The Spring Election. To-morrow the election for borough an township officers will take place throughout this county. We are informed that in many of the districts much apathy is prevailing among our friends, and that in others they have allowed what are delusively styled "citizens' tickets" to be canvassed [for opposition. Do our friends realize the risks they are running by pursuing this policy, or rather no-policy? It shever safe for a political party to abandon its organi-sation, even at a township election. The old Democratic party never did so. Its Success was as much owing to its thorough discipline and the buil-uog tenacity with which is adhered to its organization as to any other circumstance. The Union party of to-day should learn a lesson from the history of its once mighty rival. Our of the first acts of Maximilian, when he Man-bester, Feb. 25th, 1844. mbl:id history of its once mighty rival. Our friends, if they hope to be successful next fall in the State and Procidential classifications, should insist upon the integrity of their party organization now. A party as certainly as an army bromes demand for mon and we may find one possible solution of this carried by a laxity of discipline, even if party as certainly as an army becomes demonatized by a laxity of discipline, even if that two years keen and close observors have perceived that National was approaching us by siy and cautious advances, like a car, ready to make the spring at the opportune moment. The One Term Principle. A newly-fledged cotemporary, in its issue of Wednesday, has an article proposing several amendments to the Federal Consti tution, among the number the following: tution, among the number the following:
"We would, without sanoment's bentation, amend the Constitution so as to stabilish the one term principle in regard to those offices (the Presidency and Vice Presidency, le we have never seen nor heard any argument against doing so that did not constal within itself its own redutation. Indeed, we have never seen nor heard any one oppose such an amendment, unless he was either actuates by interested motives or was no conservative that he thought that nothing was a to take to tolerated.

At the risk of being consigned to the 'conservative' class above mentioned, we timidly venture to differ with our cotemporary, and with the source from which draws its inspiration, the New York Tribune. The "principle" above expressed has recently found warm advocates among those who are in favor of turning Mr. Lin.

Colonel Streight's Charges against County Convention of the Republican United Streight Street Stre do not say that our cotemporary is in this category; we know that the Tribune is. Hence much of the milk in the cocoanut Aside from this, it seems to us that the of stating the "rotate-you-out-of-office-andretate-me-in" doctrine, which gentlemen 'actuated by interested motives' have always been loud in proclaiming.
