FRIDAY MORNING, NOV. 20, 1863.

Shall we have another draft?
By order of the Board of General Agents, the Board of General Agents is required to publish in alphabetical order, by at least five names in every sub-district, the names of all men enrolled. Notice will be given by advertisement on the printed lists, and in the newspapers, that any person enrolling himself before the Board and claiming to have his name stricken off, prior to the issue of the draft, shall be held liable to answer for the same, except after the draft, such as illness, non-residence, unsuitability of age, manifest and permanent physical disability, &c.

This publication will enable the people of sub-districts to discover any suspicious mistakes in names, which have been made by enrolling officers, all of which they are requested to report to the Board, so that equal justice may be done to all parties.

This is a very important order, and its effect will be to render the next draft far more profitable to men for service than the last. But another effect, which will be greatly to increase the chance of able-bodied men to be drawn; for it will leave the lists very considerably reduced.

It is certain, we believe, that a strong effect will be made to induce Congress, early in the next session, to enact a law, which will be greatly to increase the chance of able-bodied men to be drawn; for it will leave the lists very considerably reduced.

There is, however, a way—a good, honorable, profitable way—to avert this evil, but inflexible indignity, and that is by filing up the quota of each sub-district by volunteers, who will not only receive the liberal bounty offered by the government, but be entitled to choose the regiments in which they desire to serve.

Suppose the allotment to a district to be twenty-five men, and that the aggregate of the bounty to those twenty-five men, supposing them to be all raw recruits, would be $7,500, which would be all lost to the district under the draft. Then suppose twenty-five men are drawn; they must either go or find substitutes.

With a little spirit, energetic, concerted and liberal effort on the part of the district, the quota can be filled up by the supply for the Union prisoners at Richmond, that the quota can be filled up by the supply for the Union prisoners at Richmond, that the quota can be filled up by the supply for the Union prisoners at Richmond.

The announcement in our despatches to-day, that the rebels have refused to supply for the Union prisoners at Richmond, that the quota can be filled up by the supply for the Union prisoners at Richmond, that the quota can be filled up by the supply for the Union prisoners at Richmond.

The Missouri Election.

The Missouri Election has just been held, and the result is a triumph for the Union cause. The Union ticket has carried the State, and the rebels have been defeated.

The election of D. Grant Brown as a great triumph for humanity and freedom. He is a man of high character and ability, and his election is a great honor to the State.
