Political Philosophy of the Metropolis

The National Intelligencer has an article entitled "Maxims of Political Degeneracy," in which it takes as its text some remarks addressed by us to the members of the State Convention which recently assembled here.

We have unlearned no maxim whatever, unless the general truths we have stated, or the ideas of the necessity of accountability in the candidate, are to be considered.

We have also printed a letter from Mr. Brewster, of New York, Chairman of the Naval Committee, giving a quietus to Laird's story about the Navy Department at Washington having proposed his agent to have gunboats and iron-clads built in England.

Recent accounts show that the attempts of conscripts to escape are met by the most wanton cruelties by the rebels, who do not attempt to shoot them, but shoot them down like wild beasts whenever and wherever found.

It is in the nature of the expression of the will in form of a vote to be corrected. If it is in the principle of representatives, we must of course give up the idea of representative government entirely, as being altogether impracticable.

Upon the theory of the Intelligencer, we should never vote at all, and allow the knaves to govern in their own way, merely because we cannot have our own choice.

NEITHER SCARED NOR HURT

During the recent political canvass in Kentucky, Mr. Mallory, member of Congress elected as depicted as an abolitionist by his opponent.
