ton, John Karns, Kictor M'Il Torrence and John Young, Jr. Perhaps the benefits to be derived from enilisting in the gunboat service are not fully understood. The pay is better; the quarters and rations are better, and there are none of the exhausting hardships resulting from long marchas and the deprivations and exposure attending field service. Exchiman is entitled to two months advance pay and a share of prise money resulting from the capture of vessels, cotton, &c. By a decision of the Pravost Marshal General all enlistments in the Navy are credited to the quotas of the district in which the men belong.
