A "Volcanic Demon" in Richmond.

The Richmond Examiner, of the 24th, alleges the discovery of a plot which has been recently matured for the liberation of the Union prisoners in that city, and adds that General [illegible], recently commanding the Department of North Carolina and East Virginia, was the author of the existence of such a plot, and gave it aid and countenance, promising to raise a force of cavalry ready to protect the rear of the released prisoners, and to supply them with arms to enable them to cut their way to Federal Masters. The Examiner continues:

"The plot, it has been further learned, included the abduction of the seventy generals now in close confinement in the city, and the seizure of the navy yard and gunboats at the navy yard. We will not intimate that this [illegible] have been carried out. We would rather congratulate the people of Richmond on their delivery from the possibility of such frightful scenes as might have ensued had the plot proceeded to open revolt.

"Few who slept quietly in their homes at night were aware that a fiend dreamed of the volcano [illegible] that reigned slumber in their midst, awaiting the propitious hour for the burst of its fiery contents and [illegible] in flame and blood."

In Effective Blockade.

[illegible] recent letter to the New York [illegible] the Secretary of the Navy calls attention to the fact that, whereas the demand for a blockade was based upon the necessity of [illegible] Mr. Welles says [illegible]
