The Great Calamity in Chill. The Great Calamity in Chill.

The appalling calamity at the city of Santiago, Chili, in which twenty-five hundred persons, principally young girls and children, a large proportion of whom were of the wealthy and aristocratic classes, were reasted to death in the Jesuit Cathedral of that city, on the ovening of the 8th of December, (which in that country corresponds with our June,) while it sends a thrill of herror throughout the world, is likely to be followed with consequences of great importance to that country, and even to all South America.

The cathedral, which was the scene of this great calamity, was a large, strong and massive building, with one principal entrance in the side, and some smaller entrances, obstructed by screans, in other parts of the building. Twice, during the pass attempt years, it has been consumed by fire, attended with lamentable loss of life; but it seems that no experience could teach the vain and hesotted priests who had the control of it, to take proper precautions against a recurrence of such disasters, either in the means of exit, or in the arsangement of the lights and ornaments. A few years ago an engineer proposed to light it with gas, but the priest Uoantra, who had the control of it, to take proper precautions against a recurrence of such disasters, either in the means of exit, or in the arsangement of the lights and ornaments. Such was the funeral pile which ignorance, superstillion and fannticism had prepared for these hapless victims.

It was on the last night, and at the grandest ceremonial, of "The Month of Mary"—s feast beginning on the 8th of December, and closing on the 8th of Mosember, and closing on the 8th of December, in honor of the immaculate Conception of the Virgin—that this terrible "Evening Sacrifee," as one of the Santiago editors most slignificantly termed it, took place. The cathedral was lighted up with festoms of innumerable lamps, filled with the farms or other industrial pursuits of the campbene, in dangerous proximity to the tawdry drapery before spoken of. The priest Ugarte was to preach, and another, lately from Rome, was also to officiate. The latter had remarked that the lighting up of that cathedral was not equal to what he had seen in Rome, to which Ugarte sting by the depreciating comparison, replied that he would show him an illumination that night surpassing anything he eversus with in Rome, and verily he made good his swell be read in Rome, and verily he made good his

At this heartless conduct on the part of the officiating priests it is said the people are fearfully exasperated, and the resolve has been taken with great unanimity that the cathedral shall be rared, until not one stone is left upon another. This, however, the priests with unabated insolence, oppose, and are threatening to fling abroad their scounsioned anathemas against all who resist its re-crection. A struggle between priestly and popular power will probably ensue, the end of which it is not easy to see.
