From Charleston---The Siege of Fort Wagner---Our Batteries 600 Yards Nearer Sumter---The Army Confident of Success---Exchange of Prisoners---Shocking Barbarity of Rebel Surgeons---The Colored Prisoners Enslaved.

The following letter from the special correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune, contains much recent intelligence of interest:

Morris Island, S. C., July 26, 1863 ;

Yesterday morning at day-break, our iron-sides and monitors again opened on Fort Wagner, and continued firing until 10 o'clock. These vessels have had so much practice of late, that the gunners now seldom waste a shot, and nearly every one falls plump into the fort or upon the walls, or rather the sand-banks, for nothing resembling walls now remain of the structure. Fort Wagner did not reply to this fire, but during the entire day maintained the profoundest silence. Occasionally Fort Gregg answered, and Fort Moultrie from the opposite side of the channel tried twice to reach the ironclads, but fell short. The bastions of the fort, beneath which the bomb-proofs are situated, were breached, in several places, and taken altogether, the day's work was considered the best the navy has yet made.

At 11 o'clock the hospital steamer Cosmopolitan, with wounded rebels on board, met the steamer Alida, of Charleston, off Fort Wagner, under flag of truce, according to an agreement entered into a few days since in reference to an exchange of prisoners.

Col. Hall and Wm. S. Stryker, of Gen. Gillmore's staff, and Dr. Craven, of the Medical Department, represented the Department of the South, and Col. Anderson, of the 12th South Carolina, and Maj. Middleton and Capt. Wagner, of Gen. Ripley's staff, the "C. S. A."

The wounded on board of the Alida were brought to the Cosmopolitan by N. H. Nathans and his corps of Charleston firemen. Bishop Lynch, Roman Catholic Bishop of South Carolina, accompanied the wounded, and was unremitting in his attentions to them. Officers of the rebel army could not have received more delicate or careful attentions from him. His praises are upon every tongue. He repeatedly expressed the hope that this unnatural and cruel war would soon be over, and that the whole country might again be united and prosperous. Thirty-eight rebels (privates) and four surgeons were exchanged for 105 Union wounded, including three officers, one of whom died while being placed on board.

It appears from the very best sources of information that Col. Shaw, of the 54th Massachusetts, instead of having been hung by a Charleston mob, as was believed here on the date of my last letter, was shot in the heart on the engagement, and buried the next morning in a pit with twenty-five negroes.

The Charleston papers, from the 21st to the 24th inst., all say that 656 of our killed were buried on the Sunday morning after the assault. This extraordinary proportion of the killed to the wounded could not have been reached without an indiscriminate murdering of our soldiers, after they had fallen wounded and helpless.

Our entire loss in killed, wounded and missing, according to official report, was but 1,517; if 656 of that number were buried, as rebel officers and rebel newspapers solemnly assert, it was the most fearful slaughter, considering the numbers engaged, of the war.

One hundred and eight of our wounded are still at Charleston and Columbia. The officers and men of the 54th Massachusetts (colored) will not be given up, nor has it yet been positively ascertained what has become of them.

Unofficial reports say the negroes have been sold into slavery, and that the officers are treated with unmeasured abuse.

Of the latter there is no doubt whatever. I have conversed with several officers who were exchanged on Friday, and they all tell me that the first question asked them was whether they commanded negro troops. If the response was in the negative, they were told that it was fortunate for them, for every d—d nigger commander would be hung or shot at sight.

There is but one opinion with regard to the treatment our wounded received in Charleston. It was cruel, shameful, barbarous. Nearly every sentiment of humanity seems to have departed from these South Carolina wretches. The slightest gun-shot wound, which our army surgeons would have soon healed, is immediately suggestive to these fiendish butchers the knife, the saw, amputation, and, in this climate, death.

Every opportunity to mutilate the body by amputation was seized upon, and after the operation was performed, the surgeons seemed profoundly indifferent whether a spark of life remained or not. This shameful treatment was not confined to the severely wounded, but nearly all who were so unfortunate as to fall into their hands.

The officers and soldiers now on board the Cosmopolitan will tell you that they had not a single change of clothing, and in many instances not even their wounds dressed, until they reached the deck of our hospital ship. The Sisters of Mercy offered their services, but were not allowed to enter the wards of the hospital.

On our left we advanced our batteries yesterday, 600 yards nearer Fort Sumter, and threw up sand batteries with four ten-inch mortars to hold our position. By to-morrow evening we shall have at least 200 pounder Parrotts in position on this point.

Two heavy rifled guns opened upon us from Fort Johnson yesterday. By reference to the map it will be seen that this Fort will be able to deliver quite a severe enfilading fire when we open upon Sumter. She has already thrown shell two hundred yards over the batteries. Lieut. Col. Leggat, of the 10th Conn., had his right leg taken off on Friday by one of them.

A GLANCE at the map will inform the reader of the vast territory wrested from the power of the rebellion during the last two years. In the West, we have accomplished a mighty work. If, in the East, the results do not seem so decisive, it must be remembered that victory there is greatly dependent upon victory elsewhere. Never before had we so much reason to anticipate triumph in Virginia and South Carolina. The loss of the Mississippi invites to the Confederacy the loss of Richmond and Charleston. Every month will now show the increasing weakness of the rebellion. The concentration of rebel armies in the East, may give for a time a superficial show of strength; but the exhaustion elsewhere will have its speedy effect.

THE NEW YORK EXPRESS IN THE HANDS OF A RECEIVER.—The New York Tribune says:

The New York Express establishment has been placed in the hands of a receiver; one of its editors and proprietors (Mr. Clark) being utterly and irresponsibly disinclined with its disloyal tone and attitude, and insisting on a partition of its interests. The concern will probably be sold at auction, and bought in by the Messrs. J. & E. Brooks, who have by far the heaviest interest, so that no improvement in its character need be hoped for, though there is great and urgent need of it.

An Act of Villainy.

A correspondent of the Boston Traveller, writing from Sharpsburg an account of Gen. Kilpatrick's charge on the enemy's rear guard, near Downsville, relates the occurrence of a dastardly act, as follows:

On Tuesday Gen. Kilpatrick got within half a mile of the enemy's rear guard, near Downsville, when our spies discovered that lines of rifle pits were ready to contest their advance. These works were erected on the brow of quite a large hill, and General Kilpatrick at once resolved to feel the strength of his foe. Two companies of the 6th Michigan cavalry, B and F, were ordered to charge up the hill to the earthworks, which was done in fine style. As our men dashed in sight, the rebels were seen to throw down their arms and hoist a flag of truce.

Supposing, of course, the enemy had surrendered, they continued on, and when within fifty or sixty feet the entire rebel force, which must have numbered from 700 to 1,000 men, raised their rifles and fired upon our men, taking them completely by surprise.

Finding the force so much larger than they anticipated, our men gave them a volley and fell back to the main body of the cavalry. The rebels, after completely stripping the victims of their infamous treachery of shoes and stockings, fled to a dense piece of woods three miles beyond, carrying off their dead and wounded. I visited the scene of their hellish plot in order to obtain a list of the casualties, and a more revolting spectacle never presented itself.

In all directions, as far as the eye could reach on the top of the hill, lay the lifeless remains of our brave defenders, the warm blood oozing from their mortal wounds in streams that formed in pools amid the grass, while at their side, bleeding, lay their faithful chargers, stiff in death, the sharers of their fate. A knot of soldiers gathered around the bodies of the slain, swearing eternal revenge upon the dastardly assassins who so cowardly shot their heroic comrades, and then bayoneted them. This is a horrible fact, which I witnessed personally—after killing our men, they pierced their bodies with bayonets and swords, robbed the dead of their finger-rings, boots, stockings, hats, and every article of value.

The Great Northwest---Important Discovery.

We have to communicate to our readers today intelligence which, if fully established by further examination and inquiry, will add new life to the zeal of Nor'-western adventurers, and hasten the opening up of the territory at a rate which will outrun the anticipations of the most sanguine. For some time it has been known that gold was to be found on the Saskatchewan river, near the Rocky mountains, and it was presumed that it had been washed by the river from the gold bearing rocks of these mountains, and would consequently be found only in the beds of the rivers, and not elsewhere in the territory. Recent discoveries indicate that this view of the matter is not correct, and that in order to find the gold of the Northwest, it will not be necessary to traverse the whole breadth of the great plains to the head waters of the Saskatchewan.

Gold has been discovered at Fort Ellice on the Assiniboine, and also on branches of the Qu' Appelle river, streams which unite and run into the Red river, and have no connection with the Rocky Mountain range. Of this fact there can be no doubt. It is not only communicated by letter from Red river, but Governor Dallas, of Hudson's Bay Company, who has recently arrived from the territory, is personally cognizant of the discovery.

We understand that Governor Dallas washed cold with his own hands at Fort Edmonton on the Saskatchewan, and in further proof of the existence of the precious metal, we may add that large numbers of the Selkirk people have gone West to enter upon regular mining operations.—Toronto Globe.

Immigration from Europe.

Neither the war nor the conscription can check the tide of immigration from Europe to this country. On the contrary, it seems to be steadily increasing. During the past week the arrivals at New York amounted to 4,186—enough to make a population for quite a respectable town. Since the first of January, there have arrived at New York 86,509 human beings, which is just about double the number that arrived during the same period last year. There is no precedent in all history for the fact that we have here stated. That a country distracted by a gigantic rebellion, with a great national debt accumulating, and with an apparent necessity for pulling every able-bodied man into the military service, should still be the chosen refuge and asylum for the people of the prosperous and peaceful countries of Europe, is something wholly anomalous. The monarchists, the aristocrats, the capitalists, the politicians and the press-writers of England and France may condemn and abuse the United States as much as they please. They may go on with their ornamental utterances about the destruction of the American Republic. They have no effect upon the masses of their people; for thousands of them are flocking weekly to our shores, to unite their fortunes with those of the American people. In these free, loyal Northern States there are peaceful homes for all of them, in spite of the war; and on our farms, in our mines, our factories, furnaces and workshops, there is work for them all, with good wages. The immigration during the war will far more than make up the losses to our population.—Phila. Bulletin.

From Vicksburg and the Southwest.

A special dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette, dated Vicksburg, July 26, says:

Johnston is believed to be making for Mobile rapidly. Our scouts so report.

Herron and his division have gone to Mobile.

Ord, with his corps, came into the city yesterday. Sherman is encamped on the Big Black.

There is considerable sickness this hot weather.

The very best of accounts come up from below. Ransom is still at Natchez. His brigade, now a division, is in the best health and spirits, and thoroughly recuperated. It will be heard from at other points from below before
