It seems now to be generally concoded that Gen. McClellar may be seen and forty feether of Luod, state to fit to the Presidency, Gen. Grant for the Presidency, Gen. Grant having peremptorily declined any smilliation with the leaders of that party. McClellar is the only member of their party who can be considered at all available, and hence they will be a formidable candidate. As the Democracy in the next campaign will be both for the war and against it, General McClellar cannot be objectionable to either wing. He has a convenient record on each side of that question. The Democracy, too, may, or it may not, abolish slavery in their Chicago platform. McClellar can take either horn of the dilemma with the seed of the towars and the dilemma with sean take either horn of the dilemma with the seed of the seed of the season, which can part to a point of the season, which can part to the can be right hand man of John Morgan a common guerrilla and borre thef.

of the loval North.

We wish there was as much harmony in We indorse every word of the following:

a Presidential candidate as there is in the ranks of the Opposition. But there is not. Worse still, there is an acrimony existing among our party friends, produced by the discussion of the claims of rival aspirants for the Presidency, which bodes no good to our cause unless it soon gives way to the demands of a pure and unselfish patriotism. Many men of prominence who have heretofore supported the Administration in its efforts to crush the Rebellion are now occurpying a position of undisguised hostillity to the re-election of Mr. Lincoln. To this there could be no objection if facts were adhered to and moderation regarded. But me facts adhered to, and is moderation practiced? Let the Pomeroy eligular answer. Hints are also thrown out in certain quarters that a large and influential class of our foreign-born editiens cannot be relied upon to vote the Union ticket, unless a sandidate of their gwn choice be selected by the National Union Convention. a Presidential candidate as there is in the sentiments of the Cincinnati Commercial: the Union ranks concerning the choice of be relied upon to vote the Union ticket, unless a sandidate of their own choice be selested by the National Union Convention.

Meantime we learn from Washington that prominent members of the Union party in Congress are engaged almost daily in washting their dirty linen before the whole country—vilifying their superiors in office country-villifying their superiors in office and reciting their own grievances to the in finite delight of all the Copporheads.

We do not undertake to say who is responsible for this unhappy state of affairs. The remove that the relations between the factions now existing in the Union ranks. But there is no difficulty in tracing the cause of the mischief to its true source. All there family quarrels originate in the selfshness of a few roliticians—in disappointments, in bigotry of opinion, in strivings for honors and offices. Those who foment these quarrels are playing into the hands of the common enemy. They are halping the Copperheads every day that they are continued. And justias sarely as the second Tuesday of next November rolls around, the Union party willbe a broken and defeated political organization if ken and defeated political organization if
