

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE

The council that assented to the resignation of the Rev. Mr. Fry from the pastorate of the First Congregational Church at Fall River, Mass., made some sharp lines that apply with equal force to other congregations.

They said the ministry of this pastor has fallen among a people, some of whom indulge great fondness for car and team, and are constantly and sharply critical in all the qualities of literary composition, and with not a few others of whom acceptances is not much the possession of the spirit of the Master.

Admiral von Cowanitz—On Saturday night, while the 12th Pennsylvania regiment was on picket about half a mile from Washington, seven of the soldiers straggled out and were standing around the fire when a man in the dress of a Union soldier rode between them and their arms and their hands were commanded to surrender and go with him. They all obeyed, and he marched them to a house, wrote out a parole, which they accepted, and sent them back to camp. When they returned, it was found that the man who rode between them when they surrendered. They were all put under arrest for cowardice.

The Oil Speculators—The Franklin (Pa.) says: Notwithstanding the depression in the price of oil, speculation in both land and working interests was never more active. Land holders in the oil region are now asking five-eighths of the oil and are getting it. The constant diminution in the aggregate quantity obtained, is opening the eyes of landholders to the fact that a time must arrive when the scarcity of the article will greatly enhance its value; and hence they hold their interests at high prices.
