of carrying out the principles of our favorite candidate, in our denunciation of Governor CURTIN"—says that we "quote largely from a certain Investigating Report," which was made up on the principle "of running the machine over our enemy"—characterizes our statements as therefore "slanders"—and kindly informs us that his renomination is "a foregone conclusion," although the Harrisburg Telegraph objects to our articles on the ground that he is no candidate at all.

Waiving all objection to the delicacy of the Examiner's criticising, which may be the effect of bad education or bad company—we beg to say, in the first place, that we have no "favorite candidate;" that it cannot be shown that we have ever named any individual, or the proper man for the place.

Secondly, that we have not quoted from the report of the Investigating Committee at all, and only complained, that instead of "running the machine over our enemy," it had been so managed as to run the machine entirely around him.

Third, that what it calls slanders are the record evidence of official acts which it knows to be true, and dares not deny—which it has carefully concealed from its readers, in utter forgetfulness of its obligations to truth and conscience to them and to the country—and which, if known, as they ought to be, to the honest voters of Lancaster county, would leave him without a supporter amongst them—even though the usual sense of the Examiner may have been so twisted and hardened as to make it insensible to moral turpitude, or it may not be sufficiently informed itself to know the legal aspects of the case which it ignores. If it will republish the message in relation to the suppressed document, with the Auditor General's Report, and the testimony of the Hon. S. A. PURVIANCE, we shall be satisfied to leave the case to be settled between its readers and itself.

We are obliged to it, however, for the information that the nomination of Governor CURTIN is a "foregone conclusion." This assumes that the Convention will be packed with either knaves or ignoramuses, which we will not believe until we see it. We doubt, however, whether they can find a sufficient number bold enough and desperate enough for such a venture. They will remember, we think, that it takes two parties to make a bargain; that there's such a thing as "reckoning without one's host;" and that these "foregone conclusions" men will run the risk of ruining themselves, if they attempt it to play off a game of that sort upon the people.

The Crawford Journal also compliments us, though in a somewhat gentler style. It says that our present attitude towards CURTIN is certainly calculated to have a pernicious effect—that in the event of his nomination we are only furnishing ammunition for the enemy—that the true policy is not to assail any of the numerous good candidates—that it may be the interest of a knot of politicians here to disparage Gov. CURTIN, but that his friends will not see him tradooced with indifference—that in that region, loyal men are almost unanimous in his favor—that he will beat any body else—that it is important to avoid discord—that the personal enemies of the Governor would do well to withhold their abuse—and that we can surely find some more creditable duty than to do the work of the Copperhead Press in advance.

To all this we answer—

First—That the effect of our policy may be pernicious to CURTIN, but must result, if successful, in the salvation of the party which he has betrayed and done so much to destroy.

Second—That the ammunition which we have furnished is from the public record, where it has been always equally accessible to the enemy, who will use it, of course, as soon as we furnish them with the occasion.

Third—That we have assailed none of the numerous good candidates, and are willing to take any of them, who may be selected.

Fourth—That the "knot of politicians" whose interest it is supposed to be to assail the Governor, is the whole people of Allegheny county, whose interest it is to save the country, by putting such man as him out of the way.

Fifth—That, if telling unquestionable truths, that people ought to know about a candidate, is traducing him, and his friends cannot see it with indifference, we are sorry for his friends, as well as himself, and would rather that they would look up some other party more adapted to their tastes and morals than ours.

Sixth—That if the loyal people of that region are almost unanimous in his favor, it is either conclusive evidence that the Journal has failed to perform its duty to them, by advising them of what we have a right to know, or that they don't care whether the candidate is an honest man or not. We do not think so ill of the people there as to believe the latter, notwithstanding the left-handed compliment paid to them by the Journal.

Seventh—That we are not the personal enemies of the Governor, and would not feel at liberty to use our paper to blow on such grounds, even if we were. When we assign sufficient public reasons for our course, it ought to be enough—even with those who do not seem to have any idea of a loftier motive than personality. But if telling the truth of the Governor is necessarily abuse, the fault is with the doer, and not with the relater, unless on the principle that "the greater the truth the greater the libel."

Eighth—If we are "doing the work of the Copperheads in advance," is it not wise to forestall them? Why wait until they shall do it themselves, to our prejudice, when we can take the wind out of their sails, by shelving the Governor? It is such papers as the Journal that are doing the work of the Copperheads. If its editors will look into the Pittsburgh Post they will find that they are in full sympathy with it on this question—equally concerned about our malevolence—and equally assured that we have no candidate so strong as CURTIN.

P. S. The Lancaster Evening Journal comes at us also with open mouth and foaming jaws, and other indications of something like canine madness. We have no space, unfortunately, for it, but if it will read what we have written, and republish the official documents referred to, with the addition of the shoddy report by the Governor's own Committee, in relation to the "Soldiers' Friend," we shall be content to turn it over also to the guardianship of its own readers.

Law and Ethnology.

We have just read in the Tribune a very sensible letter from the Hon. A. M. WHITING, Solicitor of the War Department, to the Fremont League, of New York, in relation to the value of negro troops. We found occasion to complain, a few days ago, of the opinion, as we supposed, of the same gentleman, that the negro was not the "military equivalent of the white man—only because he was a cheaper soldier—and that he could not be taken therefore as a substitute. We note in this letter the following passage, which seems to be a little at war with the opinion referred to:

"But now, while colored men are admitted to be citizens of several of the Northern States, and of the United States, and since the Conscription Act makes no distinction between white and colored citizens, but requires them equally to be enrolled and drafted in the forces of the United States, there seems to be no reason why such citizens should not, when volunteering to serve the country, be placed upon the same footing with other soldiers as regards their pay and bounty."

It is here admitted that the Conscription Act makes no distinction as to duty, and therefore, very logically claimed that Congress ought to make none as to pay. We cannot see how ever why the law-advisers of the Government, entertaining these views, should seize upon an improper distinction as to pay, as a reason for setting up a constructive distinction as to duty, where the law, by their own confession, makes none at all.

We feel tempted, however, to inquire of the Solicitor of the War Department, who seems to be read in ancient history, how he came to discover that Hannibal was a negro—or if he prefers it, a "colored man." We know that such an impression has prevailed a long time among our sable brethren here, from the fact that they have paraded a fine company, called "the Hannibal Guards." According to our readings however—and the Solicitor has certainly encountered the story of Dido—the Carthaginians were a Phœnician Colony, and we are not sure, with our ethnology a little rusted, whether of the Aryan or Semitic family—but in all probability nearly as white, and certainly as straight haired as ourselves.

The solicitor refers also to the agency of the slave in the battle of Marathon. That is germain certainly, as to social condition, but if intended to illustrate the question of cuticle, is quite as far from the truth as the other. The slaves of the Greeks, like those of the Hebrews and Romans, were all of "the superior race," which, according to Southern ideas, was "born to command" without regard to complexion, provided, only, there was no unfortunate kink and no suspicion of wool in the capillary vesture.

We have never doubted, however, as to the courage of the black man. Animal courage is a much more common quality than the moral article. All races of men are naturally brave and pugnacious, and none more indifferent to life than the negro. It is only Democratic politicians, who strangely illustrate their principles by the denial of the natural equality of men, and the dunces who listen to them and believe, that have ever questioned the sufficiency of the black man for that employment, which, of all others, can best dispense with the exercise of the reasoning faculty. But the leaders knew better. They felt that the thing was over, with the black man thrown into our scale, and they preferred to throw away white men, as long as they were drawn from the Republican ranks, and there was no conscription to call upon themselves.

Copperhead Sympathy.

Our readers do not entertain such visitors as the Pittsburgh Post, and we are not in the habit of referring to it, because we do not care to diffuse the virus which now expends itself within so small a circle. If there are any of them, however, who would consider Governor Curtin a desirable candidate for us, we would be glad that they would note the interest that it betrays in him. There is no Republican paper in this State which seems to discover as much concern, by any means, about our exposure of his public acts as this Copperhead organ in our own city. There are just two reasons for this—one, the conviction that there is no man who can be so easily beaten, and the other, the assurance that there is no man of our party who will suit it so well if elected. Either way, therefore, it would have a good bargain of him.

Morgan's Friends and How he Paid Them.

That Morgan's recent raid was undertaken at the instigation of northern copperheads there would seem to be no doubt whatever. The Indianapolis Journal says:

"Two things are to be noted. Morgan knew before he crossed the river who were his friends and who had arms. Upon entering Corydon he showed a list (and so at Salem) of every citizen who had a Henry rifle or other approved arm, and immediately sent patrols to bring them in. In Corydon the spy was a young man who visited there three weeks before and returned with Morgan. At Salem a deserter from the Sixty-sixth Indiana boldly joined Morgan and was armed by him, but was subsequently captured, and is now in the Salem jail.

"Good judges were always found, and strange as it was, money, in specific sums, was demanded from persons who thought only their best friends knew they had it. Yet with much local treason, the people as a mass, were true, and Morgan himself, in some instances, swore roundly at some who boasted they were opposed to the war, and repeatedly showed favors to others who bravely maintained their attachment to the Union. With here and there an exception, there was no favor shown the copperheads, or those who skulked from the defence of their homes in avowed sympathy with the South. Where the K. G. C.'s were thickest there was full information in Morgan's possession of all he wished to know, but when he got what he wanted he treated his tools as badly as enemies, and bade them good-bye by taking the horses with which they had followed to guide him. Already steps are on foot to detect these men, and some who figured no little in public life, may find the veil too thin to cover the favor they showed the freebooter and his crew."

The Attack upon Charleston—Incidents of the Fight at Fort Wagner.

The New York Evening Post, of Tuesday, says:

"Authentic intelligence from Morris Island to the 21st inst., received in this city through private letters, shows, as the result of Gen. Gilmore's operations, that he now possesses three-fourths of the island, and that although the assault upon Fort Wagner failed, he has succeeded in planting his heavy batteries in a position which commands Fort Sumter. The General is not at all discouraged by his failure at Wagner.

We find in the correspondence of the Philadelphia Inquirer the following incidents of the attack upon the rebel fort:

BARBAROUS TREATMENT OF A BLACK SOLDIER BY THE REBELS.

One of the colored soldiers who had faithfully stood at his post, and refused to fall back, when the rebels drove in our pickets, afterwards brought into our lines. The rebels, not content with having murdered him, had cut both his ears off and scalped him. As his comrades looked upon this hideous sight they grit their teeth and swore never to take another prisoner; and I can assure you that the rebels will find that the Fifty-fourth will retaliate in this case without waiting for special or general orders.

A NEGRO SOLDIER CATCHES A REBEL.

One laughable incident connected with this engagement is as follows: After the rebels had retreated, a colored sergeant belonging to the Fifty-fourth Massachusetts, and very stunted, was seen coming in with a secesh prisoner. The rebel was one of those tall specimens of the chivalry who seem to have been originally intended for astronomical observations, while his captor was a stunted negro who could with ease have walked between the legs of his prize. It was a ludicrous sight—the little contraband, with expanding eyes, large mouth, fiery galoshing, hugging his own arms and those of his prisoner, and beside him was a long-haired, sunken-jawed, wallow-faced specimen of southern vegetation, humbly following his enterprising colored brother.

The Army of the Potomac.

The Army of the Potomac appears to be actively in motion, seriously annoying the forces of the enemy at various points. The Washington Star says that nothing is farther from the truth than that, as some have intimated, General Meade will end his campaign by allowing Lee to get decently out of the way in the direction of Richmond, or assuming our old position on the Rappahannock. It adds:

"Lee has probably succeeded in getting into Eastern Virginia by way of Chester Gap, and is now, it may be, at Culpepper, but there is no rest for the wicked, and both Jeff. Davis and Lee are aware that Meade's army is in a position that threatens infinitely more danger to them than when scattered to watch the various gaps of the mountains, and where, as thus dispersed and divided, it would amount to little more than an army of observation.

"Instead of affairs settling down to the old line of quietude 'along the line of the Rappahannock,' it would not be surprising if the next fortnight witnessed some of the most stirring events of the war."

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.—The Richmond papers declare that the loss of Vicksburg is of no sort of consequence to the rebels. The Montgomery (Ala.) Mail says, on the contrary, that "the conquest of Pennsylvania, and the confiagration of every farm in that State, would not compensate us for the loss of Vicksburg."

SEMPLE CLAY. St. LOUIS, MO.
Having accepted the Agency for the sale of the SEMPLE CLAY, mined near St. Louis, Mo., I invite the attention of Glass and Steel Manufacturers to the Analysis given above, as reported by Profs. A. A. Hayes, of Boston, and J. C. Booth, of Philadelphia, which, together with the test of actual experience by manufacturers in Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis, determines it to be the purest and most valuable Clay now known, whether Fore ga or American. Pots made from it have stood in the Glass Furnace from 6¼ to 9 months.
The Analysis is of the Clay as taken from the mine, without any washing or preparation whatever. It possesses great infusiveness and plasticity qualities, which are not shown by the Analysis, and which admit of the admixture of a large proportion of sand or burned clay.
I am now prepared to fill orders for the above Clay, to be shipped from St. Louis or delivered here.
