WILLIAM A. WARD, DENTIST, Exchange Building, 3d floor, back entrance on Liberty street. Office hours from 9 a. m. till 3 p. m. In order to a proper understanding on the part of those who may call upon me, I deem it my duty to distinguish some of the things common in the practice of dentistry, which, I do not do. In the first place I do not give a day's credit to any one. I do not manufacture Teeth for sale. I do not recommend by their extraction, sound, healthy teeth, in order to insert artificial ones; I do not, in any instances destroy the nerves of teeth, thereby rendering them liable to the most painful disease, and then recommend by their loss the more certain. These, and numerous other things which I could specify, I do not do. In the choice of materials proper for filling the teeth, I make but a limited use of gold, experience having proved it the least of all efficient in their preservation. In all cases, however, involving the appearance of the teeth, I do not hesitate to make use of it. As to the quality of fillings or plugs of gold, a number of which I inserted in the years 32-33-'52 are still bearing testimony to my workmanship, or perhaps I should say mechanical skill. jy18:1y

The Post on Degeneracy.

The leading editorial article of the Pittsburgh Post of this morning contains the following gem:

"And yet, the principal business of the leading Abolitionists of the State, at the present time, is the inculcation of negro equality and amalgamation, insisting that the latter will improve the capabilities of both races."

This article is headed "Political Degeneracy," and the burthen of it is, that the Republican Party is the most corrupt organization which has ever disgraced the land, and its aim is, to show that the restoration of the Democracy will bring back that virtue which seems to exist, according to the Post, in tradition only.

It is a sufficient rejoinder to say, that no party which has the misfortune to number such adherents, in its fold, as the writer of that article, can, by any possibility, ever hope to correct the degeneracy of any other party, or preserve even the shadow of virtue in its own.

That any Abolitionist—leader or otherwise—at this or any other time; has inculcated "negro equality" or "amalgamation," insisting that both races would be improved thereby, is so disgusting a falsehood, such utter mendacity, that any man guilty of asserting it, by that action, puts himself outside the pale of common decency; and unless the exhibition of such traits of character as this article indicates shall stagger our convictions on this point, we never can be brought to believe this theory, which the imagination of the writer puts forth—although we are willing to admit now, our own belief, that as an exceptional case, the "admixture" of any blood would prove a great improvement to the "capabilities" and character of the author of the above extract.

While the Post fails to give the proper remedy, it most certainly is successful in proving and illustrating both moral and "political degeneracy," in its most disgusting aspect.

From Charleston.

The N. Y. Tribune's correspondent at Morris Island, writes on the 7th inst:

Gen. Gilmore's position is now impregnable, and should the whole male population of South Carolina resolve itself into an army, it could not drive him from it. When he will again assume the offensive it would not be proper for me to state, but the moment he is prepared to strike the final blow I have not the least doubt of his success. He has now everything he could ask in men. His little army has suddenly increased to quite a formidable one.

The troops of the old Tenth Army Corps who have so long and so faithfully worked in the trenches, will have an opportunity to rest. Fresh men have taken hold of the spade and axe, and with firm will and nerve have gone to work, although the enemy's shells by day and night burst around them. The 1st North Carolina (negro) regiment, Col. Beecher, are in the trenches, and are fast gaining the good will of the white troops at work beside them. Negro soldiers in one particular have the advantage of white ones. They can work all night and then lie upon their backs in the sand and sleep soundly during the hot midday. Not so white soldiers, unaccustomed, as they but little during the day. They will work all night for six or seven days, sleep but little during the day, and at the close of the week be fit for the hospits-.

If Gen. Gilmore could have had 20,000 negroes six weeks ago, he could have to day been in Charleston.

During the past week Fort Wagner has been in a state of siege. Several efforts have been made during the night to reinforce it with troops and supply it with provisions, but all attempts thus far have failed. Our heavy guns reach the boats by night and by day, and in every instance they have been driven back. The only communication with Charleston is by small boats via Sullivan's Island, and but two are known to have reached the fort from that direction. Wagner starved out and reduced by continued cannonading, Sumter must fall, and after Sumter, Charleston.

The Big Gun at Charleston---What it Can Do.

The Washington Republican says:

The breaching power of the 10-inch 800-pounder Parrott rifled gun, now about to be used against the brick walls of Fort Sumter, will be best understood by comparing it with the ordinary 24-pounder siege gun, which was the largest gun employed for breaching fortifications during the Italian war.

A 24-pounder round shot, which starts with a velocity of 1,635 feet per second, strikes an object at the distance of 3,800 yards with a velocity of about 300 feet per second.

The 10-inch rifle 800-pound shot has an initial velocity of 1,111 feet, and has afterwards a remaining velocity of 700 feet per second at a distance of 3,500 yards.

From well-known mechanical laws, the resistances which these projectiles are capable of overcoming is equal to 63,750 pounds and 1,914,150 pounds, raised one foot in a second respectively. Making allowance for the difference of the diameters of these projectiles, it will be found that their penetrating power will be as 1 to 19.6.

The penetration of the 24-pounder shot at 3,500 yards, in brick work, is 42 inches. The penetration of the 10-inch projectile will therefore be between six and seven feet into the same material.

To use a more familiar illustration—the power of the 10-inch rifle shot at the distance of 3,500 yards may be said to be equal to that of the united blows of 200 sledge hammers weighing 100 pounds each, falling from a height of ten feet, and acting upon a drill ten inches in diameter.

GOV. GAMBLE recently met with a serious accident on the cars between Washington and Philadelphia. He had gone to Washington from Philadelphia, to adjust some difficulty that had arisen about the payment of the Missouri State militia, and was on his return to Philadelphia. While sitting in the cars, he inadvertently placed his elbow out the window, when it came in contact with some object outside, and was instantly crushed, the bones being broken, and the muscles badly lacerated.

THE TROUBLES OF AN OLD MAID.—In Perth, Scotland, a maiden lady, sixty years of age, was recently brought before the police court, charged with causing a nuisance by keeping eleven cats with their increase. The magistrate ordered all but one kitten to be killed. Before leaving, the accused exclaimed, "Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord, and I will repay." She also gave the pedigree of several of her cats, amidst the laughter of a crowded court.

The Murders at Island 10---Another Version of the Affair.

We have published a statement that the murder of a family, of the name of Beckham, at Island No. 10, was perpetrated by negro soldiers. A correspondent of the St. Louis Democrat, who says he has inquired into the facts, tells a different story. He says:

The facts are substantially as follows: A negro woman, the mother of two children, had been for months severely abused by the family of her owner, and finally escaped to the contraband colony at Island 10, leaving her two children with her master. It soon came to the ears of her mother that the children were daily dogged and otherwise tortured in consequence of her escape, with an intimation that this remedy would be faithfully followed up until her return. Under this state of the case, a party of negro laborers on the island—men who were not and never had been in the military service of the United States—went down to the plantation (in Tennessee) to recover the children.

On arriving there they found but one of the children; the other had been "run off." High words passed at this meeting, and there were threats of shooting on both sides, the negroes promising to return in a few days for the other child, and threatening summary vengeance upon the slaveholder unless the absent child should be forthcoming. Promptly as they had promised, they returned. The child was not found. An altercation occurred in which the negroes were the victors, the killing ensuing he has been published. Whether they fired first, or were fired upon, I am unable to learn. Some of the party were desperate characters—made so by the ineffable brutalities of slavery—but not one of them had been enlisted into the United States service. They were simply casual laborers, and had stolen away unobserved. Their absence was a secret to all but those concerned in the raid.

The part which the negro soldiers who were in that vicinity really took in the matter was, to hunt up, arrest, and deliver to the authorities here, all of the alleged murderers who could be found.

The murderers are in the military prison here, and there need be no fear that justice will not be meted out to them.

The Collapse of the Rebel Loan in England---The Rebels Abroad Filled with Dismay.

The London Daily News, of the 30th July, says:

The sudden collapse of the Confederate loan has not unnaturally filled the calculating friends of the South in this country with dismay. This stock, which on its introduction to the English market was so skillfully manipulated as to be quoted at a premium, has, during the last few days, sunk by successive plunges to twenty discount.

On Tuesday morning, indeed, it could not be disposed of at any price, however low, but a few sales were eventually effected at seventeen discount. Yesterday, while other kinds of foreign stock rose, the Shareholders' Loan still retained its alarming position of severe and exceptional depression. Under these circumstances it is hardly surprising that the panic of the Shareholders' agents and representatives in this country should be extreme.

This sudden fall in their favorite stock shows that the arts by which it has been so long supported are beginning to fail, that the outside world can no longer be deceived by smooth prophesies of southern successes, but is taking the measure of current events for itself. It shows that the resources of plausible mystification are nearly exhausted, and that the public are beginning to exercise their own judgment on American affairs. The Confederacy has clever agents and advocates in this country, as it has able leading men in America, and they have done their work well.

Their representations have induced a number of ignorant and innocent people not only to believe in the omnipotence of the Confederate cause, but to invest their savings in its so-called cotton loan. But facts are stubborn things, and in the end break down the most skillfully-constructed fictions, however long or loudly they may be reiterated.

The inevitable crash is rapidly approaching as its victims begin already to discern. The desperate game of speculation is nearly played out, and the public are beginning to see the Confederates in their true character.

Tennessee Refugees.

The Louisville Journal says, that on Wednesday last, nearly three hundred refugee Tennesseans arrived at Lexington under charge of Colonel Lane, after a terrible journey of two weeks in the mountains. In Powell's valley a large rebel force of cavalry attacked them, and, though but a part of the fugitives were armed; they rushed upon their assailants with a yell, and, cutting a passage through them, compelled them to retreat. The rebels, however, carried off sixty or seventy of the Tennesseeans as prisoners, who were too much exhausted by fatigue and hunger to make any resistance. Two thousand souls, another large body of these sorely afflicted Union martyrs reached Lexington, and they are coming in continually.

They are entirely destitute, with bare heads and feet. Old men
