What is to be done about it? Two things first, organizo an emancipation party pledged to work for the complete abolition within the State limits of the pestilent treason-breeding institution; second, the national government must enforce its laws at every hazard. Upon the first point we are assured by all the evidence that reaches us that there will soon be powerful emancipation party organized la Legislature and the Louisville Journal The border State convention of radical Louisville on Monday next will have much As for the other point, if Congress decides quire the enrolling of slaves, they must be mrolled and drafted. Progress of the Anti Slavery Scottment

From the New York Express.

"All feel that slavary has gone by the board. Politically, it was dead before the war began. Physically, it is now dead, and ought not, for one moment, to enter into any discussion relating to the war, any more than anything else that is dead beyond all hope of resurrection. The border State men all see this. Slavaholders in the Cotton States are beginning to see and acknowledge this truth. Nobody needs to be convinced that both the political and physical power of slavary are over in the United States. We need ne argument from Mr. Gantt to assure us of this fact, of the folly of the South in making the slavery question a pretent for the war. War from the very start was more of an abolitionist than any army of Gartions and Phillipses and Gerrit Smiths." From the Chicago Post.

"We have from the commencement of the war expressed through the columns of this paper the belief that the Rebellion would be the virtual destruction of slavery." To the foregoing, we add the following clipping, from the able organ of Arch-bishop Purcell, of Cincinnati, which shows that the Catholic Church is taking high moral and patrictic ground on the anti-
