of twenty-five millions of dollars, it is only accessary to roply that, if ninety millions have been already paid for bounties since the let of January, why higgle now about the payment of one-fourth that sum with recruits coming in at the rate of 2,000 a day?

The bounty policy having been adopted, should be persevered in as long as it is productive of such good results. The penultary objection might have had some uniary objection might have had some weight two months ago; it clearly has none ment bounties ceased. That enthusiasm will be immediately revived if the payment of bounties be extended to the lat of April and the draft be posiponed to the same time. As matters stand now, however, recruiting has virtually stopped, although committees are grill collections.

As matters at and now, however, recruiting has virtually stopped, although and 4 o'clock p. m. THES R. EDDING COLLEGE COMMITTEES. committees are still collecting money in the hope of a resumption of Government bounties. We submit that, if volunteers make better soldiers than drafted men, the people of every district in the North should have another opportunity to fill their quotas with volunteers when the property of and is covered to the state of the Dimes of the Dime with volunteers, when the prospect of their being able to do so is so promising one of our representatives at Harrisburg, a neatly-printed pamphlet of ten pages defending the Pennsylvania Roserves from the aspersions cast upon their soldierly qualities in General McClellan's reports of it comprises General McCall's reports of the battles of Mechanicsville, Gaines' Mills and New Market Crots Roads, together the battles of Mechanicsville, Gaines Mills and New Market Cross Roads, together with the General's testimony before the Joint Committee on the Conduct of the War, and the testimony of many of the living division, brigade, line and company officers of the entire Reserve corps, including Gen. Meads. The united testimony of Gen. Meads. The united testimony of Gen. Meads in the contribute to the following resolutions to contribute to the source of the entire Reserve corps, including Gen. Reserves were not routed in the battle of the we'k at the tchool House, to New Market Cross Roads, as charged by FIRST NATIONAL BANK, Gen. McClealay. On the contrary, never did soldiers fight more heroically and against greater odds than did the Reserves in the three battles we have named. And to gather his once proud and powerful army under the protection of the gunboats in James river. tomso than by the Pennsylvania Reserves. The Amnesty Proclamation and its The President's Amnesty Proclamation has called forth many able and severe criticisms, even from quarters whence the measures of the Administration have not generally been met with such a hostile fire. Of course we do not refer to the openly avowed opponents of the Government, who make indiscriminate onslaughts upon every measure which it either proposes or adopts. We mean that this particular measure has We mean that this particular measure has divided even the hosts of friends who have ranged themselves hitherto, everywhere and always, on the side of the policy of the Government. Apropos of this subject we find in the Chicago Tribune, of Tuesday, the following molice of a fair critic, whose wonder-losing molice of a fair critic, whos lowing notice of a fair critic, whose wonderful elequence and fervid patriotism have made her name familiar to us all. : Miss Dickinson, in her discourse last night as exceedingly severe on the President Miss Dickinson, in har discourse last signs, was accordingly severe on the President's Amnesty Proclamation. She pointed out many objections to it and predicted that great vills would result from it. But a single hard fact will often times knock over the strongest theory and upset the finest reasoning. We invite her attention to what one of our correspondents with Grant's army writes, in regard to the effect of the amnesty on the rebet solders, and we vouch for his truthfulness and reliability. He says: "Three knodred deserters are coming into our lines cach day; many of them bringing their arms and amunitions along with them." Here: is an actual less of 2,000 men's weak to Johnston's army. Is it not better to conquer them thus, then to kill them."

Zo., &c., &c., &c.

The Plantation Bitters make the weak strong, the inaguid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Ca-linaya Bark, Wintergreen, Sassafras, Roots, Harbs, &c., all preserved in portectly pure St. Creix Rum. s. T.-1860-X. Persons of sedemiary habits, troubled with weak-ness, lamitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of ap-pailts, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipa-tion, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try them.

They are recommanded by the highest medice uthorities, and are warranted to produce an immelists beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agrees ble, perfectly pure, and harmiess.
